MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—In most general respects the story differs very little regarding the condition of market for Common Hards from what has been given during the preceding two or three weeks. The changes since our last, however, are generally for the better, price in particular having stiffened with an average gain of about 12½c. per M and $4 25 now inside and $5 more generally admitted, enough so at least to make it an established quotation. Demand is good and broad enough to embrace a call from all sources of custom, including dealers and the large consumers who buy by the cargo, and against the outlet is an offering sufficient to permit prompt deliveries with just a sufficient overrun to leave a small surplus against any sudden contingency. There did not appear to be anything very new from primal points, a great many manufacturers still keeping up shipments, but in one way or another the tendency being to gradually curtail the quantity forwarded. This in any case would be a natural condition of the season, but will not become very pronounced until heavy frost effectually shuts off further production. In matter of quality the average appears to be kept well up to former level, and premiums are only paid by a few buyers who think they must have certain favorite brands.

GLASS.—Reports indicate a good and growing business, with prices firm, but not much if any further advance contemplated in the movement lest importations be stimulated. The majority of manufacturers, large jobbers, etc, speak well of the recent combination, but there are some dissenting views best shown in the following extract from an editorial recently published in a trade paper devoting much attention to the glass trade. After fully stating the optimistic view of the case the article proceeds: "Despite this cheerful view, however, many are inclined to the opinion that the plan presents defects that sooner or later will lead to confusion and discord among the parties to the arrangement and ultimately bring about its disruption. It is cited that the idea upon which the central agency plan is founded is not new to the glass trade; that similar experiments have been tried before without much success, and that the conditions that brought disaster upon former enterprises of this character can easily arise in the present instance. No provision is made for controlling the production of window glass, buyers are practically denied the right to select brands of their own preference, the distributing agent possesses the authority, if he chooses to assert it, of discriminating arbitrarily against any factory in apportioning the orders, and so far as the small jobbers are concerned the new price list is said to be decidedly objectionable, as it places them at a greater disadvantage than ever. These and other reasons are mentioned in support of the view that the manufacturers will experience disappointment in their undertaking, but if failure should ensue it is worthy of remark that their present plan is being introduced under more encouraging conditions than has any other important movement in the window-glass business for a very long time."

LATH.—The market has had a test and stood it well, sellers retaining advantage without apparent difficulty. There was quite a large arrival at the end of last week and fore part of this, but a portion had been previously sold, and for those that were offered receivers report comparatively little difficulty in securing custom, buyers paying about former rates at, say, $1.70@1.75, according to quantity, delivery, etc. Advices from the eastward report light work at the mills running, which are much less in number than usual at this season, and there seems to be no fear of a surplus from any of the regular sources of supply.

LIME.—Matters have become still worse, and receivers are placed at a greater disadvantage than ever. For some reason or the other manufacturers do not appear to have known properly how difficult it is to place even an ordinary amount of stock on this market, and have sent along a great deal more than was required, the arrivals during the past ten days running up very full without any compensating increase of demand. Prices have in consequence suffered and the shading is now down to 70c. for common and 75c. for lump and even those figures only bring orders of a sort of routine character, buyers refusing to anticipate future wants.

THE stock market has taken the depressing news of the week very well, all things considered. This is due to the faith of holders in the value of railroad securities chiefly; because, had there been any large desire to sell long stock in the existing condition of the market, with buying almost as poor as it possibly can be, there would have been a great impression made on quotations. As the week closed the news was of a better character. The indications are that the London market will not be a disturbing influence, the day of reckoning in Kaffirs having not yet come. At home the evident fact that the Eastern Trunk line managers are making a sincere effort to deal with the problem of rates, is not without its influence for good, although there are doubts whether their work will be successful, the difficulties presented being so great. Another item of interest is the association of the names of gentlemen identified with Vanderbilt interests with the reorganization of Union Pacific. So many interests have from time to time endeavored to get the Government to terms on this matter that the operations of a new one to that end cannot fail to be interesting. The most encouraging feature of the day, however, is the strengthening and advance in the price of silver. There is probably no industry outside of agriculture whose improvement would have more influence on the prosperity of the country than that of silver. If present promise should be realized and a substantial advance take place in the price of this metal under legitimate demand, it means an increase in the freight of the Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and California roads, and also a great increase in the purchasing power of those States which cannot fail to eventually benefit the trade of the whole country. Besides it would increase the chances of an early reform of our currency, because the silver States, and through them their representative in Congress, will be less inclined to insist on their demands on the government in favor of the white metal, if its value increases under the ordinary operations of trade.

A VERY uncomfortable feeling is left in the minds of European security-holders by the recent break in Kaffir shares. It has shown something of the possible movement of those issues under adverse influences. Every one suspects that a good many of these shares have been boomed on the strength of what others have done, and as merit is the attractive force that all valuations must eventually obey, let the power that forced them from the true point of gravity for the time being be what it will, they must take their proper relation to natural financial forces. In this operation there will be a good deal of suffering, whether it is gently or roughly performed, but it is fortunate that speculation has been nowhere else rampant than in Kaffirs. Much the largest part of the new capital raised in the past two years has been by the issue of Government and municipal bonds of the best classes. For instance, in Great Britain what are called the new capital applications, comprising every form of prospectus put out to secure new capital, amounted in the first three quarters of this year to $425,000,000, as compared with $459,000,000 for the whole of last year, $245,000,000 in 1893 and $405,000,000 in 1892. With these applications for nine months of 1895, comparing so favorably with similar figures for any twelve months of the preceding three years, it might be imagined that there had been this year a good deal of kiting of unmeritorious ventures; the latter, however, are most probably in smaller proportion than in the other years named. The total of mining companies, good, bad and indifferent, included in this year's figures is about $25,000,000, and the land and exploring companies, most of which are the result of the success in mining districts already developed, about $20,000,000. These are more than enough perhaps for the industries they are supposed to represent, but their combined totals do not amount to a great deal compared with the whole money representation of the new enterprises brought out and to only a comparatively small sum when the resources of the centre where they are issued and subscribed is considered. The complete total of Kaffir ventures, colossal as it is, is only a fraction of European investments, and if it has to undergo fining down, as the consequences will be distributed in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna, they will be easily borne. Whatever the extent of its overdoing it must not be forgotten that there is a substantial basis to the Kaffir movement. The gold production of the region on which the shares are predicated has exceeded $4,000,000 in one month with no indication that that is the maximum. Where the trouble will come will be in the weeding out of the worthless issues, the honest disappointments and the frauds, but when that is done the enterprise as a whole will be in a sounder condition than ever it has been. There is no reason to fear a collapse like that of the Argentines in 1890, because not only are the foundations of the movement under suspicion better than were those of the South American loans, but the times are also different. The break in the Argentines came at a time of world-wide expansion and inflation in business on which the currency peculiarities of the United States were superimposed. To-day business is only showing healthy improvement and the people of this country have the symptoms of returning monetary sanity.

THAT consolidation is becoming a very hot question among Brooklynites is proved by the interest created by the publication of various views upon it in our issue of September 28th last. This interest is not wholly good-natured. Some of the journals devoted to preserving an autonomous Brooklyn throw doubt upon the genuineness of our interviews with Mayor Schieren and Senator Wolfert. The former is quoted by the Standard-Union as saying that he did not recollect ever being interviewed by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, and "the statement they print, to my knowledge, I have never made." To our reporter this week Mayor Schieren admitted the truth of the interview when the circumstances were called to his mind, and owned that his denial was due to a slip of his memory. Greater Brooklyn publishes a letter purporting to come from Henry Wolfert, saying in regard to our interview with him: "I have never seen a reporter of that paper (THE RECORD AND GUIDE) and the statements contained therein are entirely false. I am now and always have been opposed to consolidation." Our reporter called upon him also and showing him the letter asked him if he wrote it, to which he answered: "No, I did not write that letter to any one." He was then asked, "Did you authorize any one to write that letter for you?" And to this he replied: "No. I gave no authority to any one to write that letter for me." Regarding our interview with him he admitted that it was quite probable that his utterance might have been misconstrued, owing to his imperfect ability in the employment of the English language. Anyway, if the Senator had any change of heart on the subject of union with New York City at the time our reporter interviewed him originally he has recanted and is anti-consolidationist again to the backbone. Mayor Schieren, by his confession, stands where he did at the time of our first interview, nor have we heard of any change in the minds of Senator Reynolds and Assemblymen Friday, Brush and Wray, whose opinions also made up part of our article which, though simply a bare statement of the standing of the discussion, appears to have given much offence to the opponents of consolidation.

THE folly of doing things in a hurry, especially legislative things, is shown by more than one act passed by the last Legislature. The phrasing of the amendments to the building law is one proof of this statement and the interminable muddle that has followed the annexation of Westchester and other towns and portions of towns easterly of the Bronx is another. By this act new territory to an enormous extent was tacked on to New York City without adequate notice to the departments of what would be required of them. A perusal of the text of the annexing act shows that it was hurriedly prepared. The only object was to get annexation and let the annexing processes take care of themselves. The new territory was made a part of the 24th Ward, subject to the same legal conditions as the other parts of the city, but without any consideration of its special requirements or any provision being made for the extra cost put upon the several city departments by reason of the enlargement of their area of operations. As a result the departments say they are doing their best, but it is a very indifferent best. At the time the annexation was made the tax books for 1895 were made up, and as a consequence some of the towns in the new territory, on which no assessments had then been made by the old authorities up to the time of their going out of office, escape taxation for this year, thereby is created an obvious injustice to the rest of the city. The Tax Department has no books, records or maps to guide them, and being unable to obtain them from the deposed officials, agents have had to be sent to the Register's and County Clerk's offices at White Plains to go over the record and make this omission good. The greatest annoyance, however, is put upon the citizens of the new territory who are unable to get satisfactory information on the hundred and one things that daily arise in connection with the management, sale and transfer of real estate. For instance, the act says: "Sales of land in the territory hereby annexed, for unpaid taxes * * * shall be made as heretofore the same as if this act had not been passed." But no authority is conferred in relation to property already sold for taxes, and people who desire official action in reference to such property are sent from official to official without being able to obtain any satisfaction. It is a repetition of the muddle that followed the annexation of the territory across the Harlem, and can only be cured as that was by amendatory legislation. Meantime, as the new territory is a part of New York City and cannot be regarded separately from the older portion by the official eye, the resident or property owner in the new territory who desires action or information should insist upon receiving it from the Department he would have gone to had he lived or held property in the old territory.

The Condition of the Building Department.

DESPITE whatever opinion may be held upon other matters, we feel confident that we may assure the Superintendent of Buildings that the architects, builders and reputable real estate interests of this city will support him in the application which he has made this week for a larger appropriation for his department. Indeed, it will occur to many who read Mr. Constable's letter to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that it might have been a good thing both for the Superintendent and for the public had some similar statement been made much earlier, and even now the facts and recommendations set forth need restating for the benefit of all concerned in more forceful manner than would perhaps be proper in a strictly public document addressed to a department of the municipal government.

The truth is, the importance of the Department of Buildings—the vitality of the interests it is deputed to look after, and the scope of the work allotted to it—has not yet received in any quarter the measure of recognition it is properly entitled to. Actually a first-class branch of the municipal government, it has obtained both from citizens and from those in high authority merely secondary consideration, if that. The force employed to perform the duties of the department is and for years has been grossly and obviously insufficient, and, speaking generally, the salaries granted are not adequate to secure the services of decently competent employes. Standards of efficiency and standards of pay cannot be entirely divorced from one another in the scheme of government any more easily than in the mercantile system, and examiners, inspectors and clerks in the Building Department who must perforce be satisfied with lower wages than a contractor's foreman are not likely to be over-supplied with the technical knowledge, diligence or scrupulousness necessary for the proper discharge of their duties. No architect or builder of any repute would for one moment hazard to conduct his personal affairs under conditions at all similar to those which have prevailed for years in the Building Department. To do so would mean for him, he knows, professional or commercial ruin. The only way to get along with the inadequate, underpaid, generally inefficient force of the department was to permit almost as an established rule of conduct much laxity which, as the Orchard street disaster and the catastrophe at West Broadway and Third street demonstrate, naturally tended to become dereliction of a graver kind. Undoubtedly, too, this administrative looseness reacted upon the Building Laws, weakened their authority upon the ordinary commercial mind engaged in the pursuit of building rather for "what there is in it" than for the delights of success in rational construction, until any strict enforcement of statutory requirements, at least in minor but not trivial matters, took on the air of arbitrary, unnecessary and well-nigh unwarranted severity. We firmly believe that some considerable part, at least, of the trouble which the Building Department has had lately with the public springs from a reasonable, proper, but quite unusual, care on the part of the Superintendent in passing upon plans and in otherwise conducting the duties of his office. This and the insufficiency of the force at his command, in large measure no doubt is responsible for the vexatious and costly tardiness in the work of the department. As we have freely criticised Mr. Constable in these columns, it is only fair that these facts should be given the attention they merit. His statement made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the operations of his department during the last six months, is, all circumstances considered, very creditable.

But no statistical color, however pleasantly it may illuminate official action, is sufficient to cause business men who have suffered financial loss from delay take a rosy view of the situation. This is a case where no explanations are satisfactory. They may wholly or partly exonerate an official of incompetence or tardiness, but a department, to be considered efficient, must meet real public requirements whatever they may be, and a thoroughly expeditious passing of plans is a real public requirement. The public when discontented is never very careful about either the measure of its criticism or the direction of it. When riled, the tendency to kick, as with the mule, agitates the handiest leg, and whatever is within reach suffers. For these reasons we say that perhaps an earlier statement from Mr. Constable of the inherent insufficiencies of his position and an open appreciation of the public's necessities might have saved the department from much of the current criticism. We believe Mr. Constable earnestly desires to make his administration a success. In many respects we know the Building Department is in a better condition to-day than for a long time; although in some particulars improvement is imperative. Mr. Constable's application to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is a very necessary step to correct deficiencies. It shows that he is cognizant of and not indifferent to the situation, and this, with the addition of goodwill, reasonableness, co-operation on his side and the public's, ought to remove all friction speedily and (the necessary financial aid granted) place the Building Department on a higher and more efficient plane than it has yet occupied.

The Hudson River Bridge.

The Sinking Fund Commission heard on Wednesday a repetition of the arguments for and against the locating of the New York approach to the proposed Hudson River Bridge at 69th street, the site selected by the State Bridge Commission. The consent of the Sinking Fund Commission is necessary under the act of Congress authorizing the building of the bridge. The Mayor decided, in answer to a question by Gen. McCook, that all the commission could do was to act on the site; it could not go into the question of the financial ability of the promoters of the bridge to carry the work through.

Mr. Andrew H. Green, of the State Commission, urged the adoption of the 69th street site and was supported by Engineer Charles Macdonald. From the statements drawn from the latter it appeared that the only advantage of the 69th street site over one at 59th street was that it would enable a road to be built down to the proposed station at 42d street with a grade of 35 feet to the mile instead of one of 50 feet. Mr. Macdonald said that conformed to the grades on the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Philadelphia and Jersey City. In fact, Mr. Brown, of the Pennsylvania Central, has requested them not to make a grade of more than 35 feet. Asked at this point by Mr. T. S. Ormiston, of the West Side Association, if the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had made any contracts to use the bridge, Mr. Macdonald said he was addressing the Commission and wished to keep his attention for them. Questioned by members of the Commission he said the actual cost of the bridge as a bridge would not be greater at 59th street than at 69th street; there would be a small additional cost for piers and in overcoming the extra 17 feet of grade in reaching the station. He could not say if this would be offset by the shorter length of the road and the lessened amount of property the bridge company would have to buy. Mr. Louis Windmuller, in the interest of the bridge company, said he had examined the locality and found there were very few fine houses on 70th street, and none below it. Mr. Julius H. Seymour, who, be it understood, spoke last, said the West Side Association had not been properly represented because there were fifty of its members, men of good standing and position, who had signed the petition in favor of the 69th street location.

Mr. Thomas S. Ormiston led the opposition to the location, and said it was not an opposition to the bridge. If the approach had been located at 59th street, he and his friends would not have been heard from at all. What they wanted to prevent was a great injury being done to the finest residence property in the city above 69th street by the building of the bridge there. The consequential damage would be very great. He did not think the friends of the bridge had made out a case justifying the Commission in inflicting this damage on property there. Mr. John McDonald contended that the consequence of the nuisances of dust, smoke and noise that the bridge would bring, would take off an average of $5,000 from the value of each lot in a quadrilateral made up of 70th and 80th streets, Amsterdam avenue and the river; say there were a thousand lots there and that would make the loss $5,000,000. At 59th street the damage would be very slight as there was nothing but tenement property there.

The Mayor (laughing): "But tenement is good property."

Mr. McDonald: "It used to be three or four years ago, but it is not now. Since the depression in business it is almost impossible to collect rents. I have just examined an estate owning thirty tenements, and the percentage of vacancies and of uncollectable rents was simply enormous. No, sir; tenement property is not good property now. I have some I will be very glad to sell if your Honor wishes to invest in it." He then read a protest against the location of the bridge at 69th street from Mr. Alex. M. Powell and written opinions from Messrs. Richard V. Harnett, Frederick Zittel, L. J. Phillips and Charles E Schuyler that its location there would seriously injure West Side residence property. The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Co. also sent a protest against the adoption of the site on the ground that it would destroy the usefulness of some of their plant on the river front.

Before the close of the hearing another brief discussion on finances was brought about by Mr. McDonald. The representatives of the promoters of the bridge refused to commit themselves further on this point than to say that when the site was approved the money for building would be forthcoming. In closing the hearing, the Mayor said to these gentlemen: "I am heartily in favor of your enterprise. We would all like to see a bridge thrown across the Hudson, but I would rather that you gentlemen should raise the money than I. I think you will have all the work you want in getting the money."

The Department of Buildings.

The following is the text of the petition mentioned under this heading last week with the names of the signers and which was presented to Mayor Strong yesterday:

NEW YORK, September 28, 1895.

HON. WILLIAM L. STRONG, Mayor of the City of New York:

DEAR SIR—We, the undersigned, respectfully beg permission to call to your attention the fact that all building operations in the City of New York at the present time, and for some time past, have been seriously affected (resulting in great loss and inconvenience to the public generally) owing to the obstructive methods of the Building Department.

It is our request that the entire matter of the relations of the Building Department to the public, its methods, its capacity for work and its efficiency should be made the subject of an immediate public investigation. We do not wish to make charges of personal inefficiency, but the fact remains that the present methods (either owing to inefficiency of the officials, to the lack of proper funds and proper facilities, or the insufficiency of the staff, both in number and ability, or perhaps owing to all of the above reasons) have produced a state of confusion and of obstruction which has never before existed in the City of New York.

There is absolutely no evidence that any benefit is being derived from these obstructive methods, and there is positive evidence that investors, builders, architects, supply men and building generally are suffering very serious damage. In view of the fact that the amount of building, owing to the hard times, has been much below the average in the last two years, this condition of affairs is all the more serious; especially at a time when building operations are reviving, and should receive every encouragement.

We respectfully request that you appoint a Commission consisting of architects, contractors, engineers and lawyers, selected from the leading men in the different professions, to make a thorough public investigation, and report to you upon the present condition of affairs, and offer suggestions for immediate relief, or that you pursue any other course which, according to your own judgment, will furnish the relief which is so much needed.

W. & G. Audsley, Boring & Tilton, Jorden & Giller, E. G. W. Dietrich, Geo. Martin Huss, Alfred Zucker, G. A. Schellenger, Wm. A. Potter, Maurice Fornachon, W. H. W. Youngs, Parish & Schroeder, Wm. A. Bloodgood, Bruce Price, John Bergesen, Percy Griffen, Chas. H. Smith, Jos. H. McGuire, Small & Schumann, Carrere & Hastings, Edgar K. Bourne, Henry M. Congdon, M. C. Mellen, Chas. E. Miller, Geo. M. Walgrove, C. Wellesley Smith, R. E. Gildersleeve, Paul R. Lewis, Thornton F. Turner, Lamb & Rich, Paul F. Higgs, Robt. S. Kohn, Werner & Windolph, H. O. Hunting, Ernest W. Greis, Wm. W. Crehore, James B. Baker, Frank Freeman, C. P. H. Gilbert, F. P. Dinkelberg, Geo. L. Amouroux, J. H. Little, Wm. B. Tuthill, Chas. P. Warren, Stowe Phelps, R. Maynicke, Julius Franke, Thom & Wilson, Berg & Clark, Joseph Wolf and Max Wilkie.

Mr. Constable, the superintendent of the Department, was called to the Mayor's office in the afternoon, presumably in regard to statements contained in this petition. It is understood that Mr. Constable went to this conference fortified by a document signed by Mr. George B. Post and Messrs. McKim, Mead and White approving his conduct of the Department.

It is also understood that negotiations are being carried on between the Employers' and Builders' League and the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, for the presentation to Mayor Strong of a joint petition similar to the one set out above.

Mr. John Carrère, of the firm of Carrère & Hastings, who signed the petition, said yesterday that in his opinion the trouble with the Department was a matter of over-zeal. If the Superintendent tried to look into every detail, delays must arise. The only trouble his firm had had with the Department was that a violation was put upon one of their buildings, and although it was a small matter it took eight weeks before they could obtain attention from the Department and about five minutes to dispose of the matter when they knew what was wanted because they at once did it. He could understand from this how unsatisfactory the condition of affairs in the Department was to architects who had much business to do with it. Regarding the suggestion that the delays in the department were due to superior vigilance on the part of the present officials, Mr. Carrère said the old management was technically good in his experience. It found errors the experts he employed had not discovered. What it was morally he was not in a position to say.

Superintendent Constable has addressed a letter to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment explaining his reasons for asking for an increased appropriation for carrying on his Deparement in the coming year. The communication contains the following tables which are intended to show the increased work now thrown on the Department and the amount of business disposed of by Mr. Constable in the first six months of his term of office, compared with that done by his predecessor in corresponding periods of 1893 and 1894:

Rapid Transit.

The General Term of the Supreme Court, on Monday, entered an order denying the petition of the Rapid Transit Commission, asking that the Court designate six newspapers for the publication of a notice that the board will apply for a commission to report on the necessity of the proposed rapid transit routes to take the places of the consents of abutting property-owners. The denial was couched in these terms: "It appearing that the Governor having designated an Appellate Division of the first department to whom this application should be made, it is ordered that the application is denied, not upon its merits, but on the ground that it should have been made to the Appellate Division." Formal notice of appeal was given on behalf of the Commission. The Appellate Division, to which this application should have been made, will not sit until January 1, 1896.

Mr. Wm. Steinway, in explaining the application to the General Term of the Supreme Court, in a recent interview, said: "Under the statute such an application as this may be made only after the majority of property owners in interest along the proposed route, or routes, shall have refused to give their consent to the construction of the road. It is the majority in interest that must be secured, and the immense value of property on Broadway, below 14th street, has been the great stumbling block in the way of securing consents, the most intense part of this opposition lies below Canal street. All along upper Broadway, up the Boulevard, all up 10th avenue to the Harlem River and thence to the city limits consents in majority were readily obtained. The great and essential obstacle rests on the claim that property-owners in lower Broadway have extended their vaults well toward the middle of the street.

"The Rapid Transit Act, however, provides that where, after due endeavor, the Rapid Transit Commission shall have failed to secure the necessary consents it may apply to the General Term of the Supreme Court for the appointment of a special commission to hear the parties in interest and determine whether the road should be built. If the commission report favorably, and the General Term confirm that report, there is nothing—no legal obstacle—in the way to prevent the construction of the road."

The Commission at its meeting on Tuesday last made another change in the arrangement of the stations, substituting one at Chambers street for that at Warren street, Broadway.

Meeting of Exchange Directors.

The Board of Directors of the Real Estate Exchange held their first monthly meeting since May on Tuesday last. There were present Alfred E. Marling, Frank Yoran, Richard V. Harnett, J. Romaine Brown, C. W. Luyster, E. A. Cruikshank, H. H. Cammann, Irving Ruland and Frederick Zittel. After a discussion of routine matters the report of Treasurer Marling was submitted. It showed a balance in bank to the credit of the Exchange of $11,609.61 on September 30th. Two committees were appointed, one on nominations to select candidates to be voted for at the coming annual election of directors, consisting of J. Edgar Leaycraft, Charles S. Brown and C. L. Clarkson, and another to consider the advisability of establishing a new and lower scale of knock-down fees for public auction sales in the salesroom, the members of which are Richard V. Harnett, Geo. R. Read and C. W. Luyster.

Our Illustration of Two Fine Houses.

Mr. A. B. Kight is the architect and builder of the two houses of which an illustration appears in a supplement of this issue. The houses are on 76th street, Nos. 333 and 335 West, near the Riverside Drive, and besides the grace of their facades, which our illustration brings out, it may also be said that they are carefully planned and built in the soundest way of the best materials and with correspondingly good workmanship. The interior arrangements are practical as well as attractive, and the trim and fittings first-class and appropriate. As will be seen they are American basement houses, five stories in height; their dimensions are 20x65, extension 11½x14 (extension four stories) x102, and 20x61, extension 10½x14 (extension three stories) x80. Their location on one of the best West Side streets and near the great Riverside Drive is excellent.

Is This So?

"Mathematics is quite essential in the study of architecture, isn't it?" asked Miss Wilkins. "Yes," said Harley. "Though some parts of architectural work consist in simple addition."—Harper's Bazar. Why is nothing said about subtraction?

Real Estate Market.

With reports of brokers' sales at hand indicating an aggregate investment of about $3,000,000, and the returns from the auction room showing total sales of over $1,000,000, there would seem to be no reason for doubting that the market having asserted itself at last will continue active for the remainder of the fall. That would, however, be an unwise assumption, as one element most essential for continued extensive buying, especially by private contract, is still absent from the market, or at least only nominally in evidence in the business of the week. We allude to the buyer of small means, who purchases solely for investment. Until he is numerously found among inquirers and would-be buyers the brokers' transactions will, in great part, be restricted, as in the last six days, to deals in which professional operators figure at one or both ends. The bulk of the week's transactions have been in the wholesale district, and there is said to exist a probability of other important sales being shortly made in that prosperous section.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1894 and 1895.

Many months have passed since there has been a week as interesting to patrons of the auction market as that which ended yesterday. The Broadway Salesroom attracted large crowds on the four busiest days and with hardly any exceptions the sales, especially those conducted under decrees of partition, have resulted so satisfactorily that interested persons have found little to grumble about. On Monday only did low prices prevail and that was at the sale by Peter F. Meyer & Co. of three lots on 5th avenue, between 89th and 90th streets. As they are, however, strictly investment property, that is now and will be for an indefinite period unimproved and therefore burdensome, their purchase at moderate figures cannot be regarded as inappropriate. Two of the lots, bought at $22,600 each, were resold within ten minutes at an advance, through Broker S. Goldsticker, of L. J. Phillips & Co., to Benjamin I. H. Trask, an extensive owner of nearby property.

On Tuesday Peter F. Meyer presented the star attraction of the week—the property owned by the Sickles' estate. There was only one drawback to the sale, and that was that the seekers for low-priced parcels were far more numerous than the offerings, and consequently many persons retired with their desire to buy unsatisfied. There was a very large crowd present, and among it were brokers by the score. A great deal of surprise was manifested by some of them at the prices realized for the two Nassau street parcels, and the concensus of opinion was that their purchasers secured bargains. The impression that both properties sold low was due to Nassau street purchases during the last six months or so at prices that were almost unwarranted, but as they in nearly every instance comprised valuable corners the rates paid should not have been considered a criterion for estimates of inside lot values. The sale realized a total of $449,370, which amount is said to have fully met the expectations of the interested heirs. On the same day Adrian H. Muller & Son's voluntary offer of the dwelling, No. 54 West 12th street, resulted in its being bought in for $24,200.

Wednesday's leading sale was the one under foreclosure of the former Fourth Presbyterian Church property, Nos. 116 to 120 West 34th street, an old edifice with plot 80x98.9. D. P. Ingraham & Co. were the auctioneers. Many of the experts present thought full value was obtained when the property was knocked down at $207,500 to an uptown firm of brokers. Neil Burgessi the defendant against whom the judgment in foreclosure was taken, bought the property in the latter part of 1894 from David Steiner for $250,000, an advance of $60,000 on the price paid by the latter two years before. Mr. Burgess, however, put up only $20,000 in cash, the balance of the purchase price being represented by two mortgages, of which the second to the seller was the one foreclosed. On the same day William M. Ryan, of the late firm of Smyth & Ryan, held his initial auction sale.

The most interesting of Thursday's sales was one in partition of the inferior tenement, No. 531 West 26th street, which had been offered under the same decree of court in the last week of June and then knocked down at $5,000 to a speculator who had not even seen the property previous to its being offered. The price, to be sure, was a low one for a four-story tenement and full lot, and one or more of the heirs interested in it subsequently succeeded in prevailing upon Judge Bookstaver not to confirm the sale, on the ground that the amount was inadequate, and an order for the second sale was the natural result. It was sold this week for a much larger sum, $7,700, but that the transaction will be consummated depends upon the ruling of the same Supreme Court judge. The question that arises is what guarantee can a bona-fide bidder and buyer have at any legal sale that he will not be subjected to future annoyance and loss should the original court order have been granted by a judge with a capricious temper. The only adjournment of the week not given elsewhere was one on Thursday of No. 330 East 30th street, by Smyth & Ryan, until the 24th inst. Yesterday Richard V. Harnett & Co. withdrew from foreclosure sale the northeast corner of Avenue A and 70th street.

At the Directors' meeting on Tuesday, P. A. Geoghegan was elected a stock member of the Real Estate Exchange and Louis M. Picot and Morris Weinberg annual members. William H. Peckham has since been nominated for annual membership.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. make announcements of auction sales to take place in the Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, as follows: For Tuesday, the 15th inst., two-story and attic frame dwelling, with two-story brick extension, No. 275 Water street; Wednesday, the 16th inst., plot 50.5x98, with three-story and cellar frame dwelling, No. 322 Pleasant avenue, between 117th and 118th streets; Thursday next, the 17th inst., the five-story and basement brownstone building with store, No. 67 Bowery, and the business and tenement property, Nos. 92, 94 and 96 Chrystie street. Further details of these parcels will be found in our advertising pages and full particulars with maps, etc., can be had of the auctioneers at Nos. 71 and 73 Liberty street.

Bryan L. Kennelly will offer a number of valuable New York and Brooklyn parcels from his auction stand in the Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, on Tuesday and Wednesday next, the 15th and 16th inst. On the first named of these days he will sell to close estates No. 972 Madison street and No. 570 Wythe avenue, Brooklyn, and No. 348 West 16th street; also the three-story brownstone dwelling, No. 129 West 92d street. The offerings of the following day will consist of New York City parcels as follows: No. 151 Lenox avenue, Nos. 326 and 328 West 34th street (to close the estate of Edward Fitzpatrick, deceased), No, 44 East 73d street, No. 313 West 102d street, No. 144 East 60th street and No. 241 East 34th street. The nature and locations of the properties to be knocked down at these two sales will make them very attractive to buyers and insure a good attendance. Our advertising pages contain fuller particulars of these parcels, and maps, etc., can be had of the auctioneer at his office, No. 66 Liberty street.

Geo. R. Read will on Wednesday, the 23d inst., in the Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, sell at auction, by order of the executrix of the late Chas. B. Hart, Nos. 463-469 5th avenue. These offerings consist of four four-story and basement brownstone residences, with dining-room extensions, located on the east side of 5th avenue, between 40th and 41st streets and opposite the Reservoir. They are houses of a good class and still desirable for residence purposes, but what will most probably constitute their chief attraction in the minds of buyers is the fact that they are in a portion of the city which is rapidly undergoing changes very favorable to improvements in values. Maps and full details can be had of the auctioneer at No. 9 Pine street and No. 1 Madison avenue.

Peter F. Meyer & Co. will sell at auction, on Monday next, the last of the real estate holdings of the estate of George G. Sickles, deceased. The sale will begin at 11 o'clock A. M., at the Town Hall, corner of Main and Mechanic streets, New Rochelle, N. Y., in which village all of the property is situated. As it will be conducted in accordance with the same Supreme Court decree in partition as were this week's sales of New York and Brooklyn property, under the direction of Robert L. Wensley, referee, all who attend are assured in advance of a genuine sale, and we may add sub rosa that there is a great likelihood of bargains being secured, owing to the large number of parcels that will be disposed of. The property is within a few minutes' walk of the railroad station and consists of fifty-three plots of more than four city lots each, on popular North street and contiguous thoroughfares almost equally favored, two plots at North street and Coligni avenue, one on Peters road, and the Sickles homestead, comprising buildings and over 112 acres adjoining Rochelle Park. The village is one of the prettiest and most desirable of New York suburbs, and that its advantages as a place of residence are appreciated is evident from the large number of our city's well-to-do business and professional men who have of late years elected to reside within and near it. The railroad connections via the N. Y., N. H. & H. are unsurpassed, express trains from 42d street making the trip in thirty-one minutes. Trains run hourly, early in the day, from the Grand Central Station and the Harlem River Branch Station at 129th street, but intending buyers should not leave on the day of sale later than 10.06 A. M. from the former or 9.45 from the latter point to enable them to be present at the beginning of the sale. Book-maps and all information can be obtained at the office of the auctioneers, No. 111 Broadway, or the other addresses to be found in our advertising pages.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Wilcox Bros. & Mark, realty dealers, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., on page iii. of this issue, calling attention to opportunities offered in Niagara Falls for speculative and investment operations in real estate. It is hardly necessary to call attention to the fact that Niagara Falls has undergone great changes as a result of the successful work there in the creation of electric power. The place has already doubled in population, having now 18,000 inhabitants as a result of the creation of this great working force, and it is natural to suppose that it will continue to grow. New Yorkers can personally obtain information of Wilcox Bros. & Mark's offerings, comprising water frontage, factory sites, acreage and building lots by calling on S. D. Epstein, in the Mutual Life Insurance Building, this city, who will supply them with literature bearing on the world-famed work that has been done to utilize the falls themselves for commercial power as well as on the beauties and advantages of the town which takes its name from them.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

M. & L. Hess have sold for Albert Wagner the new seven-story iron and brick front mercantile building, Nos. 134 and 136 Spring street, and Nos. 84 to 88 Wooster street, to a customer for investment, at $325,000. The building forms an L, 50x50 on the former and 75x100 on the latter street, and is rented on five and ten years' leases for $25,000 per annum. The property has been sold four times in about three years through the Messrs. Hess. They first disposed of it to Freedman Bros., then to Jacob Hirsh, and later to Mr. Wagner, by whom the present modern structure has been erected.

The same brokers have sold for Emil Bloch to Jacob Hirsh, for improvement, No. 37 East 12th street, old buildings, with a lot about 28x93x29.2x84.7, and Nos. 48 and 50 East 13th street abutting in the rear, a plot about 40.9x110.7 and 122.4, with buildings. Mr. Bloch, who it is understood frequently represents Mr. Hirsh, recently bought the property from John W. Condit through the same brokers for a sum less than $150,000, but no deed has yet been recorded.

Wm. Cruikshank's Sons have sold for John Jacob Astor and others, trustees of the estate of William Astor, the lot 28x80x25x93, No. 473 Grand street, and No. 300 East Broadway, forming the westerly block front on Scammel street, to Henry Breckwedel for $30,000. Miles & Helfer were the associate brokers in the transaction.

Henry Corn has resold at a profit the six-story store and office building, 25x95.4 and 95.3, No. 834 Broadway, between 12th and 13th streets, which he recently contracted to purchase from Mayer Kahn at about $110,000. The buyer is understood to be the same investor who, as reported last week, secured No. 832, adjoining, for about $105,000.

Julius Friend has sold for Max Nathan, to William Hyams and Max Danziger, the five-story business structure, No. 444 Broadway, and Nos. 10 and 12 Crosby street, between Howard and Grand streets, with plot 25 on Broadway 200.6 on the southerly line, running through to Crosby x 50 x west 80.6 x south 25 x west 120. Mr. Nathan bought the property early in 1888 at the receiver's sale of the defunct Charter Oak Life Insurance Company's property for $176,000.

Frederick Southack & Co. succeeded on Saturday in closing the sale for the heirs of J. G. K. Lawrence, deceased, of the property referred to last week, comprising the six-story building on the southwest corner of Broadway and White street, with plot 49.10x150.2, running through to Franklin alley, x50x150.3. John T. Williams is the buyer at a figure not a great deal less than $500,000. The building now yields a gross annual rental of about $37,500, and the present tenant, it is said, is desirous of renewing the lease on its expiration on the 1st of February next. It is not improbable, however, that Mr. Williams will conclude before that date to demolish the building and erect on the plot a modern mercantile structure.

The same brokers have sold for Charles J. Clinch, at a figure which is said to exceed $200,000, the one and two-story brick stables (formerly A. T. Stewart's), Nos. 39 to 43 West 3d street, northeast corner of, and No. 238 Wooster street, with plot 75x152.8, thence running east 112.9, thence south 50, thence west 37.9, thence south 102.8 to 3d street, and the abutting two-story building and lot, 20x56, No. 50 West 4th street, 20 feet east of Wooster street, and for Prescott Hall Butler, for something less than $120,000, the easterly part of the same stables, Nos. 37 and 37½ West 3d street, and an adjoining three-story brick building, No. 35 West 3d street, with plot 75x102.8. The buyers are Gutwillig Bros. and Henry Corn, the latter securing a half interest.

It was reported yesterday that Caleb P. Marsh had sold his four-story residence, lot 25x100.5, No. 30 West 57th street.

William Gillilan the owner of the adjoining leasehold, No. 496, is the buyer of No. 494 Broadway, recently reported sold through Horace S. Ely and L. Tanenbaum.

The reported sale of the Rutland apartment house, on the southwest corner of Broadway and 57th street, is denied by Warren B. ALTERATIONS AND EXTENSIONS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I purchased your book, "Laws Relating to Building in New York City," and do not find anything regarding building or altering private residences. I want to find whether an owner can build up the full lot or alter his dwelling by building an extension to the full 100 feet.

I. & S. B.

Answer.—What is not prohibited by law is permissive. A building occupied by one family or by less than three families can be extended in part or in whole to the full depth of the lot.

The lien filed by Laurowitz & Fine against me will be bonded and contested.

CAROLINE HARTWELL.

¶_Editor_ RECORD AND GUIDE:

In reference to lien filed by August Meyer against me I will say that there was no money due on his contract; he has considerable stone to furnish yet before his contract is completed. I know of no reason for his actions as he did not make any demand for any money. I will bond the lien and he will wait until the Court decides.

JOHN H. PARKER, 215 East 94th st.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien of Joseph Michels against me, which appeared in your issue of Sept. 28th, is without any foundation of claim against me. Michels abandoned the work of decorating my houses before they were completed. A committee of the Builders' League has examined the work and decided that I am justified in contesting his demand.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, OCTOBER 12, 1895.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

THE BRIDGE DERANGEMENT.

Ever since the opening of the bridge terminal a shower of criticism has fallen upon President Howells and Chief Engineer Martin, which they resent very much. President Howells, when seen at his office by a RECORD AND GUIDE reporter, seemed to be considerably irritated over the reflections cast on the work. He said the trouble was due entirely to the ignorance of the passengers over the bridge, but they were beginning to learn the method of getting to their destinations with the least inconvenience. It would take some time to educate them up to it, but when that was done they would see the benefits and conveniences arising from the new facilities. Moreover, the terminal was not yet completed, and they could not, therefore, demonstrate the advantages arising from the improvement. When it is completed, twenty-four cars will be run; the maximum number of cars now run is twelve. Cars would be run under 45 seconds headway, as against 90 seconds now. At present only 20,000 passengers can be carried an hour; with the improved facilities 60,000 an hour will be carried. At present the elevated railroads have to discharge and take on passengers at the High street end of the terminal, but will, when the other end of the terminal is ready for use, do so at both ends, thus dividing up the big crowds in the rush hours and handling them with less inconvenience to themselves. As for the interior of the structure, President Howells said he believed that no alterations were necessary, and therefore none would be made.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien of the Albany Venetian Blind Co., in last issue (3d avenue, 56th and 57th streets), against me will, undoubtedly be voluntarily removed by lienor, as the claim is against one G. R. Hasbrouck, a sub-contractor, who received payment of his contract in full on August 23d.

The filing of the lien of Michael Meehan & Co. was a result of a dispute as to the amount due them from me. FRANK E. CABUS, Contractor.

¶Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

The lien filed against us Oct 4, 1895, on No. 22 Seigel street, Brooklyn, by Michael McGrath, was for mantels, etc., bought by our mason, Mr. August Huber, from the so-called Brooklyn Slate Mantel Co., and to be supplied to us by Mr. Huber under his contract. Mr. Huber lay dangerously ill, with his temperature at 103 degrees, when Mr. McGrath called upon him for payment, or for Mr. Huber's order authorizing us to pay on his behalf, which order we should have honored upon presentation. Unable to procure this order because of Mr. Huber's illness, Mr. McGrath, without notice to us, placed his lien upon the building. We make this explanation in behalf of ourselves and a dangerously sick man. Yours very truly,

THERE is very little change of the conditions on the Stock Market or in its environs. At one time some anxiety was created about a renewal of gold exports. It was argued that the speculative rise in cotton would cut off cotton bills and so gold would have to go. The effect on prices was very slight, and in the end bills came into the market, so that the only gold that was shipped was a small amount to Buenos Ayres. So much for the bear influences. The plan for the reorganization of Union Pacific fell somewhat flat so far as its influence on prices generally is concerned. Similar plans for other great properties have usually had a larger and more beneficial effect on the market as they appeared, but as in this instance the Federal Government figures as a junior-security holder and has heretofore been a splendid specimen of the dog in the manger in Union Pacific affairs, security holders may be excused if they do not hail any plan for their readjustment with enthusiasm. The consequence of the indifference of the public to the market, to one side as much as the other, is a gentle see-sawing of quotations in which there is no money to anybody. There is nothing new to add regarding general business either; it remains in a prosperous but uninteresting condition.

THERE is no wonder that people have gone crazy over South African gold-mines shares; the experts' figures representing prospective results are dazzlingly colossal. A recent report on the Rand District—made by mining engineers of reputation—estimates the annual output before the close of the century at $100,000,000, and the total output in the next fifty years at $3,500,000,000, of which $1,000,000,000 will be profit. No wonder the indiscriminating public jumps at shares. The cold-blooded journalist, however, points out that the mines are over-capitalized for even the monstrous returns predicted. A recent calculation makes the market value of Rand stock $700,000,000; to pay interest on that at 5 per cent for fifty years would take $1,750,000,000, or 75 per cent more than the total estimated profit. There can be no mistake about the market value of the shares, so that the experts will have had to have made a mistake very unusual for them—of underestimating the results—for that value to be justified. All the facts obtainable, therefore, indicate that there must be a considerable sifting out of good from bad and readjusting of values before these shares will be put upon a proper and healthy level. Apart from this threatening cloud the appearance of things commercial in Europe is on the whole satisfactory. Vienna's municipal government is now controlled by anti-Semitic political forces, a fact that creates fears of action against the Jews which will ultimately injure the trade of the city. In Berlin much satisfaction is expressed over the expected return of Russian financial operations to that market, and in Germany the iron and textile trades are leading the Empire in the renewal of business activity. The Paris Bourse is depressed, but the trade of France is flourishing. In Great Britain the government revenue for the first half of the year exceeded the estimates by about $20,000,000. More than a third of the increase comes from "stamps" which cover the fees for new incorporations, but the increases in customs and postal and telegraph services are significant of returning prosperity. The strike in the ship-building industry can do much to check this return, but it is hoped that it will not. In Australia the reconstructed banks as a whole are carrying out the agreements with their creditors very satisfactorily.

The Thorny Path of the Reformer.

THE small number of the goodly who have taken the late advent of "reform" into New York City seriously and even semi-religiously, regarding it as a real addition to our fund of civilization, are just at present moving about in the political field low in spirit and bitter at heart. A crisis for them is at hand. They fear they are at the point of a shabby transformation in which the popular piety of the past twelve months about municipal affairs will clearly resolve itself into its real elements and turn out to be merely an aberrant form of the old spirit which produced and perpetuated year after year the curious distortion which went by the name of government in New York City. Certainly, the cause of "reform" wears a sickly air these days, and signs are not absent that the coming political fall season will be a trying time for any constitutionally weak aspirations of the righteous. A man need not be much of a traveller among the crowd to be aware of the fact that the current mode is to speak of "reform" doubtfully, flippantly and even derisively. The thing—which theoretically ought to be so attractive to citizens—somehow hasn't caught hold of the popular imagination. It isn't a matter of the inevitable lameness of progress. The attitude of the multitude is not that of disappointed sharers in a movement which all along has had their co-operation and still has their attachment, but of chagrined spectators who have grown cold of the play. The crowd is undoubtedly in that frame of mind when the easiest turn for them is to revert to their natural instincts, and these, to look matters straight in the face, have not been on the side of reform, or in warm and undoubted sympathy with its aims and methods. We may say of reform what Dr. Johnson said of truth—it is a cow, Sir, which will yield people no more milk, and so they are gone to milk the bull.

The queer thing is that any rational person should be disappointed because the reform programme does not draw the crowd. The very fact that this programme, which is but a copy-book statement of the elementary necessities of decent government, has to be argued about, campaigned for and supported with rhetoric, as though it were a high reach of political wisdom, proves conclusively that "reform" is alien as Greek to the ordinary thoughts of the multitude. Every half-enlightened Chinaman knows that to turn over a city to "politics," to distribute the offices as party spoils for the benefit of party, or, indeed, to give any play to the distinctions of "Republican" and "Democrat" in municipal elections is to thrust into the work of administration elements out and out incompatible with single-minded efficient government. The man who does not understand this is as far from comprehending "reform" and aiding it with his support as a Hottentot, mystified by the multiplication table, is from making a facile use of differential calculus. So long as it it necessary to struggle with the mass of voters to get them to think and act rationally about affairs in primary matters and to proselyte among them to induce them to make those first concessions which are the presuppositions of good government, "reform" in New York must be a pursuit of the few, an irridescent dream, a paper scheme directly contradicted by those very popular forces which alone can give it reality. We shall get "reform" when it is no longer necessary to talk about it—not a day earlier.

There must be very little of the philosopher in your "reformer" or he would see further than he does, and so spare himself disappointment over contrary results. Surely it must be obvious to anyone who will give a moment to the facts that from one cause and another it is political considerations which dominate with the multitude in our city elections. The crowd are partisans, and what they are after primarily when they go to the polls is party success. It is useless to speak of the exceptions. However numerous they may be, they are not enough to make independent citizenship, clear of all partisan bias a controlling factor in public affairs. The very word "independent" has odious significations in the popular mind. The current ideal is the out and out party man who votes the straight ticket as a good rider takes a fence. To falter is a clear sign of weakness. There must be some constitutional infirmity in human nature that makes this insanity tolerable to people who in other matters betray no particular taint of the madhouse. It is the alienist's business to inquire into it. Also, it is the business of the astute politician to deal with the masses as he finds them. He does, with the utmost confidence, and therein lies his power. Precisely as the gambler counts on the gaming instinct of his victims, the manipulators of the political game rely upon the partisan madness of the millions. It is as ineffectual to demonstrate to the one that the odds of the game must be against him, as it is to argue with the other that "politics" and pure government have little in common. The reformer can't "politicalize" his scheme, because it is fundamentally opposed to "politics." He can merely beat his drums and appeal to the "better element" to come out like spirits from the vast deep, and be counted—an invitation so ineffectual that it is difficult to avoid regarding the "element" as similar to the theoretical substances, the existence of which physicists infer from their subtler experiments in the laboratory.

How easily the reformer deludes himself about this abstract idea of his—of a morally alert better element—is evidenced by his queer analysis or rather lack of analysis of the elections last fall. He supposes that "reform" exclusively did the business. Even so clear-headed a thinker as Dr. Parkhurst talks as though the political revolution last year was entirely of his own and his friends' manufacture. Of course, nothing of the kind was the case. Dr. Parkhurst and the good people with him contributed immensly to the result, but what would all their efforts have produced had not their movements at the moment fitted exactly into the political situation of the hour and corresponded closely with the partisan aims of the crowd of which Lexow was the figure-head? Indeed, the fact that last fall there were similar moral revolutions in many other cities of the Union, clearly indicates that something greater was at work than the merely local and personal factors which produced "reform" success in the metropolis. This is what we meant when we said that reformers to-day have to fear that they are at the verge of a shabby transformation which will disclose the real elements of the vote for morality last year. The dirty politician, notoriety, popular curiosity and love of change, all played a part in the play as well as Dr. Parkhurst and the better element. The partisan crowd who "went in" for reform because it was specifically allied to their party, and those who voted for "reform" under the influence of a momentary mood, rather than under the dictates of permanent instincts, are not going to give any very durable allegiance to the reform programme. The reformers' party resembles a chance street gathering rather than a regular army to be counted upon as a unit —to which either of the great political parties may be likened.

The enemy of reform in this city is "politics," and that, apparently, is too big a devil to be cast out by any merely local exorcision. It is part of a larger whole as extensive as the country itself. So long as the first position of the voter is taken upon a strictly partisan basis, the way of the reformer must be a thorny one. He will preach rationally without convincing, and will labor arduously with but small and occasional successes.

AMONG the spots that may more particularly be called the eyesores of New York City, the site of the proposed Mulberry Bend Park has now to be included. It has lain for months in a most disgraceful state of filth and disorder, and there seems to be no present intention in the minds of the city authorities to lay out the park. It will be remembered that the work of removing the buildings which stood on this site was begun last spring, and in consequence of the way in which their destruction was provided for, the work was done in a very slow and slipshod way; what was of value was carted away, and what was not was left on the ground in unsightly heaps. Had a contractor been employed to raze the buildings in a systematic way, it would have been possible at a small expense to clear an even surface at any rate, even if the condition of the municipal exchequer would not permit the work of laying out the park to be done at once, though why it should not is not very clear. Some of the buildings collapsed when the support of their neighbors was withdrawn from them, and their remains still encumber the ground. When the buildings were condemned they contained much filth, and more has been accumulating since, as is naturally to be supposed, considering the neighborhood, so that there is now warrant for the Board of Health to take up the matter and force the other and proper Department to find an effective remedy, not only for the unsanitary conditions here prevailing, but along with them for the unsightly ones also. We hope the Board of Health will at least do its duty. Meantime we suggest Mulberry Park as an example of what a philanthropic government has done to improve the surroundings of the poor in the congested district.

THE provision for increased living accommodations in New York City will, during the next few years, be governed by peculiar transitional conditions. While the upper wards of the city will, of course, continue to grow, there will be a peculiarly strong tendency towards the replacing of old dwelling houses in the lower part of the city by large apartment houses. Such will inevitably be the result of the improvement of the service afforded by the cable roads. The figures recently published show that during the past year they have been largely increasing their traffic, while the traffic of the elevated roads on the other hand has shown a comparatively large decrease. The cable roads, of course, supply the demand for short distance travel; they make it more convenient for a business man to get to and from his residence, provided the distance to be covered is not too great. No immediate improvement will be made in the service of the Manhattan Company to offset the better service of the cable roads; and consequently people will prefer temporarily to seek living accommodations in the lower part of the city, and so to avoid the inconvenience of a residence very far up town. Not until the new rapid transit system is completed can the upper wards expect to receive the development to which they are entitled. The time will come, of course, when they will be almost as convenient a place of residence and decidedly quieter and pleasanter than the district south of the Park. The owners of property in these wards will then obtain some advantage for the comparative neglect of the next few years in the establishment of a permanently higher range of values, for this distorted development of the city will certainly increase the cost of house room to its citizens. The congestion will be increased; the causes which have made New York pre-eminently the city of large apartment houses and high real estate values will be made even more potent; and so the general level of prices will be somewhat raised. This is all the more likely to be the case, because during the next few years New York will be growing quite as rapidly as she did during 1890 and 1891. Business seems to be improving in nearly every direction, and the real estate and building markets will soon feel even more strongly the effects of this revival.

The Building Trade in New York City.

AS the year has gone on it has fulfilled the promise made at its opening of activity in the building trades, taken as a whole and considered from the point of view of the total sum expended on new structures since January 1st last. There are, however, some lines in which much more than is to be found might reasonably be wished for. This is particularly the case with regard to the smaller buildings, flats, tenements and dwellings, the number of which has not increased as fast as in other years, a fact that is to be regretted because of the loss of work it represents to the building trades, not only now but in the coming winter, though perhaps not from the point of view of the operator in the real estate market who, judging from the movements of that market, will be inclined to think that the supply of flats and tenements at any rate, if not of dwellings, is more than ample to meet the demand in a way satisfactory to the seller.

Those who looked over the table published recently showing the number and estimated cost of the buildings, plans for which have been filed with the Department of Buildings, could not fail to be struck with the satisfactory showing that the figures for this year made when set in comparison with those for similar periods in the two preceding years. The total number of plans filed for the nine months from January 1st to September 30th was 3,131 and the estimated cost of the buildings projected $69,663,417. Corresponding figures for 1894 and 1893 were 1,873 and $38,665,522 and 1,892 and $50,558,403 respectively. When the details are examined, the satisfaction at this glowing comparison is somewhat reduced, because of the extremely large amount represented this year by flats and tenements, which numbered 1,632, to cost $35,807,740, and because it is well known that a very large number of the plans in this class were filed in order to take advantage of the old tenement house law and with probably no intention of carrying them out for a long time to come. Consequently a large reduction must be made in this total of $35,807,740 when considering the immediate or proximate future of the building trade. This is more particularly shown when the figures in the same class for other years are brought out. These figures for 1894 were 597 plans, with an estimated cost of $11,848,850, and those for 1893 609 plans, with an estimated cost of $13,289,400. Another illustration is found in the falling off in the number of these plans in the third quarter of the year, when the time within which the old law was applicable to construction of flats and tenements had expired. In that quarter there were only 113 such plans filed, with an estimated cost of $2,099,540. In 1894 almost as many were filed in the third quarter as in the second, and although in 1893 82 only out of a total of 609 were filed in the third quarter, that was due to the financial troubles of July of that year. It will be seen, then, if anything beyond well-known facts was wanted, that there is ample argument to support the belief that the number of flats and tenements projected this year does not bear its normal proportions to the actual work put under way.

In all other directions the returns under review cannot be considered other than satisfactory. In other classes the number of buildings and their probable cost is better than in the first three quarters of last year, and in the main equal to those for 1893. For example, the figures in the other classes for the three years are: Private dwellings, 939 plans, $9,556,595 estimated cost; 1894, 782 plans, $8,409.445 estimated cost; 1893, 715 plans, $9,396,300 estimated cost. Office buildings, hotels, stores, churches, etc.: 1895, 196 plans, $22,219,100 estimated cost, to which must be added the cost of the Havemeyer building on the Herald office site, not yet figured out; 1894, 147 plans, $16,249,850 estimated cost; 1893, 164 plans, $23,229,900, in which are included the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, $5,000,000, the expenditure of which will be spread over some years yet, and St. Luke's Hospital, $1,000,000, built last and this year,

Miscellaneous: 1895, 364 plans, $2,079,982 estimated cost; 1894, 347 plans, $2,157,377 estimated cost; 1893, 404 plans, $4,642,803. Whatever difference there may be in favor of the figures for 1893 is more than offset by the sudden and general shutting down of all operations that distinguished that year after the panic. Considering, too, that the present conditions are those of recovery from depression and do not represent the culmination of a movement, it will have to be admitted that they are not only encouraging, but contain in them an element of promise for the coming years that is calculated to raise the spirits of the trade. Perhaps this is best shown in a comparison of the figures for the several quarters of the year, while bearing in mind what has been said of the events influencing all business in recent years and leaving out the plans for flats and tenements as already sufficiently explained. The number of plans filed, with their estimated costs, in the two important divisions, besides flats and tenements in the several quarters of this and the two preceding years, are:

	1895.		1894.		1893.
Dwellings.	No.	Estimated Cost.	No.	Estimated Cost.	No.	Estimated Cost

Second quarter	67	8,566,150	73	9,051,500	88	14,672,900
Third quarter	70	4,776,900	31	3,599,500	30	3,276,500

From these figures it will be seen that not only do the first two quarters of this year hold their own, but in the third the falling off is not as large as it was in corresponding quarters of 1894 and 1893, from which may be deduced the pleasing thought that constructural business in New York city is in a healthier condition than it has been for some time, and that with the coming of the next year we will see a great impetus given to the movement which is bringing about an actual reconstruction of the older portions of the city and a rapid improvement of the newer portions, which is a natural result of a growing trade and commerce which in the first instance compel the changes down town. New York has been somewhat slow to recognize changed conditions. In this respect some of the younger towns, Chicago for instance, have been ahead of her, but Father Knickerbocker is an energetic old man when awake, and the results of his activity will be surprisingly ocular in a few years. This reconstructive movement began some time ago, it was interrupted in 1893, but having again been set going will move with greater force because of the delay. It will surprise many to learn that out of probably less than seventy buildings, each costing $100,000 or more, and representing a total cost of between $22,000,000 and $23,000,000, for which plans were filed this year, no less than sixty-one, estimated to cost nearly if not quite $20,000,000, have been begun and are in various stages of construction from excavating to receiving the final touches. This important information we are able to furnish from the data to be found in our Building News Bureau. It is highly improbable that such a large proportion of a list ever selected before from any one year's plans was a statement of work actually begun or done in the same year. These buildings are:

PUBLIC attention is again called to the opportunities the Brooklyn custom offers of conducting auction sales in a way that can be injurious to all of the parties concerned. When sales may be held anywhere it, of course, follows that unscrupulous persons will so arrange that they shall be held at some place and under such conditions that fraud may be practiced, while still having a cover of legal warrant. Of course, no honest auctioneer will countenance such a practice or allow himself to be used for the purpose of creating such discreditable opportunities, but, this notwithstanding, it is followed in Brooklyn to such an extent that it promises to become, if it is not already, a public scandal. Unfortunately, while wholly immoral and unjustifiable, the matter is one that does not directly touch the public as a body, and the moral feeling is so slight in the public as a body that the isolated individual who is made to suffer can get neither sympathy nor remedy, except through an expensive and difficult process provided by the courts. None the less the practice is a stain on the good name of the community that permits it, and particularly upon that of the business interest most directly affected by it. While the public may be indifferent to the fact that real estate is disposed of in a fraudulent manner, the real estate interests of Brooklyn cannot be, and for their own credit and reputation's sake they must agitate until the Legislature makes such a thing as nearly impossible as legal ingenuity can make it. In such an agitation they would doubtless have the assistance of the respectable portion of the legal profession, which is also implicated in the wrong that is done by hole and corner sales, because such sales are usually directed by unprincipled members of that profession, and that fact must be a discomfort to the others who have any professional pride. The remedy is very simple; it is merely to compel all such sales to be made in open daylight by designating a place at which they shall be held, and which shall come to be known in the minds of all people interested in real estate, in any capacity whatever, as the place where such sales are always held. It does not matter that the attempt to obtain this reform has been made before; it must be repeated until successful. So long as it lasts lawyers and real estate auctioneers and agents will always have to bear the shame of it.

The Department of Buildings.

As a result of the presentation of the petition to the Mayor, reported at length by THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week, asking for an expert examination into the workings of the Department of Buildings, Mayor Strong has been quietly making some inquiries into this matter. Several well-known architects, some of them signers of the petition, have called upon him at his request. A further conference, at which Mr. Constable is to be present, is to take place to-day. These conferences are not public. When the Superintendent of Buildings was before the Board of Apportionment yesterday to urge the voting of an increased appropriation for his Department, the Mayor stated that these conferences were going on and the consideration of the appropriation relating to the main department was passed over until the result was known, while the matter of increasing the legal force was referred to the Corporation Counsel for report. In the course of his remarks Mr. Constable is reported as saying that the "criminality in the Department" was beyond comprehension, and that many buildings had been erected and alterations made without permits. The last remark substantiates what has been said in these columns about the building trade being in a condition of revolt against the Department.

The Architectural League has appointed a committee, consisting of Messrs. George B. Post, chairman; James Symington and Edward H. Clark, at his request, to confer with the Superintendent of Buildings on the modifications to be made in the building law. The committee has held no meetings yet.

The following communication has been received from a gentleman whose acquaintance with the Department has extended over a long period of years:

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of last Saturday I notice another protest, signed by numerous architects, as to the doings of the Department of Buildings, and also a statement that Mr. Constable had paid a visit to Mayor Strong, backed with letters of recommendations signed by Mr. Post, and McKim, Mead & White. Now, the last-named firm, fortunately for them, have very little business with the Department. The practice of those two firms is of a character of which the present officers of the Department know very little. When it comes to such buildings as those firms are now erecting, the road through the Department is comparatively easy.

It is those practitioners who have to do with the common, ordinary buildings of New York, the homes of the middle class and of the poor, who have to suffer. These men are not permitted to appeal to Mr. Constable personally, and if an appeal is sent in writing it is in most cases not answered. I will relate what happened early this day and in the presence of many anxious seekers after information:

An Old Citizen arrived early in hopes of seeing Mr. Constable, and felt happy when he was put down No. 1. Punctually at 10 o'clock a spruce-looking young man emerged from the private sanctum of the superintendent. The young man called No. 1, and inquired his business. No. 1 wanted to see Mr. Constable and not the young man; he had business of importance to consult about; he was a citizen and taxpayer and demanded as such to see the head of the Department, but it was of no use. He was refused admittance, though he explained that he had plans for buildings which had been filed five months, and that some man upstairs had raised some technical objections to the location of one window, which could not be changed without injury to the building; that the work was stopped and men kept idle, and therefore it was necessary for him to see Mr. Constable.

Finally the matter was referred to the ever polite F. D., who offered the Old Citizen a pass for upstairs to see the one from whose decision the Old Citizen had appealed.

This kind offer was declined with thanks, and the demand was repeated for admission to the presence of Mr. C. "Oh! what use is it?" said the F. D. "Don't be so cross such a fine morning. Go up and see the man on the top floor who is an expert in that line and knows more about it than the Superintendent and myself both."

Still the Old Citizen declined, and remarked that if he could not see Mr. Constable in the ordinary line of business he could force an interview in a court, as the objections raised are not embodied in the law.

Here is a pretty state of affairs, Mr. Constable cannot be seen, cannot be appealed to, cannot be argued with, and the man upstairs knows more than the Superintendent and all his deputies.

And in the meantime work is delayed, men of capital will not build, mechanics and laborers are kept idle, and still those mechanics and laborers are now asked through their votes to perpetuate that wonderful reform which has driven them to the verge of starvation.

OLD CITIZEN.

NEW YORK, Oct 14, 1895.

The Engineer in Building.

The high building, being one of the results of the development of construction in iron and steel, has brought the engineer prominently forward in the field that only a comparatively few years ago was occupied exclusively by the architect. It combines the work of the two. While all the æsthetic or artistic features of the building still belong to the architect, as did the more attractive properties as well as the practical details of the low ones, it was the engineer who made it possible to carry them above the old limit of five or six stories to the colossal proportions of twenty or twenty-five stories, as will soon be the case, and perhaps far beyond that where the foundations will permit it. The architect has been quick to recognize the importance and advantages of the engineer's work, but all the same the high building is a feat of engineering and not the solution of an architectural problem in the sense in which the term architecture has hitherto always been accepted. There are old buildings carried, especially in their ornamental features, to a height greater than any yet built on the skeleton principle, but only on a base that, for pecuniary reasons, was denied to the commercial building. It was not until many experiments, of which the Eiffel Tower was the most triumphant, in riveting series of columns and beams one above the other had been successfully carried out, and when it was proved that a building could be carried up into the air hundreds of feet upon an ordinary lot, with a floor surface as great in the upper as in the lower stories, that the high building became attractive for the profitable employment of capital. The architectural features of these buildings are nothing more than repetitions of what appeared in the low ones, a simulation of the appearance of high buildings of old date, built regardless of cost in labor and money and of surface space, guiding their arrangement.

Seeing the important part the engineer has played in the creation of the modern, paying, high building, it is not surprising that he is beginning to be heard on the subject of the laws and regulations which now control and will hereafter control their erection, and also upon another subject, as important for sentimental reasons if not for practical ones, the credit that shall severally attach to the architect and engineer for these works of constructural art and, in a smaller degree, which of them will in the future take the initiative and consequently the chief credit for their creation. The second subject must be left for treatment on another occasion, the first, even in a general way, being sufficient, and more than sufficient, for any space that can be given to it at the present time. The engineer, in his connection with the architecture of our cities, has naturally become a critic of the laws relating to construction. His position is generally this: That these laws were framed for buildings different to what are being erected now and are insufficient for the latter, though it cannot be said that he has thought out the whole subject and is prepared to supply what is necessary in detail. When canvassed for views on the additions and modifications necessary in the building law of New York for instance, engineers are apt to hold up their hands in surprise and point out that the expression of a comprehensive opinion involves the careful study of the law in the light of their experience, a work of considerable time, and some say, reasonably it must be admitted, that if the city wants a law based upon scientific conclusions, it ought to employ engineers to furnish those conclusions and to pay them, as it would lawyers, for drafting other measures necessary to its government. In passing it may be said that it really is unreasonable to expect, as seems to be the case, that architects and engineers will give their professional knowledge, experience and time to the public without reward while such a thing would not be asked of the members of other professions, law and medicine for instance. There are others that take the seemingly unnecessarily gloomy view that professional views would not weigh in the least against the arguments of commercial interests in the minds of legislators and that it is useless, therefore, to express professional views.

The necessity for amendments to the building law to meet the requirements of modern construction is a question that has been informally discussed in the American Society of Civil Engineers. That body is very conservative. How conservative may be judged from this note printed on the face of its transactions: "This society is not responsible as a body for the facts and opinions advanced in any of its publications." A society that acts with so much caution is not likely to take any initiative, if any part at all, in procuring the amendment of the building law, but as it also leaves its members free to do as they please individually the profession will no doubt be properly represented in any consideration of that matter. The younger members of the profession—especially those who are taking part in building work—are giving the question most thought and have opinions already pretty well formed on some points where amendment of the New York building law is not only desirable, but necessary. Put together the views of these gentlemen are about as follows: That the present law had for its foundations the requirements of a building on a 25-foot lot and about five stories high, and in view of the coming of the high building and its rapid development something better is required. Coming to particular insufficiencies of the law it is claimed that there are many things that it does not cover, one being proper regulations for wind bracing of high structures, and another for the examination of the intended beds of foundations and the designing of the foundations themselves, as well as the skeleton construction, by competent engineers. Good architects, when not engineers themselves, employ engineers for these purposes as a matter of prudence, but it is under no legislative requirement, and it is felt by engineers that safe construction requires that it should be legally obligatory in the cases of all buildings where the load is concentrated. Then there are existing provisions of law which engineers hold to be in cases inadequate, in cases excessive and in cases unreasonable when applied to modern skeleton construction. The requirements as to carrying capacities of foundations, the projections of footings ought to be revised and modified, especially in relation to the soil in which they are to be placed. It is held, too, that the regulations as to the thickness of walls, as applied to skeleton construction, should be modified to a thickness sufficient as a protection against fire, because, as the walls are not intended to carry the building, what is a sufficient protection against fire in the upper stories is also equally sufficient for all purposes in the lower. It has been suggested that a uniform thickness of 16 inches is all that is necessary, instead of a grading by an additional 4 inches every 50 feet down. Another objection relates to the requirements for co-efficients of strength. The present regulation that the columns of the lowest story shall be equal to carrying the load of all the floors above, calculated upon their maximum carrying capacity, is held to be reasonable only perhaps in the cases of warehouses, and ought to be modified in relation to hotels, office and other buildings; that in these latter cases there ought to be a grading down of required strengths more in proportion to the load that can, under reasonable circumstances, be anticipated, and still providing every element of safety. This point, it will be found, is treated in one of the interviews with well-known engineers of this city given below, which, with the others, are equally interesting as showing the opinions and views of engineers on the insufficiency of the existing building law to deal with buildings of skeleton construction:

Mr. Corydon T. Purdy, of the firm of Purdy & Henderson, said: "We think the building law is very conservative, but if it is to be criticised at all it is not to be criticised because of its conservatism, but rather because there are certain points in the law which conflict with each other, and because of some omissions and some provisions which are not in keeping with the progress which has been made in the iron and steel industry in the last few years. If a general revision of the law was undertaken there would probably be some important points relating to wall and column construction which it would be well to revise in certain particulars. Without question the Building Department under its present management is fully alive to these facts, and it seems to me that Mr. Constable appreciates the difficulties and comprehends all that it is possible to accomplish under the conditions which the law provides.

"The use of steel in the construction of buildings without question calls into need a scientific treatment almost unknown before the day of skeleton construction. Very few architects are educated as engineers, and those that have had no engineering training must be dependent in some way upon the services of engineers who are familiar with structural iron designing. These men may be employed in their own offices or from outside, but their employment is necessary to the proper and intelligent construction of large buildings as we are now building them. This in no way discredits the position of the architect. He is still the artist, the master of his own construction, and the man upon whom the success of the structure depends.

"The method of operation which has been pretty generally employed in the past—depending very largely upon the contractors for the detail work—is not so greatly to the credit of the architect as the employment of an engineer by the owner of the building to co-operate with him in the production of the steel construction. Architects are expected to furnish drawings sufficiently in detail to show what iron is to be used in the building, in a general way how it is to be used, and sufficient to permit of its being properly estimated. Before the iron is delivered, however, each piece must be detailed, and this latter labor, which is often greatly in excess of the former, has generally been considered as a part of the work of the contractor for the structural iron. The employment of an engineer independent of the contractor, who shall be associated with the architect in some capacity in the original design of construction, and his continued employment by the owner of the building in the detailing of the work, the supervision of its inspection, if inspected, and its proper erection, keeping the entire construction, from its first inception to its final completion, under one management, working always in sympathy with the architect, should serve as the surest guarantee of the very best and most economical construction. It seems to me the relation of the engineer to the work of building big buildings is the right one, and that it takes nothing whatever from the dignity or the credit of the architect. On the contrary, it does as much as can be done to secure perfection of design and execution, and to that extent is altogether to his advantage, as it is also to the advantage of the owner."

Mr. Russell W. Hildreth, of Messrs. R. W. Hildreth & Co., said, referring to the New York building law: "There is no question but that the engineer is tied hard and fast by the loads prescribed and the unit stresses allowed and is not permitted to use his own judgment. That would be all right if the unit stresses and the loads were framed by a committee of engineers in accordance with the best modern practice. I do not find anything to criticise as far as the prescribed loads are concerned; they seem to be fair and safe if they were varied properly for the different portions of the work and a distinction drawn between the loads for columns, beams and girders. But the relations prescribed for the allowed stresses in iron and steel are not in accordance with the practice elsewhere or in justice to the various metals used. The law discriminates very unfairly in favor of the use of cast-iron, and it is for that reason we continue still to see such a large amount of cast-iron used in this city. Under the laws it is much more economical to use it, whereas if the engineer was left free to design in accordance with what is recognized as the proper stresses to be allowed there would not be the advantage in favor of cast-iron that now exists. For instance, the crushing strengths of the various materials are fixed at: 80,000 pounds for cast-iron, 48,000 pounds for steel and 40,000 pounds for wrought-iron, and the use of Gordon's formula for the strength of columns is prescribed without specifying just which form of this formula is intended. The factor of safety prescribed for wrought-iron and steel is 4, which is in accordance with customary practice, but the factor of safety of 5, prescribed for cast-iron, is only about one-half to five-eighths of that which is customary where freedom in designing is left to the engineer. This does not necessarily mean that sufficient metal is not put into the cast-iron columns to accord with good practice, if this metal is to be used at all for the purpose, because the law in regard to floor-loads, requiring the maximum load to be assumed to exist on every floor, probably more than makes up for this, at least in the lower-story columns. The net result is, however, to require either an excess of metal in steel columns or a lack of it in cast-iron columns, at any rate discriminating very unfairly in favor of cast-iron. As a matter of fact the result is that the law requires an unnecessarily excessive amount of metal in steel columns, placing that much of a handicap on the use of steel. The whole matter of the relation of the loads and stresses to be used in building construction is one that ought to be determined with precision by engineers thoroughly experienced in designing with the various classes of materials.

"There are a good many other ways in which the law is not in accordance with good practice. For instance, it requires that the maximum load on the floor shall be assumed as existing on every floor in the building in figuring the columns, whereas while such a load may occasionally be obtained locally on some portions of one floor, and at different times on all floors, it would never be possible to have it on every floor at the same time. In other words, whatever load is prescribed for figuring beams and girders in the floors should not be prescribed for every floor in figuring the columns, as the relations between the loads that are likely to exist in practice, are not in accordance with such assumptions. According to the law as it exists there is always either an insufficiency of strength in beams or a superabundance of strength in the columns, and, therefore, a lack of material in the former or a waste in the latter. I would say further, in regard to this, that if the law undertakes to prescribe at all the loads and unit stresses to be assumed in calculating structural iron-work it ought to go into the question in much greater detail than it does. In fact, it ought to prescribe complete specifications under which structural iron and steel-work can be designed to suit the varying conditions in the city. Such specifications can only be properly drawn by a commission of engineers and architects thoroughly conversant with the subject. As it is a difficult matter to prescribe hard and fast rules to meet every emergency that may arise in designing, the design of such work should invariably be placed in the hands of competent architects or engineers, although if this were done in every case such laws would hardly be necessary."

H. Waller Brinckerhoff, consulting engineer, of No. 45 Broadway, said: "In view of the increasing importance of the work of the civil engineer in the design and erection of the tall buildings now becoming so common, an importance emphasized by the recent disaster at the Ireland Building, it would seem desirable that the Building Department of New York should take some action requiring the employment of an engineer when necessary. It is also desirable that any one so employed should be an engineer in fact as well as in name. Both objects would be attained if the Building Department should require that the structural work of all buildings of a certain class, in regard to height, weight and foundation, should be designed and superintended by a civil engineer approved by the Department. This obviously amounts to licensing certain engineers to do certain work, and would require special legislation to make it effective and to determine the conditions on which such license should be granted, but it will be observed that this is very different from requiring engineers to be licensed in order to practice their profession, as in all other respects they would be as free as before.

"Such a regulation, if properly administered, would be an effective safeguard against failure from structural weakness, and could be objected to by none but those who wish to erect buildings without paying for proper supervision, or those who wish to be paid for such supervision without being qualified to give it. It should be welcomed by the architects as relieving them from what is often a serious and annoying responsibility, and would prove a valuable aid to the Building Department in securing the objects for which it exists. Of course the Building Department would still need a staff of engineers competent to decide on plans and sufficient to see that they are carried out, but their work would be much lightened if the plans were properly made in the first place and their execution placed in competent hands.

"If recent graduates in civil engineering could be appointed as inspectors of building construction, it would not only be very valuable training for them, but probably insure much better work for the Department whose field, it should be clearly recognized, is solely that of the civil engineer and has nothing to do with the appearance or utility of the building, which it is the province of the architect to determine."

The Tax Rebate.

Our statement made last week in regard to the tax rebate was erroneous in respect to the date [illegible] which the rebate can be secured. The official announcement [illegible] the matter of the rebate taken from The City Record is as follows: "In case of payment on or before the 1st day of November next, the person so paying shall be entitled to the benefits mentioned in section 842 of the New York City Consolidation Act of 1882, viz: A reduction of interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum between the day of such payment and the 1st day of December next." The announcement on the tax bills is: "A deduction at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, calculated from the date of payment to the 1st day of December, will be made on all taxes paid previous to the 1st of November."

The Orchard Street Disaster.

In connection with the fall of a tenement house, in process of erection, in Orchard street, last March, the Grand Jury have brought in indictments for manslaughter in the second degree, superseding the other indictments, against William F. Lennon, owner; Timothy J. Ormsby, the building inspector, and Peter Comes and John Cleves, mason.

Those Retained Plans.

The new Municipal Building Commission has asked the advice of the Corporation Counsel on their powers to make the money awards for plans for a new municipal building submitted in competition long ago, and also to return the plans submitted to their owners. This means another period of waiting for the people who submitted plans.

A Five Cent Fare to Fort Hamilton.

In no section of the city of Brooklyn and its outlying wards has the development been so phenomenal as in the one commonly known as Bay Ridge and its neighbor Fort Hamilton. This section, which but a comparatively short time ago was nothing but a grassy slope, is now covered with blocks of big flats on the main avenues and with a good class of private dwellings on the side streets. This growth may be attributed almost entirely to the extensions of the street railroads. The introduction of electricity in place of the old horse-car system at once gave an impetus to the real estate and building interests in this section. But when the elevated railroad company extended its system from 5th avenue and 36th street to 3d avenue and 65th street the effect was still more remarkable considering the condition of trade generally. Property along 3d avenue at once went up, and is now as nearly gilt-edged as Brooklyn real estate apparently can be. As a consequence, builders and speculators are beginning to extend their field of operations out into the new ward where land is considerably cheaper. But here they meet with an obstacle which is giving them a great deal of trouble. The elevated road stops at 65th street; so also do the surface cars. Therefore to go a short distance of about a mile one is obliged to pay an extra fare. This to a class of people who come to live here for the sake of economy means a great deal. The railroad companies have been frequently asked by prominent real estate owners here to reduce the fare to Fort Hamilton, but they have hitherto refused to do so on the pretext that they could not afford to do it. However, owing to the urgency of the demands made upon them it is understood that the question of the advisability of reducing the fare to Fort Hamilton to five cents will be considered at an early meeting of the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Heights R. R. Co., and if found practicable the reduction will be made.

LEGAL REALTY SALES IN KINGS COUNTY.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

My only hesitation in answering your reporter's inquiry is that I have not a sufficient command of the English language to express in terse Anglo-Saxon words my opinion of the iniquitous manner of conducting legal-realty auctions in Kings County, which I say is without precedent in modern enlightened civilization. As I understand, under existing special law, passed for the benefit of ringsters in the bailiwick of the bosses, all sales, unless plaintiff and defendant agree, must be made by the Sheriff; in other cases by the Referee.

It seems to me that every attorney in the State should demand the instantaneous repeal of one of the most odious laws in our statute books, which takes from them annually a vast amount of business to which they are legitimately entitled, and places the lucrative proceeds into the pockets of a well-known boss whose yearly income exceeds that of the President of the United States. Why should Kings County alone have such privileges? Ask Willoughby street.

About four years ago prominent Democratic and Republican capitalists (outside of ring influences), realizing the unfortunate condition under which legal sales were made, organized the present Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange. Four hundred and fifty thousand dollars were spent in purchasing ground and erecting probably the finest building for such purposes on the American continent. After completion it was naturally thought that orders would be issued requiring all legal sales to be made in its capacious auction room, but under Democratic regime this was found impossible. It was, however, supposed that after the present Sheriff had been elected by a large Republican majority no further difficulty would be experienced. The officers of the Real Estate Exchange met this gentleman, and were willing to make most liberal concessions in order that their room might be utilized for public sales. He was all smiles, made no promises, and as he left the room probably whispered sotto voce to himself: "Didn't I play my part well? Such chickens can't pull the wool over the eyes of this rooster." Of course the proposition was entirely, completely and altogether ignored, and although the Directors during the last two winters have had acts introduced in the Legislature for the purpose of having all legal sales made in their exchange, which passed the Assembly, and in consequence of the opposition of Kings County bosses were hung up in the Senate, it may be assumed that the chances for the future appear to be less favorable than in the past.

The present condition is deplorable, both for creditor and debtor. Legal sales in Kings County are made in many different places wherever the Sheriff or Referee decides—not infrequently under the steps of the rotunda of the Kings County Court House or in some other inaccessible place. Sale after sale has been set aside because the defendant or those who would bid could not find place where property was to be sold. This is outrageous, and yet as long as Republican and Democratic bosses acting in unison rule the city, county and Legislature no relief can be expected.

Is there no remedy for this? Not under existing circumstances. If we could have a tremendous earthquake that would consign ringsters and tricksters into everlasting oblivion there would probably be short-timed relief. As now political bosses are the most expert fishermen on earth. Every November they start on piscatorial expeditions and haul in hundreds of thousands of dupes. These are equally distributed among their followers and all have a share in the plunder of the great catch. Consolidation would remedy the difficulty, but how can this be advanced when the great majority of candidates for the coming November election have not the manliness or moral courage to state their position on this important subject. After the people by a large majority have voted in favor of consolidation many of the candidates want to crawl out of the matter on the miserable pretext of "Referendum." We need across the river more men of the William J. Gaynor, Samuel J. Tilden and William Ziegler stamp, to unearth past corruption and to give encouragement for the future.

I think it is your duty, as the only recognized organ of the real estate interests of New York and Brooklyn, in ringing clarion, unmistakable tones, without any reservations whatsoever, to denounce the great infamy, and insist that all legal sales in Kings County, as in New York, shall be made at one hour and in one place. I do not know how you can confer a greater favor upon the real estate interests in the city across the river, soon to become a portion of the "Greater New York," than by adopting this cause.

The Widening of Courtlandt Avenue.

Property-owners in the vicinity are complaining of the delay that is taking place in carrying out the work of widening Courtlandt avenue at the corner of 3d avenue. Last April applications for damages were filed at the request of the city. Since then the sale of the condemned property has been postponed from time to time and property-owners cannot understand why this improvement is not pushed along as rapidly as others are in Mr. Hallen's department.

Raising the Price of Land by an Otis Elevator.

Park Hill on the Hudson is a succession of surprises. It is in many respects the most extraordinary suburban development in the vicinity of New York City. When it is remembered that a little over five years ago this beautiful residence park on the north of our city, with its elegant homes and charming social life, was a tract of raw woodland and rough hillside, about the base of which had just been completed the New York & Northern Railway, it will be seen what capabilities our northern property contains when handled with superior skill and foresight.

It has been said, and we believe truthfully, "No great city of the world has such a picturesque background as New York. Not London, nor Paris, nor Berlin, nor Vienna, nor St. Petersburg can compare even in a slight degree with the setting of the Metropolis of the Western Hemisphere."

Park Hill has another lesson which is not thrown away on a real estate man in the advantage of the combination of this great natural beauty with availability. The shrewd officers of the American Real Estate Investment Union early recognized the fact that Hudson River scenery had a market value. That commanding views on the river banks within easy distance of down-town New York were scarce and high and eagerly sought after by men of great wealth. They recognized the further fact that, while among the two-and-a-half millions of people who crowded Manhattan Island there might be a few millionaires, there was a yet larger number from the upper middle class with refined taste who would be willing to pay an enhanced price for a home site if with its title deeds went as a perpetual easement the right to look out unobstructed over the grandeur of river and palisades that stretches away from fifteen to twenty miles in either direction from the heights of Park Hill.

Park Hill was secured as a commercial venture and for no other purpose. Easy and delightful roads were built to its summit at great expense, from the beautiful station at its base, where stop day and night seventy trains in twenty-four hours in their ceaseless shuttle back and forth from Getty Square, Yonkers, to 155th street, New York. But that no stone might be left unturned to satisfy the luxurious curiosity of the most fastidious New Yorker, the company went even further and constructed a modern Otis elevator of the most approved plan, devised especially for the spot, and built with its accompanying inclosures at a cost of $25,000. This elevator is run by hydraulic power, and so ingeniously constructed that it uses the difference in water pressure between the two Yonkers' systems. Taking its water from the Yonkers high service it draws its load to the top of the hill then discharges the water into the low service, thus putting it back into the city's pipes for use without having wasted a single drop. It is said that no where else in the United States is there an elevator constructed on this unique system.

On the top of the incline the Company has constructed a superb waiting room, which is fitted up with every modern convenience; retiring rooms, closets, hot and cold water, luxuriant chairs and sofas. Along the west side of this room, projecting towards the river, is a wide veranda, from which a view is obtained that has been pronounced by Hudson River students to be one of the two finest on the banks of the lower stream, the other being the magnificient panorama from Villard's place at Dobbs' Ferry.

From the Park Hill Elevator one sees the entire wall of the palisades, from the Indian's Head over-looking the Tappan Zee, to the docks at Hoboken, for Park Hill is nearly opposite the centre of this great geological wonder.

Just back of the elevator from the towers of the adjoining residences a still greater expanse is unfolded, and one may there behold the true wealth of scenery which Park Hill commands. On any clear day the eye travels to the north for thirty-five miles until it rests upon the hills opsite West Point, to the south for twenty miles to Staten Island, to the east taking in the range of Long Island until its hills are lost in the blue distance.

In the entire environment of New York City such another spot cannot be found. To begin with the officers of the American Real Estate Investment Union had satisfied themselves of that fact. With that point settled they set out to utilize what nature had already made surpassingly beautiful and they could not go very far wrong. Of course it would be an anxious question to them how long it should require for the public to appreciate their work. Neither were they mistaken in their calculations here. Park Hill is now a little over five years old and is as great a success, so far as community building goes, as the most sanguine of its promoters could have hoped. They did not of course reckon a panic in their calculations—nobody does; but with the panic thrown in, and no mean panic at that, Park Hill to-day is an accomplished fact, and it only stands on the threshold of its greatest success. The Park Hill Country club has been famous for years for the elegance of its entertainments. Its membership was never so large nor so enthusiastic as the one entering upon the gaieties of the coming season. There are more homes in course of construction there now than during any previous year of its history, and the outlook for next spring, the officers of the company tell us, is most gratifying. This is all a proof of the fact we have always maintained that in real estate, as in the other vocations of men, there is a continuing demand for the best. While the panic may slow up the market for ordinary suburban property, in New York City particularly, there is a class of men, and women, too, who are looking for the best, will have nothing but the best will satisfy, and who have the money to pay for it because it is the best. Park Hill, while not an aristocratic community yet, is elegant enough in its appointments to interest the most fastidious, as well as the home and health seeker. It will find all that the best of upper New York afford—churches, physicians, markets at the door, sewers, water, electricity, mail delivery, a club-house for amusement and entertainment, with all its appointments most complete. Its drives, horses and equipages, beautiful effects in landscape gardening, century old trees scattered over the entire Park. It is a paradise as well as an adult's delight. We advise our readers to call at No. 10 West 22d street, to look in on Park Hill, if it is only to see how the country is coming along in the real estate world.

It has been credited to Chauncey Depew that the remark, "On the Hudson River, between Dobbs' Ferry and Spuyten Duyvil Creek, near Market street, five-eighths of the world. This may or may not be so, but the watching by the brethren of the profession emphatically shows.

Real Estate Market.

Definite information relating to sales by brokers and builders which will aggregate about $1,700,000 has been obtained this week, but that sum would probably be doubled were particulars available of a number of other more or less important transactions that we are informed have been brought to a successful issue. Many of the suppressed sales will not be disclosed until their story is told by the recording of the various deeds. The most satisfactory feature of the business of the last few days is the extensive buying that has been reported of property in the uptown sections of the city. Vacant lots, private residences and flats, have all been freely sold, and it is evident that investors who are not overlooking opportunities to buy at the comparatively low rates prevailing are still an important factor in the market.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1894 and 1895.

The selling by auction at the Broadway Salesroom on Tuesday and Wednesday resulted fairly well and must be regarded as encouraging, for the reason that an unusually large number of parcels of modest attractions were disposed of at voluntary and executors' sales. On Monday, William Kennelly adjourned without date, a frequently mentioned foreclosure sale of No. 57 West 68th street. On Tuesday, Peter F. Meyer & Co. withdrew, on a bid of $8,400 each, seven lots on the north side of 70th street, 220 feet west of West End avenue, and D. P. Ingraham & Co., on a bid of $44,000, a plot of about thirty lots on Kingsbridge road, north of 187th street.

On Wednesday Bryan L. Kennelly's announcements drew a crowd of large dimensions, and he held the attention of his auditors until the last property was offered and knocked down. Prices varied, however, between good and bad, the most satisfactory being obtained by Mr. Kennelly for No. 144 East 60th street, which brought $2,700 more than the house sold for in January, 1890. On the same day the following parcels were withdrawn by their respective auctioneers, or bid in by representatives of the owners: No. 92 James street, at $13,500; Nos. 317 to 321 East 34th street, at $31,000; No. 44 East 73d street, at $48,250, and No. 151 Lenox avenue at $19,200.

At the Real Estate Exchange Richard V. Harnett & Co. withdrew the following properties during the week owing to the lukewarm and therefore unsatisfactory bidding: No. 275 Water street; No. 322 Pleasant avenue, for which $12,700 was offered; No. 67 Bowery, on which the final bid was $42,000, and No. 197 7th street.

Peter F. Meyer & Co.'s sale on Monday of the Sickles' estate property at New Rochelle, N. Y., was notably successful, a total of about $170,000 being realized. The principal buyers were H. A. Siebrecht, S. Hettinger, Lewis M. Samuel, William Wood, William A. Quinn, M. P. Chatterton, W. H. Adams, Duncan M. Stewart, John D. Heins, Evan Jones, M. Marshall, William Valentine, Max Stadie, E. D. Griggs, L. Holler, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, Mrs. A. H. Denham and George S. Sickles. The three last named are heirs of the estate and the Sickles' homestead of over 110 acres was bought by their representative at $925 per acre.

Messrs. Wilcox Bros. & Marx, realty dealers, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., again call attention on page iii of this issue to their offerings of speculative and investment properties at Niagara Falls. These offerings include water frontage, factory sites, acreage and building lots, besides other properties. S. D. Epstein, whose offices are in the Mutual Life Building, represents Messrs. Wilcox Bros. & Marx in New York, and will furnish full particulars, on application, of the tempting parcels they have for sale.

Among the rumors in circulation yesterday was one of a sale by the Sternberger estate of the five-story buildings, No. 525 Broadway, running through to Mercer street and including the southeast corner of that street and Spring. The frontage on Broadway is 25 and on Mercer street 61 feet, while the Spring street front takes in Nos. 94 to 104. The consideration mentioned was about $350,000. The report, however, remained unverified up to the hour of going to press.

Larsen's Improved Dumb-Waiter.

The dumb-waiter illustrated herewith is the subject of letters patent, and has been adopted largely by such prominent builders and architects as Dwyer & Haigh, Edward Franke, Edward Kilpatrick, John G. Prague and Clarence True.

On the inner face of the hoist-wheel there is an annular flange around which is held a spring metal-brake-strap, secured at its ends to a pivoted lever, attached to which is a cord running over friction pulleys, with counterpoise balance weight. The downward adjustment of the line attached to brake holds the car and load secure, and by raising the line gives the waiter free access to move up or down as may be desired.

The frame of the waiter is not nailed together like a box, but, as seen in the cut, is held together with dowel pins top and bottom, a mode of construction which affords the strongest car that can be made.

At the bottom of the shaft are friction pulleys over which the hand-rope passes. These pulleys are free to move up or down according to the tension placed upon them.

Every wheel is made after new patterns, and the bearings have been improved to make this dumb-waiter the equal of the best on the market.

Address all communications for illustrated circulars and estimates to Anton Larsen, manufacturer of dumb-waiters, elevators and standard grade of refrigerators, office and factory, corner of 134th street and Brook avenue, New York City.—(Communicated.)

Questions and Answers.

Correspondents who do not find answers to their communications in this paper must please refer to future issues.

EXTENSION OF MORTGAGE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly answer through your paper the following question: A holds a mortgage of $3,000 on B's house for three years at 5 per cent. The three years were up January 1, 1895. B wrote to A November 10, 1894, if he wanted his money, as B had it on hand and could pay off the whole, but in the letter B told A that if he did not want the money and wished to let the mortgage stand for three years more at the same percentage that B would invest the money elsewhere. A wrote to B that the mortgage could remain at the same percentage for another three years. Now, when B paid six months' interest on July 1st, 1895, A writes to B that he wants $1,000 paid off on January 1, 1896, making the mortgage $2,000. B has his money invested, not due until a year from next December, and consequently cannot pay A the thousand dollars as demanded by A. B has nothing else to show but the letter in which A says that the money can remain for three years more at 5 per cent. Must B pay him the thousand dollars?

Answer.—B cannot be compelled to pay any portion of the principal until the expiration of the three years.—LAW EDITOR.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please decide the following case in your next issue: Tenant hires private house for three years, at $1,400 per annum; terms, monthly, in advance; leaves one month's rent as security for faithful performance of all covenants of lease; defaults in payment of August and September rent. Demand made for both months and case brought before one of our district judges, who decides that but one month's rent can be recovered, although the lease was in full force for another year. Although the case was settled out of court, to the satisfaction of the owner, he would like to be informed whether the judge's decision was correct?

Answer.—The judge's decision was correct.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly give us information in your next issue in regard to the opening of Elm street and when it is to take place, and oblige.

C. A. L. & Co.

Answer.—The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment are still taking testimony on claims for damages. By an arrangement with property owners to end litigation the city cannot take title until the report of the Commissioners is confirmed, though under the law as it stands the Board of Street Opening and Improvement can by a three-quarter vote specify the day on which title shall vest in the city.—LAW EDITOR.

ADJOINING OWNERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Would you kindly answer a question in reference to the Wolff case, in which an extension was built by one party and a high fence to obstruct the view of the extension builder was built by the second party. Taking a hypothetical case, if it could be proven that the fence was built without any but a malicious object would the case be decided against him (the fence builder). In short, does object have any weight in a case at law? By answering the above at your earliest convenience in the columns of your paper you will greatly oblige an old subscriber.

Answer.—One can do as he wishes with his own, provided he does not injure his neighbor, or, in the words of the legal maxim, "Sic utere tuo, ut alienum non laedas." If my neighbor puts up an extension that is obnoxious to me by reason of his view of my premises I may put up a fence to cut off his view. There is no malice in such an act. Malice is "the doing a wrongful act without just cause or excuse," or "a conscious violation of the law to the prejudice of another" (Bouvier's Law Dictionary).—LAW EDITOR.

ADJOINING LOT ON GRADE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Lot A, in the rear of lot B, is somewhat higher to within a few feet of dividing fence. Owner of lot A throws ashes, rubbish, etc., in this space and pushes fence over on lot B. Can the owner of lot B force owner of lot A to repair damages, and who must build retaining wall?

Answer.—Owner B must repair damages. The adjoining owners must share the expense of the construction of a retaining wall.—LAW EDITOR.

MECHANIC'S LIEN.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following in your columns? A did some contracting work for B on a new building. When A had his work done B wanted to settle with A, but A was not satisfied and so A put a mechanic's lien against B. B deposited the money in County Clerk's office. Now, will B get his money back, without trouble, after the term of one year if A does not sue for it?

Answer.—He will have the trouble of applying to the County Clerk for it. He will not be obliged to get an order of court.—LAW EDITOR.

Trade Notes.

WALL STREET'S TALLEST OFFICE BUILDING.

Richard L. Walsh has been selected to do the carpentry work on the highest and latest planned of Wall street's new structures. Messrs. Clinton & Russell are the architects, and the Duchess de Dino, owner, of the sixteen-story office building which is being erected at Nos. 63 and 65 Wall street, at an estimated cost of $225,000. Mr. Walsh is well and very favorably known as an experienced and thoroughly reliable carpenter, builder and general contractor. His list of contracts satisfactorily executed embrace many from the offices of New York's leading architects. Such modern buildings as the Stokes Building, Nos. 47 and 49 Cedar street; Sheldon Building, Nassau and John streets; Stevens Building, Nos. 3 and 5 Maiden lane, are fair specimens of his work. On Broadway Mr. Walsh built a store for Tailor Max Arnheim and the two new stores for John Daniell & Sons without interruption to their business, and eight others are planned by the firm to conform with the two referred to and complete their block. Mr. Walsh also rebuilt and modernized the Demali block, corner of Park row and Beekman street, which is now ready for occupancy, and erected the new flat, No. 555 West Broadway. He is prepared to estimate on large and small contracts. Mr. Walsh's office is in the Stokes Building, 45–49 Cedar street; telephone, 3,435 Cortlandt.

WATER-PROOFING, HARDENING AND PROTECTING BUILDING STONE.

The "Fluate" process is being applied to the new Constable Building, 5th avenue, corner of 18th street, and the new seminary at Dunwoodie, N. Y., besides other important structures in and out of town. Building stones, marble, soft bricks, terra cotta and other porous substances which the builder has to employ are all more or less affected by corroding agents carried in the air of larger cities and by the rapid changes characteristic of our treacherous climate. Owners, architects and builders are therefore wise to adopt a treatment that has been tested for years and found satisfactory. Mr. A. E. Bockmann, of the Metropolitan Life Building, Madison avenue and 23d street, is prepared to give advice on the treatment that should be applied wherever a protective is needed, either for cleaning or hardening, or for both, together with estimates of cost, etc.

VILLEROY & BOCH'S TILE AND TERRA COTTA.

Mr. Charles Engelhard, of No. 41 Cortlandt street, is the representative of the world-renowned firm of Villeroy & Boch, whose tile works are at Mettlach, and terra cotta and tile works at Merzig-on-Saar, with factories in Mettlach, Merzig, Septfontaines, Dresden, Wallerfangen, Wadgassen and Schramberg, Germany. Mr. Engelhard's office and showroom is at No. 41 Cortlandt street.

COLUMBIAN FIRE-PROOF FLOORS.

The "Columbian" system of fire-proof floor construction has been introduced, among other buildings in New York City, into the St. Cecilia Parochial School, East 106th street, and the Cass Realty Building, Nos. 209 and 211 East 23d street. This system, it is claimed, is a great improvement over the brick arch and hollow tile. It consists in the use of special ribbed bars of steel, suspended from beams, and supported on edge by means of steel stirrups, which have the profile of the bar cut in them, these bars being surrounded by, and completely embedded in, concrete composed of Portland cement, sand and furnace slag or screenings. Floors constructed by this method have stood the test of still and jarring loads in a marvelous way and as equal to any material tested under a fire test. The lightness of this construction lessens in many cases the weight of beams, girders and columns; no wall channels are necessary, no punching for tie rods is necessary, consequently it introduces a means of considerable economy in building. The use of concrete floors had the approval of the great architects of Europe in the seventeenth century, and that approval has been continued down through their successors to this day. The "Columbian" system is not, therefore, an experiment, but an improvement on old systems by the union of iron or steel and concrete and by securing the maximum amount of strength with the use of a minimum of material. The great objection hitherto to the use of concrete has been the extra cost. This is removed by the Columbian system. Mr. Philip B. Cavanagh, the Eastern agent for its sale, is prepared to prove its efficiency and economy to any architect or builder who will call on him or write him at the Decker Building, No. 33 Union square. The Wilson & Bailie Manufacturing Co. (Kosmocrete) are constructors for the "Columbian" system.

The facts you want are put under your eyes, visible at a glance, every morning, so that you can--

1. Push ahead to get your share of business;

2. Spare your representatives the expensive game of hunting aimlessly over the field for orders. Give them the pointers; send them direct to the man who wants to buy, armed with information as to the thing wanted. Twice the amount of ground can be covered in this way;

3. Keep yourself (the Head of the Firm) informed of what is going on. Check off what your representatives are doing.

A good thing, a Bureau like this, Eh! But, perhaps you shrink from the expense of salaries to a score of men to travel among architects, owners and others; and no doubt you don't underestimate the task of organizing this Bureau, managing it, supplying it with brains? Well the Record and Guide (established 1868, the leading Real Estate and Building Journal of the United States) will do the work for you for about fourteen cents a day. That the work will be well done, is guaranteed by the high reputation of the Record and Guide. We know what you want. We have the capital and the experience. You can avail yourself of both for fourteen cents a day. Can you afford to be without this service? It won't of course sell your goods, but, if in the space of a year, you get only one pointer that finds you a customer, the service has paid for itself many times over. This is an age of specialties. You can't do this work as well for yourself, even at a cost of as many dollars as we ask cents. We want to talk to you further about this Bureau of ours, and are at your service.

Shall our representative have the pleasure of calling upon you in a day or two? Send us a postal card.

Yours truly,

RECORD AND GUIDE,

(Building News and Information Department.)

P. S. The Record and Guide guarantees the accuracy, the thoroughness and the progressiveness of this service. Neither money nor effort will be spared to make it perfect and advance it beyond any service now known. Don't pay big prices for information. Avail yourself of our advantages.

MORTGAGES.

N. B.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, OCTOBER 19, 1895.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

WALLABOUT MARKET.

The meeting held by the merchants doing business in Wallabout Market to protest against the policy of the Department of City Works towards that important trading institution was fully justified by the condition of the market, which is nothing more or less than disgraceful. The streets are obstructed by piles of building material, and the tearing up of the pavement has created a condition of discomfort seldom seen in any city, even in the City of Brooklyn. The merchants say that the manner of carrying on work in the market is causing them enormous loss, the condition of the streets being such as to make it dangerous to drive teams through them. In fact there have been many accidents from this cause. Naturally buyers are frightened away and the storekeepers lose their custom. Among many other complaints made against the Department of City Works, it is charged that the sewers were cut off without notice to the tenants; the result was that their cellars became flooded and other inconveniences thrown on the occupants of the buildings. It was not until this state of things had been brought to the attention of the Department that a representative of the sewer bureau was sent to give notice to the tenants of what the Department intended to do to the sewers. The blame for these unpleasantnesses is all laid to the faulty administration of the Department of City Works by the merchants of Wallabout market.

LEGAL REALTY SALES.

A reporter for THE RECORD AND GUIDE set out to gather information and opinions relating to legal realty sales in Brooklyn, but found little disposition among real estate interests to move in the matter. The occasion for this hesitation will be found in a letter from Mr. Jere. Johnson, Jr., published in another part of this issue.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET

NEW YORK.

BRICK.—The general market for Common Hards follows up the tendency of a week ago, and is making gradual improvement, without the development of unusual features. It seems to be simply a case of gradual reduction in shipments from various localities all along the river, and an offering here at times so close to the outlet as to place receivers in an independent position, although hardly to a point where they can push rates up rapidly. We find this week that even the heretofore slightly bearish element is willing to admit a fractional gain, and the range of prices is put at $4.62½@5.12½ for merchantable grades, with some of the favorite choice brands held fractionally higher, while moulding may possibly by this time be considered as practically done, and many manufacturers likely to curtail shipments or cease altogether where they can, there are plenty, no doubt, who will prefer cash to bricks, and continue forwarding so long as navigation admits. It is yet a little early to talk about accumulation of stock here on barges, but the probabilities are that it will take place as usual. There is still some demand for first-class pales.

GLASS.—Information in regard to the recent meeting of manufacturers and jobbers came too late for use in our last issue, but, as then anticipated, the results were fully in accord with previous plans, and an amicable agreement was reached through which all misunderstandings appear to have been overcome. The factories have agreed to adandon all quotations to consumers and refer them to the jobbing trade for such supplies as may be wanted. In addition, the jobbers are to be served by manufacturers at 70 and 10 per cent. discount in less than car lots, and 75 and 2½ per cent. discount in car lots or over, f. o. b. at factories The attendance of jobbers at the meeting in Cleveland included representatives from New York, Muncie (Ind.), Pittsburg and Newcastle (Pa.), Boston, Syracuse, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Louis, and while together they formed a National Association of Jobbers and elected the following officers: President, C. W. Brown, of Minneapolis; First Vice-President, Theodore W. Morris, of New York; Second Vice-President, William S. Kenny, of Chicago; Secretary, Willis H. Hodley, of St. Louis; Treasurer, James W. Lucas, of Philadelphia; Ex-

PREVALENT conditions on the stock market are still apathetic. If there is an indication of value for future guidance it will be found in the bond list, where there are some signs, in the hardening of prices, of new buying. All the Northern Pacific bonds for instance, have been quite strong this week, from which it may be surmised that the prospects for the reorganization of the Northern Pacific Company are brighter and nearer. In this connection it is proper to say that Mr. Brayton Ives and his friends deserve a great deal of credit for the work they have done, not only from the Northern Pacific security holders, but from security holders in this country in general. It has always been asserted that when once any particular party had got hold of a railroad property, it was impossible to get it away from them. We have always held the contrary, and that it only needed staying fighting powers to get the courts to do the right thing. The success of the Ives party has proved that we were right and we are sure, further, that if the cases against the people who were responsible for the downfall of the property and who milked it for so many years are pushed in the courts with the same pertinacity, they can be compelled to make restitution. The courts afford remedies, if they can only be reached, and obstruction to the application of such remedies has become what it is simply because injured parties would not insist upon their rights. A few fights to a finish, with the wrong-doers inevitably the losers, would do much to improve the moral condition of the promotor of enterprises. The securities of Southwestern properties which are being beared on the cotton-crop shortage ought to receive the attention of buyers. There is no logic in bearing these securities because of a falling off in the amount of cotton produced at this particular time, when the lessened production increases prices. When there is a crop failure, what the railroads have to fear most is a lessened buying power of the farmer, because not only do they suffer the direct loss of crop freights but also indirect and larger loss through the inability of the farmer to buy innumerable things which make up the bulk of miscellaneous freight. The Southwestern roads have done well in the last two years with the cotton low and in small demand, and they should do more in the year coming with cotton high and in good demand, although one crop has shown a serious falling off. Of the stock market as a whole it may be said that while too narrow for much confidence to be placed in any opinion that may be formed, the signs slightly favor better prices for the immediate future.

WAR fear is again upon the European nations. This attack has affected people and journals that have hitherto resisted contagion and is therefore all the more serious. It is not that there is any necessary occasion for quarrel between any two powers, but the circumstances of the times are such that they offer opportunity for difference among all of them. It is made a matter of remark that responsible ministers are all at their posts when usually at this time of the year they are spread abroad taking their holidays. The English and French presses are engaged in a recriminative encounter, spurred on by an amused mob on either side of the channel, and thinking people know that that may lead to the participation of the mob in the quarrel with something heavier than words, and with the editors changing places and becoming the abettors of a bloody conflict instead of the participants of a battle in which the wounds are all in the feelings and the stains all of ink. The Sultan of Turkey has consented to the introduction of reforms mainly to relieve the disabilities under which his Christian subjects live. Now the question will arise has he power to enforce them? The Mahommedan priests, nobles and their followers have to be considered in this matter. The late Sultan Abdul Aziz was something of a reformer under foreign dictation and his opera bouffe parliament only lived long enough to expose the absurdity of its creation, while the Sultan himself, with a subtile distinction appreciable to the Semitic mind, became compulsorily a suicide, but in the coarser functions of the Caucausian brain a victim of political murder. If the Sultan cannot enforce the reforms forced on him by the outside powers, who will? Then there is China, a debauched and irreclaimable reprobate, who has lost all nervous force and is consequently without ability to reform. A ne'er-do-weel, who prefers the gutter of his own ignorance to the curtains and cushions of someone else's enlightenment. What is to become of China? The Salvation Army of foreign politicians will not leave him alone, their consciences are too active for that, or, in other words, there is too much in the reforming business for them to let the Chinaman work out his own salvation. But like the good folk in New York City each of the Great Powers has a very great opinion of its own regenerating abilities, and there may come reform wars as there have been religious wars. The powers may find it necessary to resort to artillery and ironclads to find out on which has fallen the divine decree to carry grace to the Chinese. All this time the instruments of war are in such positions and in such hands that there is no telling what hour the indiscretion of a subordinate may not plunge two countries into war and in the end drag the others along with them. These are the thoughts that are making people serious to-day. Still war has been more threatening than it is now and yet the hand was restrained. Ten years ago Russia and England had their hands on their swords' hilts and were induced to withdraw them, as it is to be hoped they and the other nations who think they have occasion for quarrelling may be led again to find peace more attractive than war.

A WITTY explanation of the Kaffir fever, made by Mr. J. Selwin Tait, in a letter to the Evening Post, is that London can never take gold mines soberly, and that the recovering appetite for speculation, following a crisis and subsequent period of depression, is always whetted by a dose of these issues. When for gold mines low price issues are substituted, that probably explains the opening phases of speculation everywhere. The love of gambling is deep seated in the race; many risks that are thought to be quite legitimate business are little else than taking chances, and when the feeling is more pronounced the risks assumed are greater in proportion, running from a "flyer" in a dividend-paying stock to laying down hard cash for a sixty thousandth chance of winning a big prize in a lottery. The recorded transactions of any exchange will show that actual investments are but a small fraction of the total business, the bulk being made up of dealings in cats and dogs, and the poorest specimens of those despised animals at that. Perhaps the most remarkable thing about this matter of speculation is the unbounded faith in the fairness of the play and the belief that drawing a prize or a blank depends simply upon the movement of the wheel and the accidental shuffling of the tokens caused thereby. The public are not unaware of the fact that if everything that is worthless were taken from the exchange lists they would sink into the smallest possible proportions, so that the periodical attempts to take advantage of the movements of prices is a proof that when they come into the market it is in the conscious indulgence of their gambling instincts. Of course they always expect to win, and when the contrary is the case, as it most often is, the outcry is one rather of hopes disappointed, than against deliberate injury done them by the proprietors of the wheel, who walk away with the stakes. The trouble is one that cannot be cured, as the whole history of speculation shows, in any measurable length of time, and whenever the little disturbances caused by too much fervor in any particular direction has been gotten over by the removal of the dead and wounded, the remaining forces of the outsiders begin again the conflict with their slings and arrows against the arms of precision of the insiders. For this reason it is predicted that when the shaking up in the Kaffirs has been accomplished, speculation will begin again in an expanded form by taking in other kinds and classes of securities as well. For this reason it is said that the slump in Kaffirs is "salutary."

THE letter of E. M. Shepard on consolidation is one of the best considered and most discriminating declarations on that involved and vexed question which has been given out by any public man. It is usually assumed that a categorical yes or no is all that is needed as an opinion about the unification of New York and Brooklyn, but in point of fact, the whole matter is so complex and requires to be considered with an eye to so many diverse interests that no quick and ready solution of the difficulty is possible. Of course, a condition of any elaborate attempt to work out a feasible plan of consolidation must be the assurance that a majority of the voters of both cities are not entirely opposed to it, and in order that we may be sure upon this point it would be better, as Mr. Shepard suggests, to resubmit the general question to the voters of Brooklyn; but it ought to be resubmitted in such a way that the citizens of Brooklyn will feel assured that their local interests will be protected. If they were once sure that consolidation did not mean the doing away with all their local autonomy, they would undoubtedly be much in favor of union with New York. So large a number at present spend their working hours on this side of the river that in reality they are as much New Yorkers as they are Brooklynites; but they naturally feel that the union of these two cities, so long separated and separated by so broad a sheet of water, cannot be treated in the same way as the union of Westchester County to New York. The two cities have a common interest in the downtown business districts of Manhattan Island; they both contribute to the business activity and property values of this area; they are both interested in the creation of rapid transit systems connecting them with its centres; they both, moreover, should obtain the advantage of sharing the proceeds derived from the taxation of this high-priced property. In other respects they are for the most part separate cities, and the administration machinery affecting other interests should be separate. The charter of the united city would have to be most carefully drawn so as not to interfere with these interests, and until that charter is drawn the question at issue is too indefinite to bear very much discussion. It is curious, however, that sentimental rather than practical business considerations have governed this agitation from the start. Sentimentally New York has most to gain by the change. Without Brooklyn, Chicago is beginning to push New York's hitherto undisputed title to the American Metropolis; with Brooklyn in, New York can defy Chicago's present rate of increase for many a long year. Hence it is that the agitation in favor of consolidation has originated almost entirely in New York, although New York has every thing to lose by the readjustment of taxation which would follow. On the other hand the opposition to consolidation has come chiefly from Brooklyn, which would gain from the redistribution of taxation and lose only by a diminution of its local prestige.

THE Boston City Council Committee on Municipal Lighting has just returned a report to the Common Council of that city which is of some general interest. The Committee was ordered some time since to investigate the experiments which have been made by other important cities of the country in lighting their streets with electricity, and the outcome of their inquiries is that they find it expedient for the city of Boston to establish a plant of its own. Boston, it seems, is paying about $127 a year for each of its arc lights, whereas five years before it had been paying $237 per arc. The city is saving by the reduction in price about $275,000 per annum. This reduction was made, not because the cost of manufacturing the light was any less, but because the local company discovered that its extortionate charges injured its own interests. At the same time that Boston was paying $237 per arc light the city of Cambridge, in the immediate vicinity of Boston, was paying $180 per arc light; Brooklyn, $182 per arc light; Springfield, Mass., $218; New York, $127, and St. Louis, $75. While the Boston company was reducing its charges from $237 to $127 the Springfield company reduced its charges from $218 to $88. The Committee argues that these facts clearly show to what a small extent the prices fixed by municipalities for this service are determined by the cost of production of the light, and it argues that the cities would do better to establish their own plants and so reap the full benefit of the cheap prices at which the light can really be manufactured. Some 200 cities in the United States have undertaken to manufacture their own electricity with results, according to the Committee, almost uniformly successful. They place particular emphasis upon the experience of the City of Detroit. In 1894 this municipality established its own plant at an expenditure of $600,000, because the officials thought that the charges of the Brush Electric Light Company, $175 per light, was excessive. The present cost per lamp is only $75. The Committee then proceeds to estimate the cost of establishing a plant in Boston, and comes to the decision that the municipality could make $125,000 per annum by so doing. There can be no doubt that the conclusions of the Committee are in the main correct. The experience of the English cities proves that municipalities can perform services of this kind more cheaply than private companies, simply because private companies under such circumstances are actually or practically in control of a monopoly. The figures of the Committee in reference to similar experiments in this country must be taken, however, with some reservation. It has been found in the past that municipal officials, being anxious to make a good showing for their department, are not over-scrupulous about including in their estimates proper allowances for depreciation of plant and other similar items. Until the general municipal administration of our cities is somewhat more honest and competent than it is at present, it is scarcely probable the tendency in favor of an increase of local administration func'ive, which has made such progress abroad, will spread very rapidly in the United States.

The Condition that Confronts Us.

LAST week we pointed out in these columns that the road of the "reformer" in New York City must necessarily be a thorny one, full of chagrin and disappointment, so long as purely political partisanship is the controlling influence with the mass of voters at the polls, or, let us add now, so long as the intellectual and moral condition of society is not higher than it is to-day. If citizens prefer to give first consideration to the political faith of those who are to administer the economies of their city and only secondary and casual thought to the matter of personal efficiency they are never likely to have clean streets, a rigorous police administration and similar civic decencies, or, at least, never until "politics" becomes the affair solely of the capable and the honest and the voters' choice is inevitably a selection among the fit. But the cars don't run to Utopia yet, so we must stay at home with the knowledge that "politics" is in the main an appeal to the rabid partisanship of the multitude, wherein efficiency and all those other considerations which rule in the ordinary practical affairs of life are ignored. Indeed, it may be said government with us is scarcely more than the imaginary basis of our "politics." We assume it just as children assume in their play that they are engaged in the serious activities of their elders. The game is the thing; but the boyish soldiery and the wax doll become ever so much more interesting when connected by the imagination with real standing armies and the nursery full of genuine babies.

Of course, the attempt New Yorkers have been making for a generation or more to produce good municipal government out of "politics" is no new absurdity. Other people have tried their hand at the same ridiculous experiment with no better results than we obtain, and long ago they were driven to abandon the folly (as bye and bye we shall be driven to abandon it), as far as the perennial imbecility of human nature permits. To-day all nationalities except the Turk (who has an unfaltering appreciation of government as a financial possibility similar to our own) have arrived at the fixed conclusion that a tolerable administration of a municipality cannot be secured by "politics."

Thus, what we may call the basis of "politics" in the affairs of a city like our own, is a certain irrationality of the multitude, a mania for partisianship which like other forms of dementia perverts the ordinary action of the mind. It might not be so difficult a task for the "reformers" to cope with this disease, mitigate and perhaps cure it were it merely a local trouble. Unfortunately the affliction which makes misgovernment the easier rule to maintain in New York City is only a phase of a national, one might say, of an universal disorder.

An inquiry concerning the foundations of political parties, the world over, is one which would surely yield very instructive information. The political differences which divide Germans, Frenchmen, Englishmen and Americans, appear to the disconnected looker-on to be quite incommensurate with the commotion and discord they occasion. Whatever theoretical importance these differences may possess, their effective value in the actual performance of government never seems to amount to much. For instance, despite periodical partisan revolutions which put now the Conservatives and now the Liberals in the ascendency, English national affairs steadily continue and develop year after year along lines which party politics have an infinitesimal share in making out. In the United States the nation pursues its destiny, attains to stage after stage of growth rooted in causes immensely deeper seated than our quadriennial hubbub over Republican and Democratic policy. If people really sought for the justification of party strife in the clear undoubtable influence which it exerts upon the national fortune, politics would have been discredited long ago by common sense. The very absurdity that politics is an organized effort to demonstrate that nations are pretty evenly divided into two groups of individuals, the wise and virtuous, the foolish and the unscrupulous, is in itself sufficient to cause scepticism.

But the real purpose and the ostensible purpose of human institutions are rarely identical. In practice government everywhere is in part a seizure--an effort of a class or some other division of the people to administer the estate of the whole for their own benefit. The extent to which this selfish usurpation is carried varies. At one extreme is the autocratic, aristocratic seizure of power, at the other the democratic possession by virtue of the ballot box. Both are identical in this: government is the establishment of a special rule, a rule for the "general interest," if you like, but the "general interest" as certain people understand it. inquiry we have suggested concerning the foundations of political parties would, we are sure, disclose as many selfish objects as there are parties. No party exists which is not organized fundamentally to promote some particular, narrow, class advantage. Remove or satisfy this purpose and the party disintegrates. The "general good," perpetually prated about, is scarcely sufficient to combine a dozen professed philanthropists. In fact, pure love of one's fellow men tends to make it impossible for any two of the gentlest of humanitarians to sit in the same room for ten minutes and preserve the peace. There isn't enough cohesiveness in a fervent desire for the "public welfare" to keep together even a "third party" for two consecutive campaigns. If a longer existence be maintained it is, as in the case of the Prohibitionists, by virtue of some indomitable fanaticism which records itself by, but counts for practically nothing in the working of the political machinery. What operates in the formation of really effective parties is a Silver interest, a Gold interest, a Land interest, the interest of Capital or of Labor. Centre these interests in an organization, attach them to some theory or programme which plausibly connects them with the pockets of everybody, enlist the partisan vigor of the multitude in their behalf, surround them with prejudices, embellish them with the moral code, envelop them with noise and vituperation and straightway a great party emerges into the political field to save the nation and bring in the millenium. Of course, almost before the monstrosity gets into the highways the nucleus of the organization—the selfish interest—is lost sight of. Nevertheless, that is the centre of the vitality of the "party."

In dealing therefore with "politics," that arch enemy of good government in New York, Reformers have not only to convert the merely partisan masses to a rational attitude concerning domestic matters, but they have also to strike at the "interests" which have created and which perpetuate the parties around which the masses rally. Those "interests" in the case of the Republican party and of the Democratic party are not specially concerned in the efficient and decent administration of the municipal affairs of New York. Though perhaps not radically opposed to having the streets keep clean and similar civic utilities properly performed they will not put these matters foremost, and clearly it is only by putting these matters foremost and subordinating all else to them that they can be properly performed. On the contrary, with these parties municipal necessities must be sacrificed to the exigencies of national "politics," or State "politics," or local "politics," as the case may be, meaning, of course, by "politics" the class interest with which they are particularly concerned.

Now, the special interest which the Republican party subserves is sufficiently indicated by the word "Protection"—the high-tariff policy of which numerous manufacturers are the direct beneficiaries. As to the special interest centred in the Democratic party it is not single. Rather it is composed of a number of interests more local than national in character which find it profitable to have government on their side, but which necessarily cannot obtain first place or even independent consideration in the policy of the Republican party so long as the prime concern of that political body is protection. These several interests—of which the liquor interest and the interests naturally associated with it are the foremost—are almost perforce driven to seek their "protection" in the Democratic ranks. Only in exceptional circumstances and by virtue of unusual combinations are they found on the other side. We are not discussing here the value of protection or the legitimacy of the activity of the liquor men in politics for trade purposes. We wish merely to show that if from the composition of these two great parties we abstract the purely partisan and popular elements—the outsiders so to speak—we reach in both cases a comparatively small, selfish, active nucleus, to whom "party" and "politics" mean a direct personal gain. For instance, if we suppose the existence of a strictly Silver party, we would, by eliminating from it its theoretical supporters and others of the kind, arrive at last at the mine owners, whose desire to obtain immediate benefits from government would be, we may be sure, the animating spirit of the organization. The mine-owners of the Republican party are the protected manufacturers; the mine-owners of the Democratic party, at least here in New York, are the liquor men. It is these paramount interests which the Reformers must overthrow before they can sincerely and permanently enlist the support of the two parties in their programme for efficient municipal government. Coalitions and fusions can be only temporary arrangements, accepted or rejected by one or the other of the two great parties according to whether they fit in with or clash with the dominant interests of the organizations. Republican policy can never narrow itself to the local necessities of New York City, because it exists to promote a very much larger purpose. Democratic policy, under present conditions, cannot be the faithful ally of real reform because it is the servant of a class which has no special concern with reform—rather the contrary. As to the crowd, they are as hard to win over as the parties themselves, because they would rather go to the devil as out-and-out partisans in the old way, than be found walking the golden pavements with St. Peter in the sanctity of political independence.

The Stanford Millions.

THE most interesting and romantic part of very modern history is the history of industry. Could the stories of some of the large private fortunes accumulated by Americans within the past thirty years be fully written they would have a value in the interpretation of our national life not possessed by accounts of anything that has taken place in the realm of politics. Some magazines have tried to write the history of great industrial enterprises, and, of course there are plenty of biographies of rich men and a nauseous flood of anecdotes about them published both before and after death. But the magazine articles are designed chiefly to afford opportunities for striking illustrations, and the anecdotical accounts rarely get above the plane either of personal gossip or of barefaced eulogy. Lately Henry D. Lloyd has gathered into his volume "Wealth Against Commonwealth," all the scandalous things that he considers to have been officially proved against the Standard Oil Company, but the one-sidedness of his narrative, and his assumption that everybody who was fighting the great monopoly was presumptively an industrial saint detracts from the value of his work. Besides, it is often that which is most inaccessible to the historian that is of most vital interest in the history of industry—the items of "vest-pocket bookkeeping and the facts stored away in the recesses of a conveniently failing memory."

These reflections cannot but occur to one who considers as well as known facts permit the origin and destiny of the fifteen or thirty millions garnered during his life by Leland Stanford and left in a real but not legally constituted trust to his wife for the benefit of the Leland Stanford, Jr. University. The United States has now brought suit to recover fifteen millions of this fortune in lieu of money loaned the Central Pacific Railway, which the second mortgage on that road can never pay. The suit is brought under a provision of the statutes of California, which provides that a stockholder in a corporation shall be liable for its debts in proportion to the amount of its stock that he owned at the time the debts were contracted. It is urged by the attorneys for Mrs. Stanford that this law at the time the Central Pacific Company was formed was invalid because of its indefiniteness, and has been so adjudged by the Supreme Court of California; next, that even if the law had been valid the collection of the debt would be barred by the statute of limitations; and finally that the act of Congress by which the money was lent provided specified means of payment, and by implication barred other methods of collecting the debt. These technical points are now being tried in the United States Courts, the decision in the first two courts having been very definitely against the government.

There are three standpoints from which such a case as this can be judged. The first is the narrowly technical standpoint, and from this the courts are now considering it. We suspect that on this plane of justice the government is likely to be worsted. The men of the Central Pacific Company have probably so arranged matters that the government will never collect its bill from them. Even if the Stanford estate should be held for its share it is inconceivable that a man so much alive as C. P. Huntington should allow himself to be caught in the same net. Secondly, there is the point of view of the moral obligations of the contracting parties. There is no doubt that the Central Pacific Company promised to pay in a certain specified manner, and it is equally certain that the four men who dominated the company contrived to divert so much of its earnings to their own pockets that payment of the obligation to the government became impossible. This is the plane of judgment upon which the people of the Pacific Coast for the most part decide the matter. They speak of Stanford, Huntington, Crocker and Hopkins as thieves, and one journalist of influence has said that he would not send a child to the Stanford University because it would make him feel as though he were sharing in the proceeds of a crime. Thirdly, we may view the matter from the standpoint of political and industrial expediency. The government was in a great hurry for a trans-continental road and had "very satisfying reasons" for being in a hurry. Four men had the courage and energy to undertake the construction of half of it when others thought that they had attempted the impossible. They possessed what was then urgently needed, the ability to "rush things," and they put it at the service of the country—for a consideration. The government could better afford to lose every dollar it lent than to await the slow motions of more conservative and possibly more scrupulous financiers. The country needed to have a road built in a hurry. These men built it and they earned a magnificent fortune each.

Senator Stanford used to say, and no doubt believed, that no man was the poorer because he, Stanford, had lived and accumulated a great fortune. He felt that he had been worth to industry all that he got from it. His methods of getting pay for the services he rendered were not always formally correct, he dealt with venal politicians on their own plane, he conspired with others to drain the life blood from great corporations, but still he considered himself on the whole to have been a blessing to the industries of the country. At his death he tried to provide that his fortune should be devoted in perpetuity to the purposes of education. Some think that as an object lesson in the ethics of industry and politics the country would profit more by having this money recovered by the United States from whom they hold it to have been filched, than through all the benefits that a university could possibly confer. We wish that some of the thronging students of sociology would study the question impartially in all its bearings.

Architect and Engineer.

There is a temptation to entitle this article Engineer versus Architect, but as it relates only to a speculative question as to which profession, architecture or engineering, is ultimately to become the predominating or moving one in building enterprise, and considering the present relations of the two, the facts do not warrant the assumption that there is any rivalry of the antagonistic kind between them. But as engineering has taken in a comparatively short space of time an important relation to the work of erecting great buildings, it is interesting to know from the lips of engineers themselves how they regard that relation and what are their views as to its future—whether, in their opinion, the engineer will come into first place and employ the artist to provide the æsthetic details as the architect employs the engineer now to supply certain practical details, whether the two will work side by side in equal dignity or credit, or whether their respective positions will remain unchanged, as they are now. Literally construed, the word architect implies more of the engineer than of the artist. Webster's definition is "chief builder, a contriver," and in this sense the builder of a bridge is as much an architect as the builder of a house, which may be likened to a series of bridges imposed one above the other. But architecture nowadays conveys more of the artistic than the constructive idea, as is instanced by the greater importance that critics and reviewers of architectural efforts attach to exterior and interior ornamental effects than to the mechanical skill shown in placing one story above another or how the several stories are arranged for practical use. So that it is fair to assume that architecture is a profession whose principal aim is an artistic one while the chief end of engineering is the practical one. Constructural development has called the best that both can give into play and time will soon show which is considered of most importance. In the main the members of the engineering profession are modest in their pretensions, the views held by Mr. Corydon T. Purdy, given in our last issue, and those of Mr. Hildreth and Mr. Brinckerhoff, given below, being those most generally held, but that there are others who have more ambitious hopes for the position of their profession in the building world is shown by the remarks of other gentlemen, also given below:

Mr. Russell W. Hildreth: "In the large architects' offices, either the architects themselves are also engineers by education or experience, or else they employ competent engineers where important engineering problems are involved, as is the case in high fire proof buildings. But there is a very great percentage of work done in this city that is designed either by architects without engineering experience, or the design is left to the contractors for the iron-work. In either case the result is likely to be detrimental to the structure both from the points of view of strength and economy. It is my opinion that unless the architect has had an engineering education or experience, or employs an experienced engineer for the purpose of designing, the foundations and steel frame superstructures, such work ought to be placed in the hands of engineers. The position of the engineer will, I think, always be secondary to that of the architect in building construction. It is the latter who comes next to the owner and on whom the financial success or failure of the building depends. Custom has secured to the architect this position as much as anything. Had the modern building evolved from similar engineering works, the positions might have been reversed. As it is, the æsthetic qualities have always had first importance in buildings, and the engineer is now called in as an aid to the architect in meeting the requirements of a more scientific construction, and naturally he has the second place perforce of circumstances and precedent."

Thos. E. Brown, Jr.: "The question of the relative position of the architect and engineer in building (i. e., which should be the leader), I think a simple one. The architect of a large building, if he is competent, will be at least something of an engineer and obtain engineers of sufficient structural knowledge to meet any deficiencies of his own. I think you will find this to be the case in all of our prominent architects' offices. In fact I do not know of any architect who makes a specialty of large modern office buildings, who does not retain a consulting engineer, or have engineers directly in his employ. The perfect architect would be not only an artist, but also a civil and mechanical engineer, plumber, steamfitter, electrician, carpenter, mason, cabinet maker, and in fact combine every known trade and science in one individual. This, of course, is an impossibility, but the man in charge of the construction of a large office building should have a general knowledge of all these subjects, and be more a man of sound common sense and business judgment than an expert in any one branch. These qualifications can certainly be found among our prominent architects. Such men can better take charge of the greatly diversified works involved in our great buildings than one who is an expert in any particular line, as the natural tendency of any expert is to give too much weight to his own specialty and too little to the others. The successful construction of a great office building consists in the skillful combination of all these specialties to produce, not the best of each, but the best result as a harmonious whole. I can see no reason why the engineer's relations to the competent architect should be other than that of adviser. Of course, in any great building enterprise the real leader will be the man of greatest force and ability, whether he be financier, architect, engineer or builder."

Dr. Charles E. Emery makes the following suggestion, which goes to show that all engineers are not willing to admit that the architect has unquestionably first place: "Architecture and engineering, as they are understood to-day, are co-ordinate professions and it is of no importance which in some past time included the other. Architects and engineers are both a necessity of modern building, one to secure proper disposition of the materials as respects strength, the other to secure proper artistic features. The real question in the future will be which profession secures from the owner the contract for designing the building. Either can perform certain routine with equal facility, such as the arrangement of the space available, the dealing with the contractors and with the authorities. The profession in responsible charge will secure part of the necessary assistance from representatives of the other profession, and the responsibility and dignity incident to the business will be the same as in all other kinds of work. The principal credit will go to the one who has the principal responsibility by being in responsible charge."

Mr. H. Waller Brinckerhoff: "Civil engineers who undertake to practice, what, for want of a better term, may be called architectural engineering, must not expect that they will ever become as publicly known or receive the same prominence as the architects to whose work theirs must always be subordinate. If a man wants a building for certain uses in a certain place he will go to an architect for his plans, and the civil engineer in such case has only to see that the plans of the architect are safely executed. His check and a good conscience must be his compensation."

Builders in Convention.

The Ninth Annual Convention of the National Association of Builders of the United States was held in Baltimore, Md., on the 15th, 16th and 17th insts. Representatives from all the large cities east of the Mississippi were in attendance. The delegates representing the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, of New York City, were Messrs. Stephen M. Wright, delegate-at-large; Isaac A. Hopper, John L. Hamilton, T. H. Boorman, Henry M. Tostevin and William T. Rich. The first named gentleman received the gratifying compliment of being placed on the directory of the National Association to represent New York for the third time, Mr. Charles A. Rupp, of Buffalo, was elected president; H. J. Sullivan, of Milwaukee, vice-president, and William Sayward and William Tapper were severally continued as secretary and treasurer.

The business of the greatest importance and of most interest to the building trades transacted at this convention was the adoption of an amendment to the constitution, which was carried by a unanimous vote, and which permits the creation of intermediary State associations. This amendment does not deprive the local associations of their representation, but through the creation of State associations it was felt that the National Association could reach interests which they are now unable to touch, and thereby the standing and influence of the building trades will be lifted to a higher plane, which is the primary object of the central body. There are in the United States fifty-six organizations which are not affiliated with the National Association of Builders, but which are receiving the benefit of all the valuable work done by the association, not only indirectly but directly, because they are generously supplied with all the literature, forms, etc., bearing on trade matters issued by the association whenever they apply for them. Brooklyn has one of these organizations. It is felt that these bodies outside the association could be best reached by State associations and through them brought into affiliation with the National Association with advantage to all concerned.

Another important argument in favor of the creation of these State associations is that they could take up matters relating to the building interests in their several States, which for obvious reasons the National Association could not touch. Such for instance the laws affecting building, liens and kindred matters. For example, it would no doubt have been of the greatest advantage to building trade interests if the united opinion of the State could have been presented to the last session of the New York Legislature, which had before it several important measures affecting them. As it was, while those interests in each of the large cities in the State wanted to have something to say on those measures, they had no sufficient means of consulting each other or of ascertaining each other's views with the idea of speaking with a united voice. It is unnecessary to point out the greater force and influence of united than of distributed representation upon legislative bodies. Besides the many advantages that will arise from the formation of the State associations to the building interests of the States themselves, it will be seen at a glance that they will perfect the machinery of the National Association and make it more than ever effective for the good of the trade.

The New York State delegates took advantage of the amendment in the constitution at once by meeting and organizing an association for New York State with Mr. John L. Hamilton, of New York, as temporary president, and Mr. J. C. Almendinger, of Buffalo, as temporary secretary. A meeting to complete this organization will be held at the Building Trades' Club, in this city, on December 11th, next.

Among a number of interesting papers which were read at the Convention, one that attracted a great deal of attention as bearing particularly on the main object of the association, was read by Mr. Robert D. Andrews, of Boston, a member of the American Institute of Architects, on "The Union of Building Trades Schools with Schools of Architectural Design." Mr. Andrews took the stand that progress in the building and architectural arts had been greatly hindered by the lack of union in the work of the architect and the mechanic. He thought that such schools should be maintained in buildings practically under one roof, so that those who execute a design might become thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the designer.

Correspondence.

AN ARCHITECT ON THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I hold that on either side nothing is to be gained by misconceptions in this controversy over the Department of Buildings. The sooner we get at the facts the better for all concerned. I mean the facts stripped of predjuices, petty understandings and trivial matters of a like kind. For that reason I have been sorry to see so many complaints which have been in the main personal protests about the tone of voice, or the phraseology used, or something of that kind, by this or that official of the Building Department.

Mind, I am not objecting to the serious complaints, complaints of delay in passing plans, but to those particularities which spring rather from individual irritibility than legitimate displeasure over radical defects. I have had much dealing with one and another of the branches of the City Government. In all of them, I think, one has to put up with a certain amount of personal annoyance of one sort or another. One can't always get promptly to see the heads of departments. I have had to put up with delays. I have had to be satisfied with the recitation to subordinates of my wants and woes which I firmly intended to pour into the ear of the great Mogul himself. These are the defects of beaurauceracy. I don't think, and I don't think any candid person will assert that in this respect the Building Department is so much worse than any of the other departments. I would even like to ask the unprejudiced whether the Building Bureau is, upon the whole, any tardier in the fulfilment of its serious duties than, say, the Department of Public Works. I know a builder who is kicking because his plans were not approved within six weeks, who can't get another department to finish up certain work affecting his property, which has been in hand for the last ten months. He and the neighboring property-owners have repeatedly visited the head of the department to hasten matters, but though they are very much put out by the delay which they claim is unnecessary and unreasonable, they accept the situation with lamb-like gentleness. I am not in love with the Building Department. But except that it is the passion of the hour, why should we be so "down on" Mr. Constable, and demand that he should conform to a standard of efficiency, which we don't even dream of applying to the head of any other department in the City of New York.

It is easy to criticise. It is easy, too, to gather from a place as big as New York, a multitude of minor complaints. I can't always immediately see the heads of business houses with which I have dealings. These houses are often dilatory; they often make mistakes; their employes are at times tardy and occasionally supercilious, once in a while impudent. I and hundreds of others, however, get along with these houses fairly well. I don't think any architect would like to have his office judged solely by its defects.

In fairness, all these petty complaints concerning the Building Department ought to cease, or, at least, they ought not to be gathered together and magnified into matters of cardinal importance. A million little things don't make one big thing.

Despite the petition presented to the Mayor the other day, and which, by the way, I signed, the memorial has not quite the import which some of the newspapers and others have attached to it. My signature was put to it with due consideration. I have no inclination to withdraw it; nevertheless, I make this assertion with confidence that the profession to-day will indorse the statement that the Building Department is a more efficient and better managed department than it has been at any time during the last ten or fifteen years.

The fact of the matter is that we architects hitherto have not taken the Building Department as a serious institution. We have known it to be a sort of political camp for a lot of queer gentry. It has been a necessary evil and we have made the best or worst of it. The administration of the Department before Mr. Constable took charge of it was unspeakably lax. Every body knows it—architects, builders and all who had dealings with it. The approval of thousands of plans was merely a form. They went in at one window and came out at another so many hours later, and this was pretty nearly all that the work of approval consisted of. Mr. Constable has brought a different spirit into the department. He went slow at first, fearfully slow. He had in the beginning to use the old force. I don't think any reputable architect would have cared to overburden it with serious responsibility. I was among the sufferers at first, also among the kickers, but I have noticed a steady progression in the department and a vast improvement in its personnel, and now, in my judgment, the department compares very favorably with any other in the city.

The trouble is that the first person to attempt to put the department on a thoroughly business-like basis was destined to demonstrate that the piece of machinery with which we have been getting along for years is entirely inadequate for the business it is to perform. Mr. Constable undertook the task, and a great deal of discontent which he created was due not to the man and his methods so much as to the inherent weakness of his position. The department needs reconstructing on larger foundations, and that is why I signed the petition to the Mayor. If we are to have a new regime, we must have a new building department also—a bigger piece of machinery. On the whole, I am inclined to think Mr. Constable has done marvelously good work considering the situation. He has made mistakes—a number of them. What beginner would not? But he means to do the right thing. He has steadily progressed and, under these circumstances, in my judgment, he is entitled to the sympathy and support of the profession and of all reputable builders. Let us judge the man on the broad facts.

AN ARCHITECT.

UNION CLUB, October 23d.

The Department of Buildings.

Messrs. Bruce Price, Thomas Hastings, William E. Bloodgood and Thomas W. Lamb had a conference with Mayor Strong and Supt. Constable last Saturday on the condition of the Department of Buildings, as a result of the petition signed by them and forty-six other architects and presented to the Mayor a week before. This conference was not taken up by individual complaints of architects, but it was pointed out to the Mayor that the building interest of New York had outgrown the Department and that it was necessary that the latter should be brought up to requirements if it was to execute the law and prove efficient to secure the doing of proper building in the city. For this it was necessary that there should be not only a larger force in the Department, but also that the force should be selected from men of better calibre than is now the case. Naturally to do this would require more money, but there should be no hesitation in granting all that was reasonably necessary in view of the proportions and importance of the industry involved. These views were forcibly impressed upon the Mayor, who promised to find remedy to the extent of recommending the Board of Apportionment to increase the appropriation for the Department. Mayor Strong has ordered an investigation of the Department by the Commissioners of Accounts which will be begun by the latter as soon as they can take the work up.

Mr. Constable asked the Board of Apportionment for $330,600 to carry on his Department in the coming year. This was an increase of $125,950 over the appropriation for 1895, and he threatened to resign if he did not get it. The Board give him an increase of $100,000 on his salary list and an increase of $6,000 in the allowance for contingencies, making a total provisional estimate of $310,700.

Rapid Transit.

The Appellate Court has reversed the recent decision of the General Term relating to Rapid Transit matters. It will be remembered that the Rapid Transit Commissioners, by petition, requested the General Term to designate six newspapers in which should be published the notice of the intention of the Commission to apply for a commission to report on rapid transit routes in lieu of the consents of property owners. The General Term held that the matter was one that came within the jurisdiction of the newly created Appellate Division and declined to act. The unanimous decision of the Court of Appeals is that the Appellate Division cannot take powers until January 1st, next, and that the new constitution does not abridge any of the rights and powers of the General Term, to which the petition of the Rapid Transit Commission is remitted to be heard on its merits.

According to Mr. A. B. Boardman, counsel to the Commission, it will probably be found advisable to examine the facts set out in the petition to ascertain whether they are all still existing before presenting it again to the General Term. Those facts were based on the canvass of last spring. Now the records will be examined and new owners applied to for their consents or refusals. It will be some weeks before the first movement in the courts can be made. Judging from this and the other steps necessary to be taken before actual work can be done municipal rapid transit is a very long way ahead yet.

The Building Trades' Exchange.

The work of securing members for the Building Trades' Exchange, the new organization which it is proposed shall eventually take the place of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, but on an improved and enlarged plan, is going on very successfully, no less than 293 having already been obtained. The exchange has been organized with officers, as follows: Messrs. John J. Tucker, president; William McCord, vice-president, and Isaac A. Hopper, secretary and treasurer, but it has not yet been incorporated. Just prior to the summer vacation, the attorneys, Messrs. Ernest F. Eidlitz and John F. Scribner, were instructed to prepare articles of incorporation and by-laws, but they report that it is necessary for this work that they should have authoritative information of the amendments made in corporate law by the last session of the Legislature, and this they are unable to obtain because the session's laws for this year have not yet been published. It will be remembered that one of the reasons for creating a new exchange is that the present one has no power to own property, and it is the intention of the moving spirits in the building trades to have a building which shall be the headquarters and home of all building interests. This building is to contain rooms for the exchange, the different trade organizations, a building exhibit and foroffices. As soon as satisfactory articles of incorporation and by-laws can be drawn the exchange will be incorporated. It has been decided to raise a fund of $400,000 before commencing building and of this sum $250,000 has been subscribed.

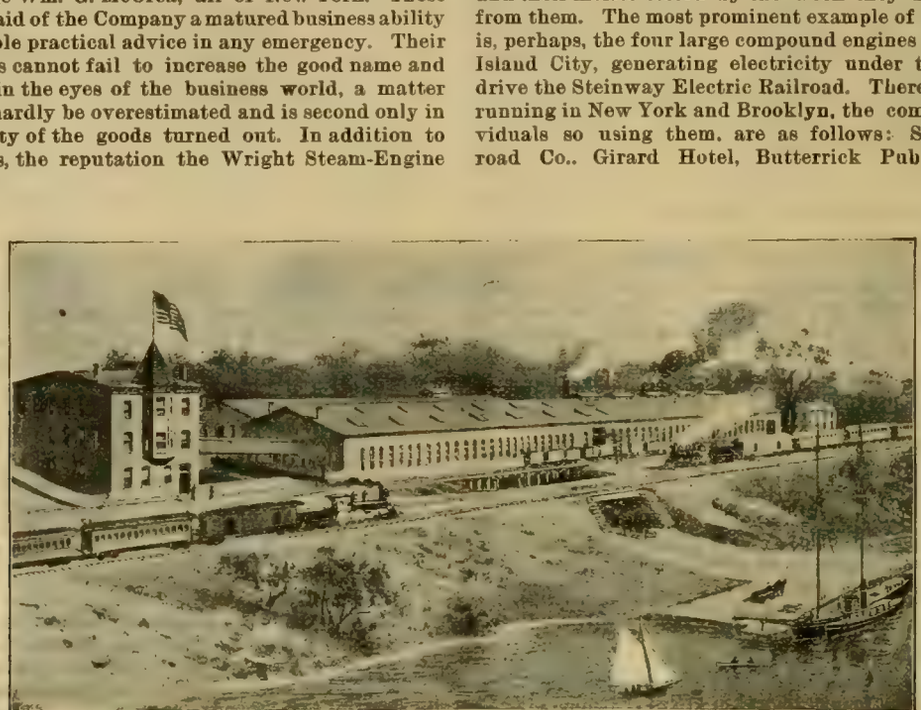
Wright Steam-Engine Works.

The Wright Steam-Engine Works, of Newburg, N. Y., have been reorganized under the laws of this State but without changing the corporate name, and in the process have absorbed the business of the late Dixon Steam-Engine Works, also of Newburg.

It is a well-known fact that this is an age of reorganizations and consolidations. There come times when competition, as well as improved appliances, have brought prices down to the lowest basis for plants got together in times of limited competition and higher prices and when the improvement of machinery was not so advanced. Then comes a time when there is a redistribution of the available orders and a consequent necessity of some concerns to seek the sheltering wing of those that have kept abreast of the times and are able to hold their own in spite of the unfavorable circumstances of the hour. The result of this process is the organization of systems for turning out work in particular lines on a large scale with greater efficiency and with increased usefulness to the public that buys goods —not only made better than they ever were before, but much cheaper in price, and costing, by reason of the better work put into them and the improvements made in the various parts, less to operate.



For instance, three well-known men have in this reorganization come in to ownership of the Wright Steam-Engine Works. They are: Mr. James McClenahan, president of the David Stevenson Brewing Company; Mr. Thomas Dimond, proprietor of the Thomas Dimond Iron Works, and Judge Wm. G. McCrea, all of New York. These gentlemen bring to the aid of the Company a matured business ability and can afford it valuable practical advice in any emergency. Their acquisition of the works cannot fail to increase the good name and credit of the Company in the eyes of the business world, a matter whose importance can hardly be overestimated and is second only in importance to the quality of the goods turned out. In addition to these great advantages, the reputation the Wright Steam-Engine Works has for turning out first-class work and its standing as the commercial community, by reason of the names that appear in its directors, it will now have a strong financial backing that will be a further guarantee of its ability to turn out its specialties as perfect as it is possible to make them and on the terms most acceptable to its patrons.

The reputation of the Wright steam-engine is such that there is no need to call attention to its merits. There are thousands of them in use, each of which is a standing testimonial to their excellence, so effective a testimonial that the books of the works show many repeated orders from customers. The buyers of these engines represent nearly every industry that employs steam power for carrying out its operations—cable railroads, breweries, iron works, cold storage establishments, carpet manufacturers, printers, biscuit bakers, piano manufacturers, printing press makers, candy manufacturers, hotels and many others. Mere general assertions, however, do not carry much weight unless backed by something more particular. In this case the more substantial proof will be found in the following list, which is only a partial one, it should be remembered, of companies, firms and individuals who are using Wright steam-engines in New York City.

Third Avenue Cable Railroad, Wm. Ebling Brewing Co., Geo. E. Ketcham & Co., J. L. Mott Iron Works, Edward Leissner, Cushman Baking Co., Eastman Co., Warren, Fuller & Co., Ferguson Brothers, D. Stevenson Brewing Co., E. S. Higgins & Co., F. E. James, Henry Gledhill, Unger Building, Nicoll, the tailor, J. J. Little, E. J. Larrabee, N. Y. Biscuit Co., Johnson & Bemis, Henry Meinken, Enoch Morgan, Jacob Doll, Weber Piano Co., Thos. Dimond, R. Hoe & Co., Simon Strauss, L. H. Mace & Co., Oxley, Giddings & Enos, P. R. Weiler, Donaldson Brothers, F. R. Walker & Son, N. Y. Staats Zeitung, Evening Post, N. Y. Steam Power Co., George Munro, Norman L. Munro, Charles Craske, F. C. Linde, Huyler's Candy Works, American Flag Co., Excelsior Steam Power Co., Louis Dejonge & Co., Robert Mayer & Co., N. Y. and Brooklyn Bridge, Waterbury & Marshall, Coney Island and Brooklyn Electric Railroad, Walther Paper Co., Citizens' Electric Light Co., Brooklyn; Municipal Electric Light Co., Brooklyn.

The mention of these names ought to be sufficient to carry conviction to the mind of any one that the steam-engine that they all agree in using is one of great excellence and deserving of the closest examination by those who are contemplating the putting in of steam plants into their buildings. Notwithstanding all this the owners of the works say that the engine as it will now be built, under the superior arrangements made for their manufacture under the plan of reorganization, will be built with interchangeable parts and the workmanship will be of the best. The company have eight acres of land on the river front at Newburg, on which have been erected new shops, fitted with the latest and most improved tools, electric cranes, and, in short, everything to so systematize and perfect work, not only to save cost of production, but also to insure perfect fits and interchangeable parts. This enlargement and perfection of the plant will naturally assist the production and delivery of the engines to customers at very low prices

The arrangements which brought to the Wright Steam-Engine Works the business of the Dixon Steam-Engine Works, was made with Mr. Charles A. Dixon of the last-mentioned works, and included the purchase from him of all his patents, drawings and patterns. The Wright Steam-Engine Works can therefore and are now prepared to furnish the Corliss Engine with the Dixon Improved Corliss Engine, both simple and compound, of any size. The Dixon engine is considered the best designed and proportioned of all the Corliss engines. Mr. Dixon has built many engines which can be seen in operation and their merits tested by the work they do and results obtained from them. The most prominent example of his work in this locality is, perhaps, the four large compound engines now running at Long Island City, generating electricity under the multipolar system to drive the Steinway Electric Railroad. There are a number of other running in New York and Brooklyn, the companies, firms and individuals so using them, are as follows: Steinway Electric Railroad Co., Girard Hotel, Butterrick Publishing House, Kiel

Wright Steam-Engine Works at Newburgh, N. Y.

Now, as the Wright Steam-Engine Works are prepared to do business at the lowest possible cost consistent with good workmanship and material, they are soliciting the pleasure of making estimates for steam plants as well as upon the other articles they supply, believing that with their enlarged plant, force and appliances and with increased financial credit they can turn these out promptly as to time and satisfactorily as to cost and as to other necessary particulars. The New York office is at No. 128 West 33d street.—(Communicated)

CITY PARKS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Having heard that the district west of 9th avenue between 29th and 30th streets was to be taken for a park, I would ask you to kindly inform me if it was a fact. Also how long it will be before they commence work on it. S. A. L.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17, 1895.

Answer.—The city had authority from the last session of the Legislature to construct a park one block in area, between 20th and 30 treets and west of 9th avenue. The city has taken no action to exercise this authority that we know of.—ED. RECORD & GUIDE.

AGENT'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Two agents have the same property to rent. Each secures a tenant on the same day and receives one month's rent in advance. One tenant, whom we will call tenant No. 1, moves in immediately. Tenant No. 2, of course, is obliged to wait until tenant No. 1 vacates, as he wants the place and the owner desires him, tenant No. 2. Now I wish to know which is the best course to pursue in order to get possession of the premises by November 1st. The owner has given me full charge of the house and it remains for me to put my tenant in. Now, can I serve a five days' notice on tenant No. 1, prior to November 1st, or will it be necessary for me to serve it one month prior to December 1st, and let tenant remain until that time. (2) A few months ago I was one of three agents, each of whom rented house to three different tenants on the same date. What is the rule as regards commission in a case of that kind?

Answer.—If tenant No. 1 went into possession on October 1st, only five days' notice is necessary. If he went into possession prior to October 1st, you will have to give him thirty days' notice. (2) The agent who obtains a tenant who goes into possession is entitled to the commission.—LAW EDITOR.

Our Illustration of Four Elegant Houses.

The four handsome private residences of which a special illustration accompanies this number are among the very best built in this city for sale. They are the work of the well-known builders, Woolley & Brinckerhoff, who have erected many very fine houses in the residence portions of this city. These houses are splendidly located on the Riverside Drive, and numbered 31, 32, 33 and 34, on the Drive, at the northeast corner of 75th street, in a block built up mainly by detached residences erected for occupation by their owners. As the perspective shows they present many novel features. The fronts are of Indiana limestone constructed in a new style of low stoop with bay window fronts. They are four stories high with varying but wide fronts. The interiors are carefully arranged to produce the best effects and the best results in occupation. Among their special features may be mentioned foyer halls, with reception rooms, three bath-rooms, two tiled, and containing mantels and fire-places for asbestos logs, and trim of entirely new design and very handsome. The latter in the halls is of oak; in the reception-room of the corner house, red mahogany; parlors in Louis XVI. white and gold; dining-rooms in oak; second floor fronts, white mahogany; rear, curly birch; third floor front, white maple; fourth floor in ash. In Nos. 32 and 34 reception-room is in curly birch and parlor in vermillion. No. 33 has the parlor in white and gold, second floor in antique oak, rear in maple. The other details are alike in all four houses. These are a few of the features that class these houses among the very finest on the West Side. Their dimensions are: No. 31, the corner, 27.2x71, lot 27.2x83.11; No. 32, 25x70, lot 25x89.4; No. 33, 25x58, lot 25x94.4 and 99.4; No. 34, 25x60. lot 25x99.4 and 104.5. Those who are looking for a high-class residence or investment should certainly pay a visit to these houses and confer with the Frank L. Fisher Co., of No. 446 Columbus avenue, near 81st street, for the lowest figures on which they can be secured.

Real Estate Market.

A fair amount of business only is all that has been accomplished this week by either brokers or auctioneers. The acquisition of property in the down-town sections of the city is again the feature of the market, with some investors apparently still unable to purchase to their satisfaction. Uptown sales have diminished in number. The aggregate of the week's investment by contract is about $2,100,000.

The auction sales that have taken place this week at the Broadway Salesroom were with few exceptions of the usual legal description. On Monday the occasionally noticed inconsistency between an auction poster announcement and the manner of conducting the sale so described was illustrated by an offering under the direction of executors of a dwelling and plot of lots on Daly avenue, East Tremont. Notwithstanding that the sale was announced as "positive" by the poster on which were printed the names of the executors, the latter proved to be the first and only bidders for the property, and it was knocked down to them in two parcels for a total of $6,400, a sum probably less than the upset price they would have required had there been any competition. The fault, of course, was not the auctioneers, but were such discrepancies between announcements made some days previously and the actual outcome of sales to become at all frequent they would not fail to drive from the auction rooms their most reliable patrons. Auctioneers should impress upon their customers the necessity of being consistent when "Sale Positive" is to form part of an auction announcement, especially when the sale is by executors' order.

On Tuesday one parcel only of the limited number presented possessed any attraction for bidders. It was a plot of generous dimensions on West 130th street, running diagonally in an easterly direction toward Amsterdam avenue, and offered in partition by William Kennelly. The opening bid was $3,500 and from that amount the offers advanced quickly, but in small sums, until $7,300 was reached, at which price—a small one—the property was bought by the attorney for two of the defendants in the partition suit despite the fact that several well-known speculators had participated in the bidding. Another parcel was withdrawn, the dwelling No. 18 West 97th street, offered at voluntary sale by Philip A. Smyth. The highest bid received was $15,100. Wednesday's withdrawals were: No. 2146 5th avenue, at $17,700; No. 549 Manhattan avenue, at $12,700, both being offered by William M. Ryan, and No. 98 Clinton street, advertised under foreclosure by J. L. Wells. On Thursday, Smyth & Ryan withdrew from foreclosure sale No. 330 East 30th street, and Peter F. Meyer & Co. the voluntary offering of No. 336 East 77th street. Yesterday the latter firm adjourned without date a sale of No. 1887 2d avenue.

At the Real Estate Exchange, on Wednesday, Geo. R. Read offered, by order of executrix, Nos. 463 to 469 5th avenue. The property was bought in at $295,000, a sum $30,000 less than Auctioneer Read, in his capacity of broker, had endeavored to buy it for a few months ago. On the following day Richard V. Harnett & Co. failed to sell the six lots, with frame houses, on the southwest corner of Washington avenue and 164th street. The corner, No. 985, was withdrawn at $6,900 and one of the inside houses at $2,200. The other four were not offered.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction on Wednesday next, the 30th inst., in the Auction Room No. 59 Liberty street, the five-story four-family brick tenement, with two stores, No. 311 East 48th street, and the four-story and basement dwelling No. 109 East 69th street. Brooklyn Notes.

THE SHORE DRIVEWAY.

Negotiations have been concluded for the purchase by the Park Board of the following lands, lying on the Shore road and extending from 66th street to Fort Hamilton avenue: The Aruehl Hotel property, situated on 4th avenue and the Shore road and extending to Denyse street, including four and two-tenths acres of land under water. The price paid for this property is $80,000. The Thorne property, on the west side of the Shore road, nearly opposite 74th street, consisting of a plot 40x120, for which $3,000 is to be paid. The Bliss property, commencing at 2d avenue, between 66th street and Wakeman place to Narrows avenue, including fifteen and four one-hundredths acres of land under water. The property comprises about 247 lots, exclusive of the land under water, and was purchased for $300,000. The Schenck property, commencing on the northwest corner of 88th street and the Shore road and extending to the water front, and including one and seventy-eight one-hundredths acres of land under water, the land above high water mark being about 6,300 square feet in area. This property was purchased for $12,000. The Commissioner of Parks also has under contract the following properties, lying on the Shore road and extending from 66th street to Fort Hamilton avenue, and also about 220 acres of land lying under water. Following is a list of the owners of the property under contract: C. C. Bennett, John Dickinson, G. H. Bressette, Henry Bownes, T. M. Armstrong, F. O. Matheson, D. S. Beasley, estate of G. G. Bergen, W. R. Bennett, Adolphus Bennett, Jacques Van Brunt, Ruloff Van Brunt, C. B. Van Brunt and Isaac Bergen. The Department of Parks has at its disposal the sum of $1,200,000 with which to purchase land. Of this sum it has already spent about $400,000, leaving about $800,000 with which to acquire the last named or other properties. The lands when acquired by the Park Department will be used for a driveway to Fort Hamilton, with a bicycle path and walks running parallel with the main driveway, which is to be 50 feet in width, while the bicycle path is to be 20 feet wide. Work will be commenced on the Speedway as soon as the Department takes title to all the required property.

THE CITY HALL DOME.

Nothing has been heard of the famous City Hall tower for a long time. Plans have been drawn, bids taken, and there the matter has stood ever since. The bill passed by the Legislature authorizes the expenditure of the sum of $100,000, to be used in the restoring of the City Hall tower and in repairs to the building generally. The preliminary estimates taken by the committee were within the prescribed limit. The original plans have been modified and elaborated against the advice of the successful architect on the ground of cost. When estimates were taken they ranged from $170,000 to over $210,000. These, it will be seen, are entirely beyond the sum at the disposal of the committee. And as they are averse to asking for another appropriation, Building Commissioner Bush, who is also one of the committee, has been asked to select from the plans the work most essential to the restoring of the building to a good condition, and give the committee an estimate for the work. Commissioner Bush is at work with the architect on the plans and will take preliminary bids on the cost of the work which he will submit to the committee for further action, though judging from what has taken place it might be reasonably asked whether this is not mere temporising and whether the matter stands in the shape the committee would most desire to see it in.

A CANDIDATE FOR THE SENATE.

DANIEL B. THOMPSON, regular Democratic candidate for Senator in the Eighth Senatorial District, was born in Ithaca, N. Y., in 1843. When he was three years of age his parents removed to Pittsburg, Pa., where his father had received an appointment as one of the professors in the Western University of Pennsylvania. The University having burned down, his father opened a seminary for young ladies in Pittsburg, and in this seminary under his father's tuition, he received his education. In 1860 he was elected professor of mathematics in the State Normal School for the Twelfth District of Pennsylvania, at Edinboro, Erie County. He remained in this position until 1863. In December, 1863, he received an appointment as Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives of the United States, which office he occupied until April, 1867, meantime studying law under Hon. Clinton Lloyd, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, and Hon. Robert B. Carnahan, United States District Attorney of the Western District of Pennsylvania. He was admitted to the bar at Pittsburg, Pa., in November, 1866, and practiced law there from April, 1867, until April 1868, when he removed to Brooklyn, where he has ever since been actively engaged in the practice of his profession. From 1870 until 1873 he was law reporter of the Brooklyn daily Eagle. From 1873 to 1875 he was in partnership with ex-Gov. E. Louis Lowe of Maryland. In 1893 he was a candidate for the Assembly in the Fifteenth Assembly District, but was defeated by Albert A. Wray, who is the present nominee of the Republican party against him.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.
ESTABLISHED MARCH 21st 1868.

14 AND 16 VESEY STREET,

TELEPHONE, CORTLANDT 1370.

New York, October 19, 1895

To the Building Material Trades:

Dear Sirs:

What do you think of adding a new department to your business? A department, the functions of which will be as follows:

1. Keep you informed daily of all prospective building operations as soon as the owners begin to talk about action or the architects to formulate plans;

2. Keep you informed of the status of all building operations that interest you, from their inception to their final completion;

3. Give you detailed reports of the materials (of the class you sell) that are needed in every building;

4. The names and addresses of owners, architects, chief contractors, etc., of new buildings;

5. Answer all questions you may desire answered on any of the matters mentioned above, etc., etc.

In short, would you like to attach to your business equipment a large, well organized, thoroughly equipped Bureau of Intelligence, which would furnish you daily with sifted, direct, verified, organized reports of what is going on in the market; Who the Buyers are; What they want; when and where you may find them. The facts you want are put under your eyes, visible at a glance, every morning, so that you can--

1. Push ahead to get your share of business;

2. Spare your representatives the expensive game of hunting aimlessly over the field for orders. Give them the pointers; send them direct to the man who wants to buy, armed with information as to the thing wanted. Twice the amount of ground can be covered in this way;

3. Keep yourself (the Head of the Firm) informed of what is going on. Check off what your representatives are doing.

A good thing, a Bureau like this, Eh! But, perhaps you shrink from the expense of salaries to a score of men to travel among architects, owners and others; and no doubt you don't underestimate the task of organizing this Bureau, managing it, supplying it with brains? Well the Record and Guide (established 1868, the leading Real Estate and Building Journal of the United States) will do the work for you for about fourteen cents a day. That the work will be well done, is guaranteed by the high reputation of the Record and Guide. We know what you want. We have the capital and the experience. You can avail yourself of both for fourteen cents a day. Can you afford to be without this service? It won't of course sell your goods, but, if in the space of a year, you get only one pointer that finds you a customer, the service has paid for itself many times over. This is an age of specialties. You can't do this work as well for yourself, even at a cost of as many dollars as we ask cents. We want to talk to you further about this Bureau of ours, and are at your service.

Shall our representative have the pleasure of calling upon you in a day or two? Send us a postal card.

Yours truly,

RECORD AND GUIDE,

(Building News and Information Department.)

P. S. The Record and Guide guarantees the accuracy, the thoroughness and the progressiveness of this service. Neither money nor effort will be spared to make it perfect and advance it beyond any service now known. Don't pay big prices for information. Avail yourself of our advantages.

MORTGAGES.

TABLE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

John F. Moore Building Company of New York City; capital, $500, and directors, J. F. Moore, Martha M. Moore and W. L. Paulscraft of New York City.

BRICKS.—Everything seems to be moving along very nicely on market for Hards. There is no unusual anxiety shown in the demand, or buoyant tendency to values, but a slow, steady gain of tone that permits sellers retaining such advantages as may develop without necessity for special exertion on their part. Those conditions, however, are probably much healthier and more likely to last than a forced advance, and altogether, it looks very much as though the brick market is upon solid ground. This week's receipts have been large, but good weather for out door work, and some tendency to pile stock where facilities were available, have produced a demand quite balancing the supply and kept the market cleaned up, while upon prices the effect has been slightly stimulating. The reports from all operators show about 12½c. above last week, and the range on North Rivers is now placed at $4.75@5.25, bringing the extremes pretty close together, but that condition is natural in view of the generally uniform quality of the bricks offering. At the close, makers of the best Jerseys are talking about refusing $4.75 on fresh offerings. Pales are wanted to some extent if showing good quality. It is understood that all the stock on the Hudson River yards at the opening of the present week was frozen and that with one or two important exceptions makers have quit work for the season.

DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS.—Trade cannot be called entirely satisfactory. There is quite a little bunch of work going on upon special orders for odd lots, etc., but demand for standard list goods is slow and unsatisfactory, and sellers find no basis upon which they can reap an advantage. Material, including pine lumber, glass and metal trimmings are all somewhat higher, but no reflection can as yet be obtained in either doors, sash or blinds. The West remains about as bad as ever, and a recent report in the Northwestern Lumberman says: "The general tone of the sash, door and blind market is no better than it was a week ago. Demand for stock goods is light all over the country, holding about the same this month that it did for September. The fall trade from the start has been a disappointment, and no activity in business is now looked for before spring. The Western factories are reasonably busy on odd work, but inquiries have begun to drop off, owing to the near approach of cold weather.

Prices are still maintained, and although stocks are heavy it is likely that a sufficient reduction of the output will be made during the winter months to make it possible to keep discounts where they are A meeting of the Manufacturers' Association was held in this city at which the question of curtailment was fully discussed, the conclusion being that there should be a reduction of at least 40 per cent between November 1 and March 1. While it is not yet certain that the curtailment will be as great as desired, yet the certainty that there will be a material reduction of the output inspires confidence in the ability to maintain present discounts."

GLASS.—Trade in American window glass has been very fair and shows every indication of making steady gain. The combinations formed by manufacturers and by jobbers and the apparent thorough understanding between the two organizations is convincing to buyers that affairs are upon solid foundation, and while there is no avidity shown in the demand orders come along with increasing freedom. Prices have advanced fractionally on local market, and there has also been a slight gain on imported stock, to which buyers make no objection. Altogether, the situation looks healthy and promising. Plate glass is reported somewhat dull, new orders coming in slowly and no great anxiety being shown to exact delivery of parcels due on contract.

LATH.—Receivers continue in good humor. They have not had a very great amount of business because the stock was not here to handle, but the absence of important supplies has helped in matter of price and the tone is now apparently strong, with $1.80 inside and $1.85 quoted. Demand appears cautious from some few quarters, but in the main is promising and especially from dealers, local and outside, who for various reasons prefer getting in their winter stock at an early date. Reports from the Eastward are strong.

LIME.—Strange as it may appear the market has not only stiffened in tone, but actually made an advance in price. It is certainly a gratification to be able to make such a record for this market,

ON the whole what is happening abroad is having a very limited influence upon prices of securities in New York If London or Berlin dumps a big load of our securities, prices will, of course, show the fact, but as the activity and loss in values has been so very largely in the industrials, which are not held abroad at all, it cannot be said that either the liquidation in Kaffirs, or the political news of the week, whether from Turkey or from China, has been the prime mover in bringing about the fall of prices here. That was brought about by operators who found they could not end the state of stagnation that had existed for sixty days, in any other way. The result has been that some timid and weak holders have been induced to sell, and the process of working on the fears of the one and the poverty of the other, may be continued further, resulting in still lower quotations. But the feeling among the herd is so generally bearish and current gossip and news of the day is all so directed toward the gloomy side that a change cannot be far off; it usually is near when the public have been converted to any particular side. If New York is to sympathize with London and Berlin whenever they get a war scare, this market will be a good thing for one who is only a buyer to keep out of until the news from abroad is more favorable. At the moment the affairs of both Turkey and China and the attitudes of the great powers toward them are such that serious trouble may arise at any moment, which would cause a panic on the European exchanges. In this condition of things the long indifference of foreigners to our securities is after all not such a great evil as has hitherto been thought. If our market cannot be depressed by the unloading of foreign holdings upon it, as, for instance, was the case in 1890, there is no reason why the influence of financial or political troubles abroad on prices here should not only be short lived but of moderate extent also. Only a danger that imperils the gain we have made in trade and commerce since the troubles of 1893, ought to be regarded as serious and of a nature to bring about a big and sudden slump in stock market quotations.

GRADUALLY the nature of Russia's position toward China will come out. It is clear now that it is not that of the philanthropic bill discounter some people were obliging enough to believe six months ago. What the actual agreement between the two countries is will not be publicly known for some time. No doubt it is known in the foreign offices of all the powers interested and will be let out bit by bit to prevent, if possible, its consummation. The form in which the story of Russia's intended occupation of Chinese ports appeared and its appearance at the time when the first part of the indemnity to Japan was to be paid, and when the latter power had been as good as notified to speedily evacuate the territory she now holds on the Chinese mainland, suggests that it was probably purposely put out in a form that could be denied, but would, at the same time, so awaken public attention to the state of affairs in the far East as to justify Japan's holding the important strategical positions she is in now until she gets assurances that Russian troops and war vessels will not occupy them as soon as her own get out. The great public is, of course, astonished whenever any of these moves in the game are openly made, but the whole facts are known to the ministers of the great powers who are playing this beautiful game of supremacy in the western Pacific. The terms of any agreement made by China could be, and no doubt were obtained by the judicious application of money. The fact of this knowledge would be guarded as zealously by England or Japan as by Russia until the proper time comes for making it known. The game to be played by England and Japan is to keep Russia out of actual occupation of China. So long as the control is a paper one there is not much danger. Powers like China and Turkey accept favors whenever offered and often agree to conditions because they know other interested powers will not allow them to be fulfilled. Russia had it her own way with Turkey up to the treaty of San Stephano, but the treaty of Berlin finally closed the episode. To-day Russia seems to be getting everything she wants in China, but the final disposition of the matters involved will have ultimately to become the subject of a more general agreement from participation in which neither Great Britain nor Japan will permit themselves to be excluded, and let whatever else may be said a combination of Great Britain and Japan in the farther Pacific would to-day be invincible.

Constructural Activity in 1895.

THE latest obtainable information confirms the view, and does something more than confirm the view presented in these columns two weeks ago, that the building year of 1895 in New York City is proving a most satisfactory one. We showed that up to September 30th work had begun on 61 buildings, costing $100,000 or more each, and on which the total estimated cost actually figured up to the enormous amount of $20,000,000 or more, for which the plans were filed since December 31st last. We have since been informed that the number of buildings erected this year to October 23d, costing $100,000 or more, was 86. The difference in time would not, of course, account for the discrepancy between 61 and 86, and we presume, as is no doubt the case, that the latter number includes sufficient for which the plans were filed previous to January 1st last year, to reconcile the two. In our review of the building work of the year no account was taken of that carried over from last year, the conclusions being based wholly on the figures of plans filed since January 1st, and the valuable information collected since that date by our Building News Bureau. We have, however, obtained some reliable figures showing the number of buildings that were being erected or altered on October 1st last, as well as the number erected or altered during the year up to a week ago, which cannot fail to be of interest to the trade, and which are here immediately subjoined:

Buildings being erected and altered Oct. 1, 1895:
New	1,982
Addition	611	2,593
Tenements erected and building Jan. 1 to Oct. 23, 1895	1,917
Dormant permits on plans filed prior to May 29, 1895	150
Total tenements applied for or erected this year		2,067
Buildings erected or altered from Jan. 1 to Oct. 23, 1895		5,254
No. of these buildings costing $100,000 or more		86

Besides the point previously referred to, it will be a matter of pleasurable surprise to notice the number of tenements that have gone up, or are going up, and the small proportion for which permits have not been taken out. When the rush of plans came upon the Department as a result of the amendment of the law relating to the building of tenements, it was thought, and the belief has still maintained, that only a small portion were intended for prompt use, and that the majority were simply put on file to secure to the owners of lots, then present or prospective, the advantages of building under the old law. According to the official figures given above, this does not appear to be the case, or not to the extent that was first supposed. The 1,917 tenements erected and building mentioned, in the above table include, presumably, some hundreds for which the plans were filed prior to January 1st last, and apparently it is assumed, with reason too, though not of necessity correctly in every case, that the taking out of permits means immediate operations on the ground. Still the number of tenement-house plans lying dormant is, in view of earlier impressions, surprisingly small, and the fact must be taken to indicate a larger number of tenements built this year than the earlier figures and facts obtainable suggested

THE present canvass in the sister city across the East River is being made almost entirely upon the question of consolidation. It is unfortunately characteristic of Brooklyn that this discussion is about two years late, and that most of the excitement is due to the exertions made by the party that wants to undo the work done at the polls last fall. The Consolidation League has put forward an address showing the advantage to the taxpayers of consolidation with New York, and say besides: "Consolidation means more bridges, more facilities for travel, more improvements in our streets and avenues, more schools, more investments in real estate for rental purposes, and less shifting and uncertain rentals, more activity in all kinds of business, and more civic pride in what is destined to be the great metropolis of the world with all the attendant advantages." Hence the League is in favor of the passage of a bill to effect consolidation, and opposes the referendum which the League of Legal Citizens advocate with a view of giving the voters another opportunity of saying whether they accept or decline the union. The anti-Consolidationists are working like beavers. The agents of the L. L. C.'s have tackled every known consolidationist of prominence in an endeavor to bring him back to autonomous views. Assemblyman Friday, who knows more about the doings of both factions than perhaps any other man in Brooklyn, said to a RECORD AND GUIDE reporter recently: "I believe that if the Consolidation League, the Real Estate Exchange, and other organizations known to be in favor of, and working for consolidation, do not shake off the apathy into which they have apparently fallen, the 'antis' will succeed in getting in a solid delegation against the bill, which will be presented at the next session, and will kill whatever chances it now has of passing. Now is the time when all Consolidationists should get together and fight for the election of candidates who are known to be in favor of the bill, for it is not in the Legislature that the main struggle will take place, but at the polls in next week. Judging from the utterances of some of the candidates, I have grave fears for the future of the bill. The anti-Consolidationists are so well organized, and use their power so effectively, that there is scarcely a well-known man in Brooklyn to-day who has not at one time or another felt their influence." That the Assemblyman is right is shown by results of the canvass of candidates made by the League of Legal Citizens, which gives a very large majority in favor of a resubmission of the question to the decision of the citizens of Brooklyn.

Capital For New States.

"THE Judge and the Colonel" is the title of a well-written, well-printed, and well-illustrated little pamphlet that is put into the hands of travelers by one of the railroads interested in developing localities about Denver and the Rocky Mountain region in general. It is the story of a trip made to the different points of interest by a rich and titled Englishman, an influential Eastern capitalist, and two well-informed and intelligent Denverites. The visitors to the new West are captivated by the country and its people, invest heavily and satisfactorily, and finally take up their residence in Colorado. From first to last it is one long, glad dream of beautiful scenery, health-giving air, intelligent citizens, enchanted visitors, and prosperous investments. From the consumptive woman who is carried past on a stretcher, having left Davos in Switzerland for Colorado, to the wielder of English millions, all thrive and prosper, and are pleased. The existence of populism is merely hinted at in order to state that it is a thing of the past, the effects of the decline in silver are mentioned only to show that they have been overdrawn, and that gold is what the State can really produce best after all. The lack of rain appears as a real advantage by making possible the surer and better methods of irrigation.

The pamphlet is, of course, a sign of returning prosperity. An industrial depression is a time during which the fear of loss overbalances the hope of gain in the minds of those who control capital, and even sound enterprises cannot be pushed. As the pendulum swings the other way hope of gain overbalances the fear of loss, and the wildest schemes obtain support. We are tending towards the latter state of mind, and both those who have things to sell and those who have the means to buy are drifting with the tide. It would be a great mistake for an Easterner or an Englishman, smarting from recent heavy losses, to throw the little pamphlet away with the testy assertion that those who published it and all who aided and abetted them were swindlers. In fact the development of a new country necessarily involves risks. Fortunes are likely to be made and fortunes sunk; there will be periods of discouragement and periods of extravagant expectations; and as a rule honesty and brotherly love are not unequally distributed between those who borrow and those who lend, between the absentee investor and the resident manager of enterprise. At the outset both parties feel kindly towards each other; one is delighted to borrow, the other is glad to lend. If the enterprise is prosperous these feelings of mutual regard may continue, for it is tolerably easy to divide profits. But when it comes to a matter of dividing losses the partnership is apt to be dissolved in anger and one party is considered a Shylock while the other is considered a dishonest bankrupt.

Of course there are many essentially dishonest enterprises, especially in an industry involving great risks, such as mining, or in a very new industry such as irrigation. Among the schemes that attract capital in large amounts there are many counterparts of "Rafferty's Ditch," mentioned by Bret Harte, the same being an enterprise for "taking water from where it could not be got to where it was not wanted." Arizona and New Mexico have suffered much from this financiering of unsound enterprises, of which the local managers and stock speculators were the only beneficiaries. One man said of a certain mine in Arizona that it was better for his purposes than a thoroughly valuable mine because it ran "pockety" and uneven, "just the sort of a mine for a stock company." What he valued was not a mine suitable for mining—that would speedily be owned by absentee capitalists—but a mine which made a suitable basis for stock-jobbing, and which called periodically for large expenditures that must be made through himself.

In a new industry like irrigation "the things we don't know" as yet constitute a large share of our information about it, and mistakes are probably much more common than downright dishonesty, but both are present. We have in mind two small enterprises for "developing water" in Arizona. One was essentially dishonest and the other essentially mistaken, but the wind-blown, flood-swept sands of the mesa have buried the "works" of both in total loss. The investors who succeed in a great irrigation enterprise may find themselves possessed of a perpetual mortgage on a large and rich agricultural district. The prize is valuable but it must not be forgotten that the risk is great.

Improved appliances for the transportation of persons and intelligence daily make the right management of distant properties more feasible, but always the best and most productive capital that goes into a new State is that which goes with its owners, or accumulates as the result of the activity of immigrants. While portions of this may from time to time be mistakenly invested yet the likelihood of blunders is reduced to a minimum, and dishonest management is all but impossible. Yet, more and more, absentee proprietorship comes to be an important factor in the swift development of our new States, and some of the evils recognized in the absentee ownership of land cannot but cling to the system.

The administration of distant enterprises is an art which Americans have not sufficiently cultivated. It will probably be admitted that on the whole, and from the investor's standpoint, the English manage these things better than we do. An American investor is apt to travel a great deal and to delude himself into the belief that he can be in several places at once. He tries to become acquainted with a section of the country by viewing it "from a car window," and to judge correctly of men and enterprises by staying a few days at a hotel and being shown about by the members of the local "Board of Trade." The Englishman is not thus superficial. In a given enterprise the men who really advance the money may not leave London at all, but they are pretty sure to send out some man of conservatism and experience, whose interests are indissolubly bound up with their own. He goes, not to visit the new section where investments are in prospect, but to live there. Usually he regards himself as an exile working for the one purpose of earning his recall, but at any rate he identifies himself with the place and work to which he goes sufficiently to understand it thoroughly and report upon it intelligently. However conservative they may be in other ways, the English are never afraid to travel far and to push deep into the wilderness. For these reasons many of the best paying properties in the mountainous West are in the hands of English companies, and large streams of annual revenue derived from them pass Eastward across the Atlantic.

THE rumor now current in London that Russia has made a treaty with China, whereby she is to occupy Port Arthur as the terminus for the trans-Liberian railway, is probably false so far as the immediate plans of Russia are concerned, but it unquestionably represents the ultimate object of Russia's policy in respect to the development of Siberia. Some concession has certainly been obtained from China as compensation for assistance recently rendered; but if that compensation does seriously threaten the interests of Great Britain and Japan, it is scarcely probable that it would be made public before Russia is prepared to maintain her acquisitions by throwing an army into the disputed territory; something which she could not effectively do until the railway is much nearer completion than it is at present. The importance of this railway can scarcely be overestimated. While the other nations of Europe are spending large sums of money in developing distant colonies in Africa—colonies of doubtful value, which in case of war would fall an easy prey to a strong sea-power—Russia, by means of this railway, is opening up a territory practically inaccessible to the other European nations, with an admirable climate, fertile, abounding in mineral wealth and suitable to the life of Europeans. In the southwest and south of Siberia Slav colonization is a natural process to be hastened in the near future by the facilities offered by the new railway, but not due to direct state encouragement. In the southeast, according to the reports of recent travellers, events are hurrying on an imperial "plantation" of Slavs, which is sure to play an important part in the development of the Far East. The Amoor valley is the site of the colony. The soil is very fertile, the vegetation rich, and the climate is described as a "combination of what is best in the temperature and weather of California and Canada." The natural drawbacks which have hitherto retarded its development are the immense distance from Russia proper by land and the unfortunate deflection of the lower Amoor by the coast range of mountains, which [illegible] enormous volume of the lower river rolling due north for 500 miles, in place of pouring into the ice-free waters of the Sea of Japan. The new railway will open up as much of this valley as is valuable for agriculture, but at the point of its northern bend the railway must leave the river and seek an artificial passage to a point on the Pacific. According to present plans the eastern terminus will be Valdivostock, but it is evidently essential to the whole plan that an ice-free port should be provided for proper connection of this territory with the outside world. It will be seen, consequently, that the building of this railway entirely alters the aspect of politics in the far East, and however the interests of Great Britain and Japan may be threatened by the eastward expansion of Russia, it may be doubted whether they can in the end prevent it. Russia cannot be circumscribed on every side, and the line of the least resistance is at present to the East. Not a few English observers and writers believe that Great Britain would be wise not to interfere with such a movement, because it diverts Russian attention from more dangerous schemes.

Senatorial Election.

There seems to be but little doubt that Senator Cantor will be elected in the Twentieth Senate District, and as Mr. Cantor, as a man and a legislator, has always shown himself alive to the wants of the city, particularly the upper and growing portion of it, where he has always lived, his election will especially please those of his constituents, who are interested in real estate. The experience of Senator Cantor in both branches of the Legislature, where he has served eleven years, the longest consecutive term ever accorded to any representative from the city, will be of great value in the coming session, and there are many measures of interest to real estate coming up where his ability and experience will be needed.

Sidewalk Protections in Building Operations.

As a result of the accident at the Johnston Building, corner of Exchange place and Broad street, a correspondence took place between the Department of Public Works and the Department of Buildings, in which the latter was asked to see that the ordinance requiring the erection of roof-sheds over the sidewalks, where any building over three stories in height is going up, was complied with. Below are given the reply of the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings to this request, as well as the representation addressed later by him to Commissioner Brookfield on the same subject. The position taken by Mr. Constable will be appreciated by the builders of this city as a very proper endeavor to protect their interests:

NEW YORK, Oct 12, 1895.

H. H. LLOYD, Esq., Bureau of Encumbrances, etc.:

DEAR SIR—Your letter of October 4th was duly received and contents noted, and would state in reply that after giving the matter due consideration, I am of the opinion that the enforcement of this ordinance would impose a great and unnecessary hardship upon a great many builders in this city, whose operations are of such size and nature that the erection of the roof or shed required by the ordinance would be entirely uncalled for.

As to the construction of this roof or shed, that is a matter that could not be covered by a general specification or a clause of a permit, as the construction in every instance would be governed by the size, condition, etc., and the amount of material, if any, that would be stored on the deck.

I note that the erection of these structures would not come under the supervision of any department, except as to the issuance of permits, and would, therefore, call your attention to the necessity of impressing the builders with their liability, should loss of life or limb occur in consequence of insufficient care in erecting these structures. Very respectfully,

(Signed) STEVENSON CONSTABLE, Supt. of Buildings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14, 1895.

HON. WILLIAM BROOKFIELD, Commissioner of Public Works:

DEAR SIR—In reference to the recent ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen in regard to the construction of shed structures in front of all buildings over three stories in height, I would respectfully call your attention to the fact that in many instances this will impose a very great hardship upon owners, builders and contractors in this city. This should be a discretionary matter and only made necessary where, in the judgment of the proper official, the safety of life and limb makes it necessary, as on our crowded thoroughfares, avenues, etc. Again, such structures can be used to great advantage as a deck on which material used in construction can be placed; therefore, the material, strength and form of construction should also be in the hands of the proper official so as to insure the necessary strength. Again, such a structure is in many cases a bridge over vaultage which is in course of construction, and would consequently require modification to meet each particular case.

I personally would advise that the law be made clear and distinct as to requiring a proper passage way to be maintained in front of every building under building operation, but as to deck or shed houses, as now called for under this ordinance, I would most certainly request that a modification be made of the same.

Trusting that you will give these suggestions your consideration, I am, etc.,

(Signed) STEVENSON CONSTABLE, Supt. of Buildings.

Death Damages.

The Court of Appeals has sustained what would appear to be the reasonable construction of the amendment of the Constitution abolishing the limit of $5,000 as damages for injuries where death ensues. The decision is in a line with that given recently in the Rapid Transit case, and the general result would be that the revised Constitution can have no force or effect prior to January 1, 1896. The case in point was a widow's claim against John Weber for $5,000 for loss of her husband on the Havemeyer Building. After the adoption of the constitutional amendment removing the limit on damages for loss of life, application was made to Judge Patterson to bring the case within the amendment, and the motion was allowed. Judge Pryor at Special Term reversed this decision. The General Term reversed Judge Prior and sustained Judge Patterson. Now the Court of Appeals has overruled the General Term and sustained the opinion of Judge Pryor that the constitutional amendment cannot apply to cases now in court.

Strength of Timber.

At the fifth annual convention of the American Association of Railway Superintendents of Bridges and Buildings, held recently at New Orleans, the Committee on Strength of Bridge and Trestle Timbers presented a very valuable report relative to tests of the principal American bridge and trestle timbers, which, while intended more directly for the use of the railroad engineer, is also of value to every other builder with timber. This report has special reference to Southern yellow pine, white pine, fir and oak. The committee had before it the data relative to tests of the principal American bridge and trestle timbers, and the recommendations of the leading authorities on the subject of strength of timber during the last twenty-five years, and those, notwithstanding, stated that there was a necessity for more extensive, thorough and reliable series of tests conducted on a truly scientific basis, approximating, as nearly as possible, actual conditions encountered in practice. The test data at hand and the summary criticisms of leading authorities, the report stated, seemed to indicate the correctness of certain general conclusions which may be summarized as follows:

1. Of all structural materials used for bridges and trestles, timber is the most variable as to the properties and strength of different pieces classed as belonging to the same species.

2. The various names applied to one and the same species in different parts of the country lead to great confusion in classifying or applying results of tests.

3. Variations in strength are generally directly proportional to the density or weight of timber.

4. Seasoned lumber is stronger than green timber.

5. Structures should, in general, be designed for the strength of green or moderately seasoned lumber of average quality.

6. Age or use do not destroy the strength of timber, unless decay or season-checking takes place.

7. Timber, unlike materials of a more homogeneous nature, as iron and steel, has no well defined limit of elasticity.

8. Knots, even when sound and tight, are one of the most objectionable features of timber, both for beams and struts. The full-size tests of every experimenter have exploded the old view that sound and tight knots are not detrimental to timber in compression.

9. Excepting in top logs of a tree, or very small and young timber, the heart-wood is, as a rule, not as strong as the material further away from the heart.

10. Top logs are not as strong as butt logs, provided the latter have sound timber.

11. The results of compression tests vary less for one species of timber than any other kind of test.

12. Long timber columns generally fail by lateral deflection or buckling when the length exceeds the least cross-sectional dimension of the stick by 20. In practice the unit stress for all columns over 15 diameters should be reduced in accordance with the various rules and formulæ established for long columns.

13. Uneven end-bearings and eccentric loading of columns produce more serious disturbances than usually assumed.

14. The tests of full-size long compound columns, composed of several sticks bolted and fastened together at intervals, show essentially the same ultimate unit resistance for the compound column as each component stick would have if considered as a column by itself.

15. More attention should be given to the compressive bearing resistance of timber with and across grain, especially the latter, owing to the tendency of an excessive crushing stress across grain to indent the timber, thereby destroying the fiber and increasing the liability to speedy decay.

Besides these conclusions which have general application to the use of timber in building, the Committee presented some tables of working and breaking unit, stresses, based on arbitrary factors of safety, but as they apply only to conditions existing in railroad structures they are omitted here. The results arrived at can only be regarded as tentative, but the report is very valuable as being the first attempt to deal in a large and comprehensive way with the question of the strength of timber used under varying conditions in building and as forming a basis for a thorough and exhaustive inquiry into a matter that has not hitherto received the attention it has deserved. As is well known the authorities on the points involved are at considerable variance, so that the adoption of any one is purely a question of individual preference and, if their conflicting views can be reconciled, it would be a practical and a scientific gain.

The Willis Avenue Bridge.

On the representation of the First Avenue Bridge and East Side Citizens' Improvement Association the Board of Aldermen has directed the Committee on Bridges and Tunnels to make inquiry and confer with the Corporation Counsel with a view to seeing whether work on the proposed bridge to connect Willis and 1st avenues can be expedited.

Elevated Railroad Damages.

The Court of Appeals in the case of Bookman & Malcolm against the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Company has adopted by four members of the court to three the contention of the railroad company that the operation of their railroad has improved the value of abutting property. The minority opinion held that the increased value of the property in question was due to the natural growth of the city.

Correspondence.

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT CONTROVERSY.

OCTOBER 28, 1895.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Having read the letter by "An Architect" in the last issue of your paper, I beg leave to make reply as follows:

While it is true that complaints of a personal nature predominate, yet these same have their offspring in arbitrary rulings and peculiar interpretations of structural problems of particular cases in which each individual complainant is identified.

In architecture, where each structure is a problem in itself, governed by conditions peculiar to itself, it is impossible to formulate a code to cover all cases, and doubtless the framers of the present building law had this in mind when they inserted the clause that the superintendent shall have discretionary powers.

The ideal superintendent, therefore, would be one who would not alone be one of superior judgment, but one who would bring to his aid a large and varied practical experience, and who would surround himself with assistants of the highest technical skill. To come to the point, is such the case? If one may judge from the present demoralization of the building interests, owing to absurd rulings and a multiplicity of petty annoyances, the answer is overwhelmingly in the negative.

It is true that the highest technical skill cannot be secured for meagre compensation, yet the present superintendent has publicly asserted that the new assistants are not alone able, but highly competent, and that they took office in the hope of better compensation in the future. I cannot see, therefore, where an increase of funds so much recommended will bring us relief.

I have not discussed the long and annoying delays in the transaction of departmental business and the evils that have resulted therefrom; but, this is self-evident, when a municipal department is conducted in such a manner as to inflict hardship and financial loss upon individuals, there must be a radical defect in its workings somewhere, and a public investigation will do no harm in any sense. If it is found that the department is conducted as it should be, it would be the means of vindication to the present superintendent and the utter route of his critics. If, on the other hand, it should be found that there is ample room for improvement for the transaction of business, it would lead to such reforms as would result in everlasting benefit to the building interests of the city.

So let us have an investigation by all means and get at the root of the evil. ANOTHER ARCHITECT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I was glad to read the letter in your last issue from "An Architect." In this controversy about the Building Department only the "kickers" have been heard, which is perhaps natural, and thus the idea has got abroad that the entire profession and building trade are totally disgusted with the present management of the Department. It is time that the other side was heard, and don't let it be forgotten, there is an "other side," which is composed not only of men who are not "down on" the present Superintendent, but of many others who, although they are discontented in some particulars with the management of the Department, are frank enough to acknowledge that in a very great many ways it is an immense improvement upon the old regime. In a fair allotment Mr. Constable should get his measure of praise as well as blame.

However you administer the Building Law there is bound to be trouble. It would require Omniscience itself to steer a steady course between the two extremes of (1) a lax, nugatory administration of the law bending it in this direction and that to suit the necessities and financial desires of individuals, and (2) a rigid administration of the law as enacted. In my own experience there have been many cases in which I have been obliged to struggle to have the undoubted intent of the law set aside or modified in order to meet special conditions which had to be satisfied if the building operations were to be carried out. I had to fight for these privileges, I say, and yet I am free to confess these requests of mine involved some real departure on the part of the Superintendent from a fairly strict interpretation of the law. The construction I proposed was, in my judgment, sufficiently sound, but it did not conform to the highest and safest standards, and had my clients been perfectly free I would not have advised them to adopt the expedient, save for which they could not build. Every architect has had to deal with cases of this kind, and I know the Superintendent of Buildings is besieged with requests of the sort I speak of, a refusal concerning which inevitably brings upon him denunciation for "arbitrary ruling." On the other hand, if he makes concessions, he places his reputation and even his personal liberty at stake.

"An Architect" is quite right in saying that hitherto we have got along so well with the Building Law mainly because it has been only loosely enforced. It is like the Sunday closing law. Enforce it, and everybody kicks. Yet there is the law, and it is not the duty of an official to make his actions conform to public necessities or public wishes. The law is his guide, and if the public don't like it, it is their business to have the law modified or repealed. But instead of attacking the problem in Albany they "go" for the official and make a noise in the newspapers. The popular work of legislation is always done after a law has been placed on the statute books. While lawmaking is going on at Albany the public stand aloof. They pay no effective attention to the action of their representatives.

They send a gang of ignorant venal politicians to the State Capital in the name of "politics," and give them a free field to do about as they like. Then if an honest official enforces the laws so manufactured, there is a general howl. The Sunday-closing law has been in force for years. Nobody has complained. Why shouldn't Roosevelt enforce it? We have a building law; why shouldn't Constable enforce it? What we require, apparently, is a law that isn't a law. If this is the popular demand, why not pass a sort of general enabling act to the effect that no official is to carry out any more of a law than he thinks best or the public demand. No wonder individuals explode once in a while with "the public be d——d." What can you do with the fools? AN ARCHITECT (No. 2.)

Transit, Rapid and Otherwise.

The Board of Aldermen adopted the following preamble and resolutions at its last meeting on the recommendation of the Railroad Committee:

Whereas, A number of years will be required for the completion of a new system of rapid transit in the City of New York, such as was approved by the voters at the last election; and

Whereas, The need of the city is pressing for immediately increased facilities for travel, and the Board of Experts of the Rapid Transit Commission has unanimously reported that this need will best be met by the extension or improvement of the present elevated railroad system;

Resolved, That the Board of Aldermen approve of and urge the granting to the Manhattan Railway Company of third track and other additional facilities by the Rapid Transit Commission, pending the development and completion of the proposed underground system; and

Resolved, That, in exchange for such additional facilities, the Manhattan Railway Company should be required to make full, reasonable and proper compensation to the city, and to adopt the best obtainable contrivances for the plant and rolling stock of the road, including noise-diminishing appliances for the roadbed, motors and cars.

The Railroad Committee of the Board of Aldermen has also under consideration a petition of the Westside Taxpayers Association, asking that the Board use its influence to secure a service of night trains on the Ninth Avenue Elevated line.

Counsel to the Rapid Transit Commissioners finally decided to apply at once to the Supreme Court to make the necessary announcement of the intention of the Commissioners to apply for the appointment of three Commissioners to pass upon the proposed routes in lieu of the consents of adjoining property owners. This announcement must be published for two weeks. The Commissioners, when appointed, must within ten days after their appointment give notice, in the manner to be prescribed by the Supreme Court, of the time when they will hear parties, and within sixty days of their appointment report their decision to that Court, unless it shall have extended the time.

Meantime the engineer to the Commission is proceeding with the preparation of detailed plans, and the counsel with the work of proparing for the sitting of the Commissioners.

REAL PROPERTY.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Does not the manure made upon a place hired for the season belong to the tenant if it is not stipulated in the lease that it should belong to the landlord?

Answer.—It belongs to the landlord. "Manure made upon a farm in the ordinary manner, from the consumption of its products, is regarded in this country as belonging to the realty, and would pass with the farm if sold, and may not be removed by a tenant in the absence of any special contract to the contrary. But in New Jersey it is held to be personal property, and not to pass with the realty as an incident or part of it." (Washburn on Real Property, pp. 13 and 14.)—LAW EDITOR.

BIGAMY.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A man who was married in the State of New York went to the State of Ohio and remarried without being divorced from his first wife, and during her lifetime, and then came back to New York, where he now is. Kindly let me know whether proceedings for bigamy against this man must be instituted in Ohio or New York?

Answer.—There is no doubt that proceedings may be instituted in Ohio. As to whether proceedings may be instituted in New York, there is a possible question. A recent amendment of the Penal Code reads as follows: "The following persons are liable to punishment within the State: . . . Subdiv. 5. A person who, being out of this State and with intent to cause within it a result contrary to the laws of this State, does an act which, in its natural and usual course, results in an act or effect contrary to its laws." This would seem to us to apply to a case of bigamy, but we are unable to ascertain whether, since the passage of this amendment, there have been any convictions in this State for bigamy committed in other States or countries.—LAW EDITOR.

EMINENT DOMAIN.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly answer in your next if possible. Two years ago a party buys a house and pays $15,000 for it, lives in lower part and fits two upper floors for purpose of renting out to families at an expense of $2,000 more. The city comes now and wants it for school purposes. Of course he wants his $17,000, but his own appraiser says he will not appraise it more than $15,000, which is perfectly right, but certainly the man should not be compelled to lose it. Now what should he do? Will the Commissioners consider a statement of the facts, outside of actual appraisement?

Answer.—It would be well for him to get another appraiser who can honestly swear that the property is worth in his opinion, $17,000. The Commissioners will take evidence of the amount that was paid for and expended on the property.—LAW EDITOR.

PROPERTY BOUGHT WITH PENSION MONEY.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A pensioner saves $500 of his pension money, with which sum he buys a lot for $2,000, the vendor taking back a mortgage for $1,500, on which he agrees to receive, every three months, as part payment, the amount received by the pensioner from the Government. Can the city collect taxes and assessments on the lot? What is the law of taxation on property purchased with pension money?

Answer.—The property is exempt from levy and sale under execution and also from taxation. See Section 1393 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and "Yates County Bank against Carpenter," 119 New York Court of Appeals Reports, page 550.—LAW EDITOR.

RATE OF INTEREST.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Can you inform us as to the date the legal rate of interest was changed from 7 per cent to 6 per cent?

Answer.—The law was passed in 1879, and took effect on January 1, 1880.—LAW EDITOR.

THE CITY IS LIABLE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Would you kindly answer the following question in your next edition? I have an artificial sidewalk in front of my house. The Department of Public Works have torn up about one hundred square feet of it in putting in a new hydrant. Who is required to replace the sidewalk? Thanking you in advance.

Answer.—The city, or the Department of Public Works should replace the sidewalk.—LAW EDITOR.

PARTY WALL.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly answer the following question: A and B each owns a house in Brooklyn, adjoining each other. There is only a partition wall separating. B tears down his house. Who rebuilds up wall for remaining house, A or B? Thanking you in advance for your excellent advice.

Answer.—If B tears down the party wall he commits a trespass, for which he can be held liable in damages.—LAW EDITOR.

Real Estate Market.

Brokers' sales have been more numerous this week than last, though the aggregate investment indicated by their reports will reach only the same figure, about $2,100,000. The buying has been more diversified, greatly to the satisfaction of holders of parcels of moderate value. An unexpected demand developed with the last week or ten days of October for residences, and they have been disposed of in unusual number to buyers who have bought for occupancy. Little has seemingly been accomplished with regard to business property, but the market for that class of realty is less dull than it appears to be. Several sales, two at least of Broadway parcels, have, we are assured, been brought to a successful issue by various brokers, who, obeying the instructions of their principals, have declined to discuss the transactions.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1894 and 1895.

The auctioneers have been busier than usual at the Broadway Salesroom since the beginning of the week, and succeeded in disposing of a large number of parcels. The latter included property offered at "public auction," and by direction of executors, as well as under partition and foreclosure decrees. Low prices have ruled throughout. The business of the last few days, despite several withdrawals, has demonstrated, however, that it is possible to sell for the account of individuals or estates realty in any section of the city, provided the owners are satisfied with obtaining prices consistent with the present dullness of the general market. Auction offerings nowadays are seldom of a gilt-edge description. In fact, they run rather to the other extreme. That being the case it is sheer folly for owners to have inferior property offered at auction with the expectation of realizing full value, according to their ideas, when it would be almost impossible for brokers to secure an offer of any reasonable kind from any of the investors and speculators numbered among their occasional or frequent customers.

That the demand even for vacant land in some localities has been at a standstill for many months was indicated on Monday at a voluntary sale by W. M. Ryan of a plot containing 7,150 square feet on the northwest corner of Macomb's Dam road and 152d street. It was knocked down for $13,900, or only $5 more than it sold for at an executor's sale of Faye estate holdings, conducted by Peter F. Meyer on March 28, 1893. An adjoining lot fronting on the road and containing 3,080 square feet was sold by the same estate in February, 1894, for $4,545.

The first day of the week brought forth one announcement that doubtless caused disappointment among the auction room habitues. It consisted of a notice displayed on Philip A. Smyth's stand of an adjournment without date of the sale of New York and Brooklyn property that had been advertised for Wednesday, by order of the executors of the estate of D. Westfall, deceased. The postponement was caused by the serious illness of one of the executors, Otto J. Eggers, who had been stricken with paralysis.

On Monday William Kennelly withdrew from foreclosure sale the factory Nos. 511 and 513 East 137th street. On the following day J. T. Boyd adjourned a partition sale of No. 356 Bowery until the 12th inst., and the following parcels offered at voluntary sale were withdrawn: No. 61 East 55th street, by W. M. Ryan on a bid of $28,000; Nos. 556 and 558 East 135th street, by Philip A Smyth on a bid of $17,600 each, and a lot 24x100 on Manhattan street, west of Amsterdam avenue, by William Kennelly on a final offer of $9,300. Wednesday's withdrawals were two lots forming a plot running through from St. Nicholas to Edgecombe avenue, south of 159th street, by Petty, Soulard & Walker on a bid of $10,000; the parcel Nos. 72 Christopher street and 65 Grove street at $36,000, and two lots on Jerome avenue, south of 183d street, at $1,475 each, by Peter F. Meyer & Co.; No. 157 West 129th street, at $13,800, and No. 1503 Park avenue on a bid of $9,400 by W. M. Ryan. The withdrawn Westfall properties referred to above comprised Nos. 4 and 6 New Chambers street, Nos. 5 to 7 James slip, No. 230 Eldridge street, and several Brooklyn parcels. On Thursday there were two withdrawals from foreclosure sale, No. 139 West 28th street by W. M. Ryan, and the northeast corner of Gouverneur and Henry streets by Philip A. Smyth. The latter property will be readvertised. Yesterday Philip A. Smyth adjourned sine die a foreclosure sale of a plot on Mott avenue.

John N. Golding will sell at auction, on the 12th instant, in the Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, the Columbia College leasehold dwelling, No. 628 5th avenue.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Isaac Walker has resold at a profit, which is said to amount to about $20,000, the five-story brick dwelling, with lot 27x98.9, No. 16 West 30th street, bought by him for $73,000 in August. We understand that Ranald H. Macdonald negotiated the sale, and that the seller has taken a lease of the building for fifteen years, at a rental commensurate with the consideration agreed upon.

Brooke & Georger have sold for Mrs. Underhill the four-story stone front dwelling, lot 16.8x98.9, No. 29 West 31st street, to William C. Adams for $45,000. The house was last sold in April, 1892, for $32,500. Mr. Adams is also the buyer, through the same brokers, at $42,500, of the adjoining and similar house, No 27 West 31st street, the sale of which by Mandelbaum & Lewine was reported last week. The latter firm secured the property in July for $36,000. It is said that Mr. Adams has already refused a substantial profit on his investment.

I. S. and M. S. Korn have purchased from the Earle estate the two-story brick stable, 25x90x100.5, No. 112 West 53d street.

The estate of Charles Payen is the seller at $235,000. The building sets back about 40 feet from Broadway, on the 10th street line where the width of the plot is 50 feet, owing to an easement held by Grace Church, which prevents any improvement of the vacant portion, and incidentally allows of an impressive view of the adjacent edifice being had for some distance to the south. Mr. Kahn denies the truth of the report circulated that he has resold the property, but it does not look reasonable to suppose that such a shrewd operator would purchase a Broadway corner so ill-favored in some respects without knowing in advance what disposition he could make of it.

A. Friedlander & Co., the lessees of the building at Broadway and White street, recently purchased by John T. Williams, have bought, through Max Danziger, the Waltham Building, a seven-story iron front structure, with lot 75x114.6, Nos. 1 to 5 Bond street, from Robbins & Appleton and Mrs. Pell for $250,000.

Prentiss his three-story residence, 20x60x79, No. 131 East 26th street, to William H. Wheeler for $21,000, and to Mr. Prentiss for Jefferson M. Levy the four-story stone front dwelling, lot 17x98.9, No. 119 East 38th street.

Concerning Real Estate Brokers and Agents.

The card of Ch. Volzing & Son, old-established and reliable real estate and house agents, appears on another page. The business was established by Mr. Ch. Volzing thirty-one years ago, and they have been located at their present address, No. 953 3d avenue, corner of 57th street, for over twenty years. Besides managing estates and renting and collecting the firm negotiates many sales of investment properties, and their list of such properties for sale is most complete. Messrs. Ch. Volzing, Fredk. Volzing and O. H. Dage comprise the firm. Mr. Dage is an extensive and successful operator on his own account, having handled twenty odd parcels of improved property on the East and West Sides during the past few months.

Broker Max Simon, of No. 791 Columbus avenue, near 99th street, is having the most successful season in his experience in the way of selling flats and corners in the vicinity of his office, where he has been located for five years. Mr. Simon's books show sales of improved properties negotiated by him aggregating close to $5,000,000, which shows that he is a most indefatiguable worker and successful negotiator. He also attends to renting and collecting and the placing of mortgage loans.

F. W. Belmont & Co. have just fitted up a new and commodious suite of offices at No. 150 Broadway. The firm do a general real estate business, their specialty, however, being exchanging of city and country property, in which particular they excel. They also give a fair share of attention to the placing of mortgage loans. The personnel of the firm consists of Messrs. F. W. Belmont, L. M. Sessions, H. E. Hawley and Arthur Belmont.

Trade Notes.

THE BRAENDER CELLAR DRAINER.

Illustrated on another page is an ingenious automatic device patented by one of the most active and successful builders in New York. It is operated by water pressure and is said to be unequalled for removing water from cellars, excavations, or any depression where water accumulates. Mr. Philip Braender, the patentee, will gladly show the cellar drainer in operation at his office, No. 263 West 118th street, and send an illustrated brochure and testimonials descriptive of the workings of the Braender cellar drainer, which is commended alike by plumbers, builders, realty owners and agents who have used the device with very satisfactory results. It is simple in construction, besides being strong, durable and non-corrosive. Mr. Braender's telephone call is 64 Harlem.

THE POMPEIAN MARBLE CO.

The firm of Thillman & Wennemer, manufacturers of interior decorative art marble, has been dissolved, and the business is now carried on by the Pompeian Marble Co. The company executes an artistic imitation of all imported colored marbles as the natural stone, and guarantees the precise decorative effect. Mr. F. Wennemer, the well-known architect, is general manager of the company, whose offices are at No. 204 East 86th street, and works at Nos. 319 to 325 East 64th street.

The attention of the architects and the building trades is called to the fact that Samuel Bailie & Son, dealers in and manufacturers of marble, have established a large new plant at Locust avenue and 139th street, this city, on property acquired by them some time since. A commodious and up-to-date building has been erected by them, which is equipped with an entirely new machinery outfit of the latest and most approved pattern. The land upon which they have settled comprises in the neighborhood of thirty city lots and has frontages on Locust avenue and the Harlem River. A substantial and roomy dock, with deep water, offers them special facilities for the landing of cargoes. The firm will, for the convenience of its patrons, continue its down-town office and yards at Nos. 312-314 East 22d street, with telephone connection with the main office, but all communications, to secure prompt attention, should be addressed to Locust avenue and 139th street. A new departure in their line will be the furnishing of domestic marble for building purposes, such as sills, lintels and fronts direct to builders. This firm is the first of a number of the most prominent marble manufacturers who have acquired land in this part of the city to settle and build works. Within a short time this section of the city will be the nucleus of the marble manufacturing industry. The telephone number of the main office at Locust avenue and 139th street is 118 Harlem, and of the down-town branch, 640 18th.

Fitzpatrick continues in business at the old stand, where he is prepared to receive orders and to make estimates for supplying all the goods which Fitzpatrick & Fitzgerald made their specialties promptly and on the best terms.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, NOVEMBER 2, 1895.

Brooklyn Notes

CORPORATE IMPUDENCE.

The New East River Bridge Commission invited representatives of the various railroad companies interested in the lines meeting at the Broadway ferry to discuss the question of running cars across the bridge, making a continuous passage to New York City. The invitation extended to the elevated roads as well as to the surface lines. Its object was to get all the information possible, with a view to preventing a recurrence on the new bridge of the troubles that have been experienced on the old. The most interesting view advanced was that of President Rossiter, of the Brooklyn Heights Company, that the Bridge Commission should compensate the railroad companies for running their cars over the bridge. As the railroad companies have hitherto strained every nerve to get any sort of a foothold on the bridge, and have made many offers for the privilege, Mr. Rossiter's view was, to say the least, surprising. It is safe to say that it will not be accepted by the Commission. The information received from the companies' representives will be carefully considered and the Commission's opinion given later. Meantime it will be well for Mr. Rossiter and those who think with him to study a little the conditions that now surround the granting of valuable transportation privileges in our great cities.

THE TERMINAL MUDDLE.

The Kings County Grand Jury for October in a presentment made yesterday recommended in regard to the Bridge terminal that a competent board of engineers, experienced in the management of traffic, be convened and the whole matter be laid before them to the end that if possible existing plans should be so modified and amended that the finished structure accommodate the public in the best possible manner.

VALUATIONS AND BUILDINGS.

President Harkness, of the Board of Assessors, has submitted a document to Mayor Schieren containing data regarding real estate valuations and assessments under the three last administrations. We give below the most interesting figures it contains, which relate only to the first twenty-eight wards, or the old city proper, and which may prove of interest at least, if not of value to real estate men. The statement shows that the aggregate increase of assessments for the fourteen years from 1881 to 1894 was $278,054,452, an average per year of $19,861,032. The new buildings erected in the same period were valued at $163,992,258, a yearly average of $11,713,733. The enhancement of valuations, exclusive of new buildings, was $114,062,194, averaging yearly for the fourteen years $8,147,357. The average tax rate for fourteen years was $2.66.5. Similar figures for the terms of the present and two preceding Mayors are as follows:

	Mayor Schieren.	Mayor Boody.	Mayor Chapin.
Average annual increase in assessed valuation of real estate	$11,663,412	$18,864,518	$21.659,097
Annual average increase in new buildings	9,413,587	15,615,775	15,671,316
State taxes	1,694,352	983,116	983,116
Increase	711,236	(equals .05 in tax rate)
Average tax rate	2.62	2.81	2.70 3-5

President Harkness goes on further to say that in the comparison a further reduction could be justly entertained, if a proper account were taken of the extraordinary items placed in the levy for the various purposes of the county towns, now wards of the city. The sum of $596,296, which Brooklyn is called upon to pay in State taxes this year, in excess of that of 1894, absorbs the tax on $21,743,600, of assessable property, equal to the taxes on 6,212 houses valued at $3,000 each, and it is also equal to an increased tax of 50 cents each for every man, woman and child in the city. Further, he meets the charge of excessive valuations with the following figures:

Assessed valuation of new buildings erected in 1895	$9,140,275
Net increase, real estate, 1895	8,183,682
Increase in value of new buildings assessed, exceeding net increase in real estate		$956,593
The amount of the decrease in the assessed valuation of real estate in the various wards throughout the city was		$984,243
Difference		$27,650

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Commissioner Bush, Superintendent of the Department of Buildings, has given out the following statement of permits issued during September and October, for the erection of new buildings and alterations and the estimated cost of same. The comparisons with the same period in 1894 show a marked increase in favor of 1895, and, so far as the figures go, a very encouraging condition of things in the building trades of Brooklyn:

	No.	Estimated cost.
Brick buildings	272	$2,422,354
Frame	289	550,180
Alterations	456	527,229
Total permits	1,017	$3,499,763
Total estimated cost of plans filed Sept. and Oct., 1894		2,758,686
Increase in favor two months, 1895.		$741,077

TRADE NOTE.

C. W. Dahl, mason and builder, of No. 215 Chauncey street, Brooklyn, has the contract for five three-story dwellings on Park place and Nostrand avenue, and has recently finished several similar houses on Dean street, near Kingston avenue, for John Fraser.
